Ruby sue christmas vacation costume

The main characters of National Lampoon's Vacation are Clark and Ellen Griswold, along with their children Audrey and Russ. They are a well-doing family that has enough resources to go on big vacations from time to time, be it Christmas or summer. Cousin Eddie, though called as such, is ellen's cousin as he is married to his cousin Catherine. They, along with their children, Rocky and Ruby Sue, live on the opposite end of the Griswold family. Where the Griswolds live in a snob neighborhood and are portrayed as elegant, cousin Eddie's family, the Johnsons, live in a very different neighborhood and are often portrayed as hillbillies. Over the Christmas holidays, cousin Eddie and his entire family show up at the Griswoldhouse in a trailer. So call your family and friends and get them dressed like the Griswolds or the Johnsons. Could be anyone from Clark, Ellen, Russ, Audrey, Catherine, Rocky, or even Ruby Sue. The comedian resumed the role after previously appearing as the father figure in 1983's National Lampoon's Vacation and 1985's National Lampoon's European Vacation. Before trying to put his fictional family in the Christmas spirit over the Christmas holidays, Chase also won credits for Foul Play (1978), Caddyshack (1980) and ¡Three Friends! (1986), and gained fame with a show on Saturday Night Live.NOW: Christmas Vacation was not the last time Chase played Clark Griswold. He revisited the show on 1997's Vegas Vacation, a 2007 episode of Family Guy, and 2015's Vacation. He expanded his resume beyond the famous role, however, reaching the big screens in Snow Day (2000), Orange County (2002) and Hot Tub Time Machine (2010). Chase's most successful role in recent years, however, was that of Pierce Hawthorne on NBC's Community. Advertising Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Collection; David Livingston/Getty Images THEN: After making a name for herself with appearances in Annie Hall from 1977, 1980's Coal Miner's Daughter, and Finders Keepers Beverly D'Angelo from 1984 joined the National Lampoon Christmas Holidays as Ellen Griswold. She played Chase's wife Clark and the Griswold family's mother for the third time, after previous shifts in National Lampoon's Vacation and National Lampoon's European Vacation.NOW: D'Angelo joined Chase on Vegas Vacation in 1997, a 2007 episode of Family Guy, and 2015's Vacation. She expanded her reach with Man Trouble (1992), Eye for an Eye (1996), American History X (1998) and The House Bunny (2008). She also hit the page with roles in Rude Awakening in 1999, Law & Order: Special Victims Unit and Entourage throughout the 2000s, and Mother in 2015. Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Vermont State Police via AP THEN: Actor Dennis Quaid's older brother Randy Quaid picked up a family show over the Christmas holidays as a relative of Ellen, the famous cousin Eddie. The show wasn't his first, as his filmography was filled with films such as The Last Detail (1973), Midnight Express (1978) and The Long Riders (1980) long before the comedy hit theaters in 1989.NOW: Following Lampoon's Vacation, Christmas Vacation and Vegas Vacation, Quaid got his own spinoff with the 2003 TV movie, Christmas Vacation 2: Cousin Eddie's Island Adventure. He continued to act throughout the 2000s, reserving shows in The Adventures of Rocky & Bullwinkle (2000), The Adventures of Pluto Nash (2002) and Brokeback Mountain (2005). In recent years, however, Quaid has been more famous for his widespread legal problems than for his career. Advertising Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Collection; Harmony Gerber/ FilmMagic THEN: Juliette Lewis picked up one of her first shows as resident daughter Audrey from the Griswold family for Christmas. She entered the role after a upset in the 1987 abc short-lived series I Married Dora, a two-episode arc in The Facts of Life in 1988, and big-screen shows in My Madrasrathier Is a Alien (1988) and Meet the Hollowheads in 1989.NOW: After the Christmas break, Lewis