Previews: About the author born and raised in Paterson, New Jersey, Vincent N. Parrillo experienced multiculturalism early as the son of a second-generation Italian American father and Irish/German-American mother. He grew up in an ethnically diverse neighbourhood and developed friendships and teenage romances with second- and third-generation Dutch, German, Italian and Polish Americans. As he got older, he developed other friendships that often crossed racial and religious lines. Professor Parrillo came to the field of sociology after first completing a bachelor's degree in business management and a master's degree in English. After teaching high school English and then serving as a college administrator, he took his first sociology course when he began doctoral studies at Rutgers University. Inspired by a discipline that explores scientific social issues, he changed his major and completed his degree in sociology. Prof. Parrillo leaves his administrative post, but resides at William Paterson University and has been teaching sociology for more than 30 years. He has lectured in the United States, Canada and Europe and has regularly conducted diversity leadership programs for military and large corporations. His keynote address at a bilingual educator conference was published in Vital Speeches of the Day, which normally includes only speeches from national political leaders and heads of businesses and organizations. Prof. Parrillo was a Fulbright Scholar in the Czech Republic and Scholar-in-Residence at the University of Pisa. He was the keynote speaker at international conferences in Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Germany, Italy, Poland and Sweden. He has met with government leaders, nongovernmental agency leaders, law enforcement officials, and educators in more than a dozen countries as an adviser on immigration policy, hate crimes, and multicultural education. He has done on-air interviews with Radio Free Europe and Voice of America, appeared on national Canadian television, and was interviewed by numerous Canadian and European reporters. Prof Parrillo's ventures into the US media include writing, telling, and producing two PBS award-winning documentaries, Ellis Island: Gateway to America and Smokestacks and Steeples: A Portrait of Paterson. Contacted by reporters across the country for his views on race and ethnic relations, he has been quoted in dozens of newspapers, including the Chicago Sun-Times, Cincinnati Inquirer, Houston Chronicle, Hartford Courant, Omaha World-Herald, Orlando Sentinel, and Virginian Pilot. He has appeared on numerous American radio and television programs. Prof. Parrillo is also the author of Race and Ethnic Relations, third edition (Allyn & Bacon), Contemporary Social Problems, zesde editie (Allyn & Bacon), Cities en Urban Life, vierde editie (met John Macionis), Diversity in in second edition, and Rethinking Today's Minorities. His articles and book reviews have appeared in journals such as The Social Science Journal, Sociological Forum, Social Forces, Journal of Comparative Family Studies, Journal of American Ethnic History, and the Encyclopedia of American Immigration. He is general editor of the Encyclopedia of Sociology for Sage Publications. Several of his books and articles have been translated into other languages, including Chinese, Czech, German, Italian, Japanese, Polish and Swedish. An active participant in various capacities over the years in the American Sociological Association and Eastern Sociological Society, Prof. Parrillo has been included in Who's Who in International Education, Outstanding Educators of America, American Men and Women of Science, and Who's Who in the East. In 2004, he received the Award for Excellence in Scholarship from William Paterson University. In March 2005, the Eastern Sociological Society named him her Robin M. Williams, Jr. Distinguished Lecturer for 2005-2006, and chose him as the vice president for 2008-2009. Parrillo, William Paterson University ©2014 | Pearson Format On-line Supplement ISBN-13: 9780205970452 Availability examines American racial and ethnic relationships from a socio-historical perspective Strangers to These Shores, 11/e, provides a conceptual and theoretical overview of one of the most interesting and dynamic areas of study – race and ethnic relationships. Racial issues are explored through different sociological perspectives, giving students a basis for examining the experiences of different minority groups. Readers will see not only how racial and ethnic groups have emerged, but also how they are changing and how they will continue to change in the future. MySocLab is an integral part of the Parrillo program. Engaging activities and assessments provide an education and learning system that helps students explore the experiences of different minority groups with Core Concepts Video Series, explore real-world sociology through the new Social Explorer, and develop critical thinking skills through writing. Takes a socio-historical perspective – Looking through time, Parrillo uses the alien concept as a one to interpret and understand immigration of people to the U.S. He uses this same concept to explore how and why newcomers to the US have adapted to his customs. Explores a broad group of people - The book examines the experiences of Europeans, Native Americans, African Americans, Hispanics, Arabs, religious minorities, and women as a minority group. The Ethnic Experience and Reality Check offer students first-hand accounts of immigrants, geopolitical profiles and other applications in everyday life. Improves critical thinking – challenges students to think about socio-economic indicators of minority groups and how they affect culture. International Scene boxes offer cross-cultural parallels and contain critical thinking questions. Engages Students – A new feature, Student Speak, offers comments from recent readers about provocative passages. MySocLab is even more integrated with the text, providing new study plans tailored to students' needs and leading students through different levels of learning, from actual recall to critical thinking. Integrates Digital Learning – This program has been updated to integrate key digital learning tools into MySocLab. Using the new Core Concepts Video Series, the new Social Explorer, and new readings in MySocLibrary, the core learning experience will be more connected and engaging than ever. Click here for more
