But before I just start a general statement. I think both succession and awakening can be very powerful when placed in the right hands. But this is more aimed at the average BDO player taking note of this before you make many judgments. Succession or awakening to PvE well, so let's start with PvE. Basically, for PvE, the succession will outperform the awakening in endgame grinding points and with high levels of gear. for new players and players with Gear, maybe about 200 to 230 AP sign, I still recommend awakening. Especially since charming and processor, the best metrics with lower gear due to skill flows. But later, when you start getting more gear like about 250 to 270 with mute, we can move to succession to grind, just because it's much faster, and it doesn't have much DPS. Succession or awakening to Pvp is now going to PVP. This is a little more complicated so I would say let's start with Pvp on a large scale and I would say generally I'm talking about the general siege level gear here. I'm not talking about people with less or less gear, Just because succession is something I feel less, and less widely effective for a player of the year, you lose a lot of the benefit of your awakening kit while going to succession. So, for example, you lose the ability to do sage skill. You lose the ability to set orange, and also lose the ability to reta dono or slow paralysis. You lose a lot of benefit, so I'm not sure if trading that a bit of collateral damage is necessarily worth or a little extra benefit. Now for Wizards, you can get that space transportation division, which can make your involvement more interesting in succession; Those key issues may take care such as pots and skill mp add on something with a class so far. But yes, in general, I would especially recommend to witches, and most people still wake up to their siege. Succession or awakening in Pvp 1v1 is all right now, going into one of those now this is a more personal preference like both awakening and succession, which could have performed very well in one of those in the right hand. To succeed a viable processor in the right hands over it just because they have to divide the teleport with the ultimate teleportation as well. And you don't get a little more ability in succession either, especially with evasion and earthquakes, your DPS is pretty crazy. You can pretty much jump people in super armor very quickly. A lot of people won't expect straight damage but what you're basically trade-off is your pet where your pet is different, which is one huge thing of the special ones for the witch. You lose a great deal of protection as well, especially wake up the loss of a processor. Lose the ability to lose up to the rest of your front guards. Lose your Rita Dano and the paralysis is slow as well. Awakening and succession will change your look more powerful and new. 01. With Class Awakening 02. What is the category of succession 03. Awakening Skills Training and Training 04. Succession Training 01. What is class awakening? Level character 60 or higher, you can proceed in the awakening quest through the 'Talk' menu when you open the skills. As you awaken, you'll be able to use new weapons and skills and grow into more powerful chapters.
