Batman vampire cartoon

Batman: The Mystery of Batwoman (different franchise) Justice League: New Frontier (different franchise) Batman vs. Dracula is a 2005 live-video animated movie based on the Batman television series. It has a much darker tone than the show, and features Vicki Vale. The film was released on DVD on October 18, 2005 and made its TELEVISION debut on Cartoon Network's Toonam block on October 15, 2005. In a plot of Arkham Asylum during a bingo game, Penguin has told another prisoner that a large sum of money is hidden in Gotham Cemetery, the tombstone behind the cross. After the prisoner told the Joker, an alarm sounded and the guard screams that the Joker has escaped. Penguin uses the opportunity created to break out as well. Penguin meets with the Joker on his way to the graveyard, and they strike a deal - but the Joker loses time by crossing penguin and knocking him out of electrified Joy Buzzer. As Penguin watches, he sees Batman after the Joker and grins. Penguin reaches the cemetery, but it turns out that many headstones are crosses. Meanwhile, Batman and the Joker fight, ending the Joker's apparent death by falling into the water and being electrocuted by his own Joy Buzzers. In the cemetery, Penguin finds the crypt and cuts open the suspended coffin. In the process, he cuts his hand on the blade of an umbrella and blood drips inside the heart of the body. As Penguin leaves the crypt, the corpse is revived and receives new meat and organs. The penguin hears the body and sees Dracula's ascent. He runs, tries to escape, but Dracula follows the smell and trail of blood penguin cut. Dracula finds the night watchman and drains his blood. A penguin is surprised when he sees a watchman as a vampire, protesting that a dead man can't do it. Dracula says he's actually undead. Dracula hypnotizes Penguin by becoming his servant to show him Gotham so he can feed. Dracula notes that Transylvania has changed, and has informed Penguin that it is actually Gotham City. Dracula concludes that he has moved since his death. In flashback, a group of angry people, led by a well-dressed and seemingly highly educated man, march to the castle of Dracula. The leader leads the stake through Dracula's heart to finally destroy him. But the leader knows that he is simply an incapacitated vampire, paralysing him with death like a state. Soon he arranged for the vampire's body to be taken out of Transylvania, to a land buried in America that eventually became Gotham City. Bruce has an interview with Vicki Vale at the restaurant. After returning to Wayne's mansion, he tells Alfred that he invited him to a company dinner and dinner on Saturday. As Batman patrols the city, the woman is kidnapped, but if the crook is stopped before Batman can arrive, she He's not needed. However, hearing the woman scream again, she sees that the night guard is a vampire. A crook and a woman have become vampires, too. Batman fights them, but can't beat them and forces them to retreat. Penguin then wakes up Dracula, who now looks more human, having fed some people, with plans to turn Gotham city into vampires, with him as his king. But who will be her queen? Batman doesn't believe what he's seen, but he knows something's wrong. At the party bruts meets Dracula under the name Dr. Alucard. Dracula takes an interest in Vicki Vale and says she's studying Batman. The waiter comes with a tray of beef steak tartare, which Dracula admires before eating, much to Vicki's disgust. When a waitress comes in with garlic prawns, the count is noticeably disturbed. Bruce notices it and offers him some, saying it tastes great and really packs a punch, but Dracula hypnotizes him and leaves him. Moments later, the hypnotized Bruce leaves Vicki and wanders over the balcony, where Dracula looks to bite her. However, just before Dracula is bitten by his victim, Alfred arrives, prompting Dracula to disappear and Bruce to snap out of the trance. Dracula at the same time feeds on one of the waiters. Alfred discovers the waiter is a vampire and narrowly avoids being attacked. Bruce meanwhile concludes Alucard's true identity: Dracula. After intensive research by Alfred batcave, Batman begins to realize that many dracula legends were true events. Also, realizing that the disappearances of gotham citizens are because of Dracula, he and Alfred realize that the number of vampires will grow exponentially in a matter of weeks. Instead of killing vampires, Bruce decides to find a way to restore Dracula's victims to normal again, because vampirism seems to be passed on to the disease despite its roots in the supernatural, and usually has a chance to cure it. Bruce and Alfred headed to the manor library to collect medical textbooks and studies belonging to Bruce's father himself, Dr. Thomas Wayne. Meanwhile, in Dracula's hiding place beneath the graveyard, Dracula watches a freeze frame for Vicki and tells himself: Even her name holds a mysterious allure... Wrong, I can't do that. I think it's time to find your girlfriend. The next morning, it's wrong that Batman is causing people to disappear and he's going to be attacked that night on patrol. As Batman monitors the city's disappearance, he discovers that the first attack took place at Gotham Cemetery, where the watchman is missing. After realizing that vampirism is plaguing the city, Alfred not only arms the mansion with relics and herbs known to outrageous creatures, but also Batman's own arsenal as well. At night, exploring the cemetery, Gotham p.d. SWAT team members are also if he escapes, Dracula will take on the police and become vampires. Batman is going to meet Dracula on the roof. Dracula, admittedly admiring the Dark Knight, commenting that his legend is influential, offers