Didn't you read my last one? You will unfortunately have to stop trying to buy anything for 72 hours, not even a minute less to be sure. Of course, if you're desperate, you can do as I did, try after 24, if that doesn't work, wait 48 hours, and if that doesn't work, waste another 3 days. So it seems like you're out of luck unless you can call Sony up and convince them to fix it. Hopefully anything you need to buy will still be available in 72 hours =(Good luck Shinyoite Article: 61 Join: Sunday October 7, 2012 05:26 Location: Finnish Contact: Contact shinyoite Post by Shinyoite » Thursday 1 November, 2012 05:06 REALLY, you can try to make a deal with someone to enter their payment information for some time this to try to add money. I've heard that people can add money by buying a wallet code from a store or on the internet, WHICH means that it is not blocking your PSN account, thus leaving the opportunity to convert payment information to use someone else's card which may be an option if you need to buy something quickly. Otherwise, you'LL have to wait 72 hours before trying to buy anything with your current billing information.