resorted to television work in The Wonder and A Family for Joe before making an Oscar-nominated appearance in the 1991 film Cape Fear. One of the comedy's most famous alumni, Lewis remained busy, reserving films such as What's Eating Gilbert Grape, The Basketball Diaries, From Dusk Till Dawn, Old School, Starsky & Hutch, Whip It, and August: Osage County. She most recently came to the newshow as Detective Andrea Cornell in ABC's Secrets and Lies. Credit: Warner Brothers/Courtesy Everett Collection; Michael Tran/FilmMagic THEN: With a handful of TV movies, 1988's A Night in the Life of Jimmy Reardon, and Prancer 1989 to his name, the unknown Johnny Galecki picked up a show as Rusty Griswold, the son of Chase's Clark and Ellen de D'Angelo. He followed in the footsteps of Anthony Michael Hall and Jason Lively, who played Rusty in National Lampoon's Vacation and National Lampoon's European Vacation, respectively. Now best known for his role as Leonard Hofstadter in The Big Bang Theory, Galecki filled his resume with TV and film projects in the years between the Christmas Holidays and his TBBT debut. The star made appearances in episodes of Blossom, American Dreamer, Billy and Roseanne in the 1990s, coming to the big screen in Suicide Kings in 1997 and I Know What You Did Last Summer, 2000's Bounce and Vanilla Sky 2001. Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Collection; Albert L. Ortega/WireImage THEN: A veteran star, John Randolph came to the National Christmas Holidays after decades in the industry. Your pre-Clark pre-Clark Mr.'s films include Seconds (1966), Serpico (1973), King Kong (1976) and Prizzi's Honor (1985). He also made minor screen appearances such as Hawaii Five-O, Bonanza, Columbus, Kojak, Dallas and Matlock.NOW: Randolph continued to act well until the 1980s. The actor starred as Schuyler Fox in 1998's You've Got Mail, picked up a role in 1999's The Dogwalker, and starred in the 2000 Sunset Strip. Randolph died at the age of 88 in 2004. Advertising Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Collection; Angela Weiss/Getty Images THEN: Mother of actress Laura Dern and ex-wife of actor Bruce Dern, Diane Ladd played Nora Griswold, the mother of Chase's Clark. After making her Hollywood debut in the 1950s, the star raised credits with TV appearances in The Secret Storm, Gunsmoke, Alice, and The Love Boat. She also became a star on the big screen with The Wild Angels (1966), The Reivers (1969), Chinatown (1974) and All Night Long (1981). After the Christmas holidays, Ladd joined his daughter for 1990's Wild at Heart and 1991's Rambling Rose. She went on to make appearances at 90 in Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman, Touched by an Angel, and Grace Under Fire, and continued her film career with Father Hood (1993), Primary Colors (1998) and 28 Days (2000). She recently scheduled a show on David O. Russell's Joy alongside Jennifer Lawrence, Bradley Cooper and Robert De Niro. Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Collection; Jim Smeal/WireImage THEN: E.G. Marshall played D'Angelo's father, the grumpy Art Smith. Prior to his role in the Christmas classic, Marshall was best known for appearances in 1957, 12 Angry Men, the 1960s TV series The Defenders, and the 1970s series The Bold Ones: The New Doctors.NOW: The longtime actor added to his TV credits with 1990s shows on The Cosby Show, Chicago Hope and Courthouse. He made his last appearances as Lawrence Preston in the spinoff of The Defenders TV movies in the late 1990s before dying at age 84 in 1998. Credit: Warner Bros/Courtesy Everett Collection; Steve Granitz/WireImage THEN: Appearing alongside Marshall, Doris Roberts played Ellen's mother, Frances Smith. The famous actress had more than three decades of hollywood experience when she took on the role, sporting credits for Barefoot in the Park of 1967, The Taking of Pelham One Two Three, 1979's The Rose and the 1980s series Remington Steele. She also earned an Emmy nomination for her role in Perfect Strangers and won for