Project metalbeast 2

May is the month to prepare your home and garden for dog days of summer. Starting above—in your room work your way, by stopping in the kitchen, before addressing your courtyard and outdoor living areas.1. Ready to beat the heat while it's been a cold and rainy spring for most of the country, you can be sure that the warm weather is just around the corner. That means a familiar hum of air conditioning and an unpleasant increase along in energy bills. In preparing for the months ahead, think about what you can do to keep indoor temperatures comfortable without breaking the bank. Attic insulators. As they do during heating season, insulation and ventilation at work will help your HVAC system function efficiently during the summer when air conditioning is in use, not furnaces. Also, if you have one now, think about installing an underwater fan to usher from superheating air, reducing your significant load on your cooling device. All-home fans. If you mainly run your air conditioning overnight, an all-home fan could probably save you a substantial piece of change. How does it work? By drawing in cool night air through open windows on the lower floors and cycling it through the house. A professional can help you determine if the right solution is right for you, but overall, whole house fans do their best in areas with low humidity, where temperatures drop at least five degrees after sunset. Related: 10 really cool fans cooling the roof fans. Because they are cool with air circulation, ceiling fans should be installed in that room where you spend the most time (as such, kitchen, family room, or bedroom). They cost pennies to work; Even using them sometimes instead of AC will make a positive difference in your tool bill. Window air conditioning. Before the air conditioning pulls your window out of the warehouse, ask yourself how old it is. Productivity has improved so much that buying a new smart energy unit may actually be cheaper than relying on your old cloner for another summer. Regardless of its age, be sure to keep your AC cleaning or replacing its filter. And for safety, make sure the installation is secure and doesn't buckle! Awnings and solar curtains. Awnings are great for reducing heat gains, as they shield windows from direct sunshine. There are many fixed or restrusing options in materials ranging from canvas to aluminum. Also consider solar curtains and solar panels, each of which can be found in indoor or outer styles. Both work to absorb heat and block solar rays without hindering your vision into the outdoors.2. Updating your kitchen makeover your kitchen doesn't have to be a total gut job. If you're looking for a way to use color and pattern, why re-tile backsplash? It's an easy project to deal with over a long weekend, even if you A stuffing hand. You want to go one step further? Face the cabinet again with a new wood gown or a bright coat of paint on the cabinet door and the drawer front can really become, effectively making your old kitchen look brand new. Best of all, the price is right.3. Improving your yard and garden this month is the perfect time to improve your landscaping. Try a distinctive edging that defines your garden stripes or plants beds. Another idea: Use dishes to bring flowers and green heads to the front ion or backyard deck or patio. You want to have some fun? Experiment by creating your own pots of everyday household materials; See 10 DIY-inspired Planters.4. Getting rid of your summer PESTS while there are several ways to deal with bees, wasps, mice and critters, the best approach to controlling natural thmour. Did you know that rats find the smell of mint unbearable or don't cockroaches tolerate Tabasco sauce? For bed bugs, the ground treatment response is diatomace! Find additional details and tips on the perfect natural guide to apartment control and prevention.5. READY THE DECK, PATIO & GRILL Since this is the month many of us will start spending more time in the backyard, sweep your outdoor living space clean and make any necessary repairs to deck or patio surfaces. If your gas grill has been idle for several months, check the torch jet for obstruction and secure all hose fittings snugly. (And don't forget to refol the propane tank!) Meanwhile, grill owners wisely clean up ash and grease residue - a good habit to keep going throughout the season. Read a lot more on how to: Take care of your grill-and-ben appetit!
