Dawnguard esp is above skyrim patch and then skyrim.esm and update.esm. Requiem's at the bottom. This clearly shows that the patch was successful. But where's the patch file? He's not there, obviously. My mode is now compatible with Requiem.1) install Requiem2) install Better Vampires (say yes if desired to change something)3) Install my Requiem - Better Vampires patch4) / requiem patch4) Create / requiem patch4) create / make sure to read all of the Requiem documents before assuming my mode is incorrect ... Make sure my Weapon Speed Correction MCM is enabled; See from the Troubleshooting page. For the best experience with Requiem, I recommend disabling the following of Better Vampires: Dead Saturation Messages Load Ordering Fed Blood Elixirs Weed:Requiem - Better Vampires Patch.esp ... Requiem <---- load orderNOTE for Indifferent.esp should always be the last: You must always install a new mode. ignore.esp last, and then order the load to reinstall the SkyProc patch. (If Skyproc installs add-ons that are installed only before the created lating, if they already exist, therefore the order of these operations is very important.) Requiem installation gives me a message that you can get before reaching helgen keep, which only so far starts to start requiem before the game and wants to install requiem for indifferent before closing to the desktop. I may not seem to find a download place for requiem for indifferent, I don't see nexus mods anywhere on a download link anywhere else. Here's my load order so far:Page 2 14 comments comment