St. Elsewhere.NOW: Roberts picked up her most famous role in the mid-1990s when she debuted Marie Baron in Everybody Loves Raymond. The star played Raymond's mother for nearly 10 years and won four Emmys during that time. She has also appeared in Murder, She Wrote, Step by Step, The King of Queens, The Middle and Melissa & Joey, and has appeared in films such as People (1992), The Grass Harp (1995), Grandma's Boy (2006) and Madea's Witness Protection (2012). Advertising Credit: Warner Brothers/Courtesy Everett Collection; Adam Taylor/ABC via Getty Images THEN: Miriam Flynn appeared at the Griswolds' Christmas celebrations as Ellen's cousin Catherine Johnson. She debuted the role in 1983's National Lampoon's Vacation, also earning credits for the 1980s TV series Maggie, 1983's Mr. Mom, and the raising series Miranda.NOW: Flynn expanded his filmography with voice work, lending his vocals to the character Grandma Longneck in several Land Before Time films, in the animation DuckTales and Taz-Mania in the late 1980s and early 1990s, respectively, and to the maa sheep in Babe from 1995. She also appeared in Waiting for Guffman (1996), a 1998 episode of Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Evolution (2001), and starred as Sister Helen in Grounded for Life throughout the 2000s. In recent years, she has booked appearances in 2012 and 2013 in episodes of Suburgatory, a 2014 episode of Bones and a 2015 episode of Scandal. Advertising Credit: Ellen Latzen (@ellenlatzen) via Twitter THEN: In her short stint as a child star, Ellen Hamilton Latzen was just 9 years old when National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation hit theaters. Latzen played Ruby Sue, catherine's daughter of Flynn and Eddie de Quaid, taking the role after having already debuted in Fatal Attraction in 1987, making a cameo in a 1987 episode of Family Ties and a 1989 episode of The Equalizer, and appearing in Mr. North.NOW: Following Christmas Vacation, Latzen's career ended with final roles in a short film, a TV episode of ABC Afterschool Special, and an appearance in Boys Life 2 of 1997. Now a self-described creative soul with entrepreneurial spirit and a tireless work ethic, Latzen attended the California College of the Arts and spent years in sales. Ad credit: Jeff Kravitz/FilmMagic THEN: Industry veterinarian William Hickey joined the Christmas family as Uncle Lewis, the man responsible for the film's finale. Hickey entered the role after previously starring alongside E.G. Marshall in the 1960s series The Defenders and John Randolph in 1985's Prizzi's Honor.NOW: Hickey went on to appear with Steve Martin, Rick Moranis and Joan Cusack in 1990's My Blue Heaven. He also had bows in the early 1990s on Baby Talk and Wings, and returned to the big screen in 1995's Major Payne and Mousehunt in 1997. Hickey died at age 69 in 1997 after battling emphysema and bronchitis. Advertising Credit: Catherine McGann/Getty Images THEN: Mae Questel appeared alongside Hickey as Aunt Bethany, Lewis's wife. Much of the star's work was vocal in her early career, as she voiced Olive Oyl and Betty Boop. Your other credits before the include Funny Girl (1968), Move (1970) and New York National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation was Questel's last feature film. He died at the age of 89 in 1998. Advertising Credit: Steve Granitz/WireImage THEN: A year after she finished her season as Seinfeld's Elaine Benes, Julia Louis-Dreyfus starred as Margo Chester over the Christmas holidays. The role marked her fourth appearance on the big screen after Troll, Hannah and Her Sisters, and Soul Man in 1986.NOW: While the Former Saturday Night Live alum may still be best known for her role as Elaine, she has found continued success in the years since the Christmas Holidays. In addition to film shows in 1997 on Father's Day and Enough Said 2013, Louis-Dreyfus booked TV roles in The New Adventures of Old Christine and Veep, and made appearances on Curb Your Enthusiasm, Watching Ellie and Arrested Development.
