It was like a scene from a Victorian novel. The site of an accident or a murder is where it happened. They were just a few miles from the crime scene. You can describe something like a scene of a certain kind when you are giving your impression of things that are going on there at a certain time. I entered the room to be greeted by a scene of domestic silence. The sun rose over a scene of terrible destruction.2. viewUse your eyesight to give you the impression of the appearance of a particular thing or person. An erupting volcano is a spectacular sight. With his ragged clothes and thin face, it was a pitiful sight. You can use plural form sights to refer to the interesting things that exist to see in a particular place. Did you have time to see the sights while you were in Moscow? A guide offered to show us the sights. There are other nouns that are commonly used to refer to things that people see.3. 'view'View is used to refer to what you can see from a window or from a high place. Her bedroom window looked towards a beautiful view of London. From the top of the hill there is a beautiful view.4. Landscape landscape is what you can see around you when you travel through an area of land. You can use this word if the area is attractive or not. The landscape here is very flat. The train passed through the industrial landscape of eastern Massachusetts.5. Landscape landscape refers to what you see around you in an attractive part of the countryside. We stopped on the way to admire the scenery. I think Scotland has the most beautiful landscape in the world. Be careful! Landscape is an countless noun. Don't talk about landscapes or landscapes. Link to this page: Behind the city swept up the round of St Catherine's Hill; further afield, the landscape beyond the landscape, up to the horizon was lost in the glow of the sun hanging above it. How easily we could go further into the landscape of openness, absorbed by new images and thoughts quickly succeeding each other, until through degrees the memory of home was crowded from the mind, all memories erased by the tyranny of the present, and we were led in triumph by nature. Before going far, he noticed that the landscape was growing more distinct - it was enlightenment. The further we went, the hotter the sun, the more rocky and empty the landscape, the repulsive and the sad. I call in mind a winter landscape in Amsterdam - a flat foreground of waste land, with here and there wooden stacks, would be the huts of a camp very miserable tribe; the long extent of Handelskade; cold quays, stone-faced, with earth strewn with snow and hard water, frozen of the canal, in which were laid ships behind each other with their mooring geros-graws hanging soft and their decks idle and deserted, because, as master Stevedore (a gentle, pale person with a few golden hairs on the chin and a reddish nose) informed me, their cargoes were frozen-in-the-up-country on barges and schuyts. The sky above them was like a cup of jewels from which dusk flowed; the air was crispy with convincing tang of the sea, and the whole landscape was infused with the subtleties of a great evening. THE OTHER PART OF THE MUNTEL -- DEVELOPMENT -- THE INVENTION OF ARTICLES ON THE SHIP -- IMPLEMENTATION OF THE HEALTH STOCK -- THE APPLICATION OF THE INSULA'S INTERNAL -- A DISCOPERATION -- A WORK AND CASCADE -- A NEDORITY NIGHT -- ADDITIONAL DESCOPERIES -- MY BOAL -- A MARQUESANA PEISAJ An evening landscape. In the foreground near a pond and a group of white beech trees leads a lively path of travelers. He was, in fact, standing on that divided ridge that the Indians consider the crest of the world; and on each side of which, the landscape can be declared to fall to the two cardinal oceans of the globe. Pierre la Chateaubriand, from Chateaubriand to Victor Hugo; it undoubtedly has some obscure relationships with those pantheistic theories that have greatly occupied people's minds in many modern readings of philosophy; makes as much difference between modern and early landscape art as there is between the roughly contoured masks of a Byzantine mosaic and a portrait of Reynolds or Romney. A lunar landscape without softening the phenomena of chiaro-oscuro could not be rendered by an earthly landscape painter; there would be ink stains on a blank page.nothing more. More.