him the opportunity for heightened senses, speed, strength and immortality. Batman understands what this offer would really mean to him and refuses, and tries to fight but is unable to beat him and is seriously injured. Fortunately, Dracula comes down when the sun rises, but not before Dracula promises the Dark Knight that maggots will feed his flesh because of rejection. Bruce wakes up later in his bed after having a nightmare in which he sees his parents killed after they stopped watching the movie Hidden Rider and sees Batman as a vampire. A young billionaire wakes up, fearing his persona like Batman and Dracula evil. The Joker shows up at the cemetery after a fisherman took him to a boat and demanded his share from the penguin. He drives the Penguin to the tomb, where he opens Dracula's coffin and is attacked. Later, in a blood bank, the nurse is attacked and Batman finds the Joker feasting on blood numerous vials on the shelves; she humorously comments that blood is a delicious taste of a bold finish to wild cherries with a hint of oak. Two fights until they overturn the shelves. While the Joker is distracted by drinking blood raining down on a collapsed set of shelves, Batman hits him with garlic bombs. Batman takes it inside the Batcave and gets to work on drying vampirism, which the computer detects as a viral form infecting the host cell structure, and also getting the location of the Prince of Darkness from the Clown Prince of Crime. Despite his hatred of the vampire lord, the Joker is unable to reveal his whereabouts because the vampire has completely taken control of his will, as the Joker is now on his ship, because of what happened in Gotham Cemetery; That means the Joker's going back to arkham's sanctuary. Unfortunately, as the Dark Knight works towards discovering the treatment and location of Dracula and his victims, he stands with Vicki, who is at the train station where he meets Dracula. Bruce's trying to call him, but he's not getting an answer. He stops working on the treatment in the form of a vaccine, using it to treat the Joker. He's lost his memory of what happened in the crypt. However, using what the Joker remembered before the bite, Batman is able to derive Dracula's location. Batman then continues to mass-produce the vaccine and plan his attack. Inside the crypt Dracula takes the ashes of his ex-girlfriend, Carmilla, who was killed when he was also a vampire, and places them on a plate suspended over Vicki, who is under a coffin and spell. He then begins to use his soul to bring him back to life, which means he is one of the only vampires who feeds on souls, as well as blood. Batman enters the crypt at Gotham Cemetery and discovers a catacomb beneath it, which explains how Dracula was able to bypass Christian relics over it. During the Dark Knight attack, Batman treats all vampires with a vaccine. Batman is about to fire a projectile carrying the last vial of vaccine to a vampire lord when Dracula hypnotizes the Dark Knight and makes him capable of fire and destroy him. After hearing Dracula mockingly laugh at him, and recalling the childhood tragedy that inspired him to become Batman, the Dark Knight deliberately breaks free vampire lord control. He then attacks Carmilla, restores Vicki's soul, saves Vicki and fights Dracula. Batman learns that the caves lead to the Batcave and uses explosives to delay Dracula and enter the Batcave. He's been beaten, however, and Dracula is going to kill him, instead of making him a vampire, proclaiming the connection to the Batcave, Impressive Housing... This will be your tomb! Alfred sticks a vaccine vial into Dracula, but it doesn't work because Dracula is the original - the embodiment of evil. Batman then activates the device Wayne Industries, which can store and emit sunlight as well as turn it into energy. Dracula realizes too late that Bruce Wayne is Batman. Batman uses a wrestling hook to fly away from the sunlight, which then sets Dracula on fire, and Batman finishes it off with a punch, leaving only skull fangs. Alfred continues to sweep his remains into the trash. Meanwhile, Penguin goes after Vicki and chases her through the cemetery. After finding him in the tomb, he almost caught him when he is relieved of his hypnosis and finally discovers the treasure that caused all the trouble in the first place. He is overjoyed, but is then caught by the police. News reporters say people were under Penguin's control, and Penguin claims they're vampires if they take him away. Vicki sees Batman, who arrives to check on the victims and smiles, knowing he saved the city. Batman swings proudly across the city, knowing that he has just won the ultimate evil, and continues his patrol, ready to defend Gotham against others that could endanger its safety. Cast Trivia Ventriiloquist (Arnold Wesker) made a cameo at the beginning of the film during a bingo game at Arkham Asylum. This film could have taken place after Fistful of Felt, which it had aired a week before the movie was released. This is the only time Arnold appeared in this series without Scarface due to the fact that he and Mr. Snoots were crushed to pieces with Chu-Chu Chucky near the end of the episode. Therefore, this film takes place before RPM. There was to be another film called Batman vs. Hush that featured Hush as the main antagonist including Clayface, Mr Freeze, Riddler and Catwoman. However, it is not the project was cancelled. Kevin Conroy and Mark Hamill tweeted a message saying they love to make Batman: Hush animated film and 2019, a film based on Batman: Hush was made This film is quite similar to the Batman Mask of Phantasm in which someone blamed Batman for all the trouble in Gotham City. Batman Strikes #15 a prequel movie. Film.
