A German court has ordered that access to certain items from project Gutenberg's collection be blocked from Germany. Project Gutenberg believes that the Court has no jurisdiction over the matter is resolved, it will comply. For more information on the German court case and the reason for blocking the whole of Germany instead of one-time items, visit the PGLAF information page on the German case. For more information on the legal advice Project Gutenberg has received on international Copyright Guide for Project Gutenberg This page in German automated translation (via Google Translate): translate.google.com How can I be unlocked? All IP addresses in Germany are blocked. This block will remain in force until legal guidance changes. If your IP address search is incorrect, use the Maxmind GeoIP demo to check the status of your IP address. Project Gutenberg updates your IP address listing approximately monthly. Occasionally, the site erroneously applies a block from a previous visitor. As the blocks are applied momentarily, you should try again later to visit if Maxmind shows your address as being out of the Alemanha. Se your IP address is shown by Maxmind to be out of Germany and you have been momentarily blocked, another issue is that some web browsers mistakenly store the block. Trying a different browser can help. Or, clearing the history of your visits to the site. I have other questions or need to report an error Please send an email to the diagnostic information above to help2020 @pglaf.org (removing the spaces around @) and we will try to help. The software we use sometimes signals false positives - that is, blocks that should not have occurred. Sorry if this happened, because human users outside Germany who are making use of eBooks or other site features should almost never be blocked. Most recently updated: January 28, 2020.
