Old Settler's Music Festival Old Settler's Music Festival 2010 inGenreAmericana, roots, bluegrass, countryDatesAprilLocation (s)Austin, TexasYears active1987-2019, 2021-Websiteoldsettlersmusicfest.org Old Settler's Music Festival is an annual music festival held since 1988. The festival dates from April 15-18, 2021 in Tilmont Texas, southeast of Lockhart, Texas. One of central Texas' signature signature musical events, the festival features acoustic jazz and blues, bluegrass, local favorites and award-winning artists from around the world. [1] Camping, handicrafts, food and drink are available. [2] The festival is represented at a number of music events, including the International People's Federation Conference, the Americana Music Festival and Conference, the South By Southwest, the International Bluegrass Music Festival World of Bluegrass and the International Music Festival conference. History The Old Settler's Bluegrass Festival was first held at Old Settler's Park in Round Rock, Texas. After the park flooded during festival weekends, organizers moved to the festival first at Stone Mountain Events Center in Dripping Springs, Texas, followed by the Salt Lick BBQ Pavilion and Camp Ben McCulloch in Driftwood, Texas. In 2018, the festival moved to its eternal home with 145 acres of rolling meadows and tree-covered campsites. The new location is just a CD worth listening to Austin. The name of the festival was changed to Old Settler music festival in 2000. Old Settler has been widely recognized for his contribution to Central Texas culture; with more than 30 bands 16,000 roots-music fans each year, consider one of the most important events that will help the region maintain its status as a live a világ fótvárosa. És most, ahogy növények gyökerei saját az új hektáros ingatlan, Old Settler's cementes státszát, mint az egyéni gyökerek zene és Kemping fesztivál a Körzép-Texas területén.
