Generally, either there is too much dough that suppresses the taste of the fish, or the fish is overcooked, which in fact completely destroys ... any fish dish. Or fish breadcrumbs instead of making the traditional way i.e. in batter ... that I always assumed. was to make the fish crispy because of lack of the best frying skills. Well, look at the photo and don't let its unimpressive presentation fool you. It is a master at work, the culmination of many years of experience. Because this joint managed to avoid all these mistakes that I was talking about, what I was treated to was a masterfully cooked fish... Very thinly coated with perfect brown dough, refined and delicate in its crispy crust, and fish meat cooked at such an accurate time that its moisture retention ensured the fish meat remained free but not dirty. The fish was also delicious, unlike many soft offerings elsewhere. A gem that should not be missed. More Went There a second time for a takeaway after being unimpressed a few months ago and nothing has changed! Staff and friendly, the cod is very good but the fish dough is too thin and therefore can't be considered as crispy .... too floury under and not even close to what would be seen as 5 out of 10 in English Chippy. The chips were cooked and soft and not good at all. I am a member of the Phuket Yacht Club and chips chips always perfect so he can pay the owner to check them out? I live a short walk from the chip shop but unfortunately won't be back again because at 320 baht for takeaways it's not cheap! Cheaper! More
