Formed in 2006, the band was founded by brothers Vic and Mike Fuentes after the disbandment of Before Today (formerly Early Times[2]), which was made up of the San Diego punk rock scene. Other members of the band include Jaime Preciado (bass) and Tony Perry (guitar). Pierce the Veil has released four studio albums and toured around the world since the release of their debut album, A Flair for the Dramatic in 2007. The band released their second studio album, titled E Selfish Machines in 2010. Their third album, Collide with the Sky, was released in 2012 and is their first album under the label Fearless Records. With the first single King for a Day, the album debuted at number 12 on the Billboard 200. Their fourth and final album, Misadventures, was released on May 13, 2016. Early history and a flair for drama (2006-2009) Pierce the Veil was founded by Mike Fuentes and Vic Fuentes in 2006,[3] after the release of Before Today. The brothers continued to write songs together and eventually came up with enough material for a complete new album. Still backed by their label, Equal Vision Records, they wrote and recorded an entire album on their own in Seattle, WA with producer Casey Bates. The brothers released the album A Flair for the Dramatic on June 26, 2007, under a new name: Pierce the Veil, which is derived from a song of the same name from the album Before Today, A Celebration of an Ending. Shortly thereafter, Pierce the Veil acquired new members Tony Perry (main guitar) and Jaime Preciado (bass). Pierce Veil tourvigorously for about 3 months after the launch of A Flair for dramatic. They tour with bands, such as A Day to Remember, Chiodos, From First to Last, Emery, All Time Low, Sleeping with Sirens, The Devil Wears Prada and Mayday Parade. In November 2007, Pierce The Veil performed once on the 2007 Vans Warped Tour and was on the entire tour in 2008. They also played Bambozle Left in 2008. Their first tour, called The Delicious Tour, which took place in October-November 2008, included Breathe Carolina, Four Letter Lie and Emarosa. They ended their record cycle with the Taste of Chaos 2009 tour, along with Bring Me the Horizon on Thursday, four years strong and cancer Vic and Mike Fuentes along with Ayrton Jara confirmed that they will be included in the new project and the isles & pergroup, along with vocalists Craig Owens of Chiodos and Jonny Craig of Emarosa. [4] Supergroup released its first EP entitled The Hearts of Lonely People on March 9, 2010. However, Isles & amp; Glacies fell apart, saying that Isles & amp; Glacies was just a unique thing. The singer and lyricist Vic Fuentes stated: The title refers to human nature and the animal-like qualities inside us that we try to hide, but should learn to accept. We are all selfish machines and we all have natural tendencies to want, to love and to take. Selfish Machines was released on June 21, 2010 under Equal Vision Records, [5] and reached number one on the Billboard Heatseekers Chart. In support of the release, the band has performed a number of festivals, including Bambozle Left, South by Southwest, Never Say Never Festival and Vans Warped Tour. The band also contributed a cover of the classic song (Don't Fear) The Reaper to the punk Goes Classic Rock compilation, released on April 27, 2010. [6] They were part of the Attack Action Tour! who went to New Zealand and Australia, and also played on the Versus Tour in Japan with Confide. They performed This Is a Family Tour with Emmure, In Fear and Faith, Of, And Attack Attack!, which lasted until the end of December 2010. Pierce the Veil also starred at the Fox Theatre in Pomona as a surprise appearance as part of the 2010 Alternative Press Tour with bands such as August Burns Red, Bring Me the Horizon, Polar Bear Club, Emarosa and This Is Hell. On November 1, 2010, the band announced that they would begin their 2011 tours with Silverstein, Miss May I, The Chariot and A Bullet for Pretty Boy in the Winterizer Tour. Throughout March and April, The Gamechanger's Tour with An Unforgettable Day, Bring Me the Horizon, and Label Colleagues I came as Romans followed. They also co-headlined the second leg of the tour head Escape the Fate The Dead Masquerade. After taking the summer off to spend some more time on writing material the band was supposed to head on their first ever South American Tour Tour Amount 41 in September; however, due to the sum 41 frontman's illness, the tournament was cancelled. They finished the year on tour Europe with cursefall and co-headlined No Guts No Glory Tour with Miss May I afterwards. They again contributed to a Punk Goes... album, Punk Goes Pop 4, which covers the song Just the Way You Are by Bruno Mars, which was released on November 21, 2011. [7] Fearless Records and Collide with Fearless Records. On December 22, 2011, a video update revealed that in early 2012, the band will enter the studio to record their third studio album. On December 26, 2011, Vic Fuentes announced on the band's Facebook page that the band had finished writing the songs for their tour with Miss May I, Woe Is Me, The Amity Affliction and Letlive in November and December, and will now choose a producer to work with on the album in early 2012. [8] On February 27, 2012, the band published an update on their official Facebook page in which they stated that they had chosen to work with producers Dan Korneff and Kato Khandwala at House of Loud in New Jersey on their third album. [9] On April 20, 2012, it was announced that the new album would be titled Collide with the Sky and released through Fearless Records on July 17, 2012. [10] [11] On May 17, 2012, the album cover and album track list were revealed when the band's first UK tour was announced in September 2012. [12] [13] The first single from the new album, King for a Day, features Sleeping with Sirens' Kellin Quinn and was released on June 5, 2012. The second single, Bulls in the Bronx, was released three weeks later, on June 26, 2012. To promote the album, the band appeared on the Vans Warped tour from June 16, 2012 to August 5, 2012, performing for the first time on the main stage of the event. They were regularly joined on stage by Kellin Quinn to perform the song King for a Day. After Warped, Pierce The Veil embarked on their first uk tour, selling almost all the data. Their next u.s. tour, The Collide with the Sky tour, was a similar success. They ended the year 93rd on Rock Sound magazine's best albums chart in 2012,[14] winning nine categories in Alternative Press' best reader survey of 2012, including best live band of the year, album of the year and artist of the year. [15] On January 9, 2013, Vic Fuentes released reports that he was recently in the studio writing new songs with Tom Denney. [16] [17] On January 7, 2013, Pierce the Veil and the pop-punk band All Time Low announced that they would be co-head of the Spring Fever Tour in spring Both bands toured in States, along with the opening mayday Parade and You Me at Six. The tour began on April 11, 2013 and ended on May 12, 2013. Thank you for letting us travel the world and share this adventure with you! - Vic, Mike, Tony and Jaime[20] On October 18, 2013, the band released pre-orders for their documentary with a new release date on November 25. [21] On July 21, Vic Fuentes and Kellin Quinn of Sleeping with Sirens announced the first foot north America, with 20 concerts with support from Beartoathh and This Wild Life. [22] A month later, on August 22, 2014, the band confirmed the second stage of their concert tour in Europe. Between 20 March 2015 and 11 April 2015, Pierce the Veil performed in the Netherlands, Belgium, Sweden, Germany and the United Kingdom. [23] According to Epitaph Records, all concerts in Europe have been sold. [24] Before leaving for Europe, the band played a second match in the US with the support of PBRIS and Mallory Knox. [25] [26] Adventures and allegations of sexual behavior (2015-2018) Plans for a future album were initially announced in 2014 by Fearless Records. [27] In an article in oakland Press, the band stated that they began writing new material with Tom Denney while on tour with the Mayday Parade, You Me at Six and All Time Low. [28] The band finished writing new music after the European Winter Tour with Bring Me the Horizon in December 2013. [29] In an interview with Poppy Reid of The Music Network during the band's appearance at the Soundwave Festival in Australia, the band talked about their collaboration with Jenna McDougall of Tonight Alive on a track from their fourth album. [32] On June 5, 2014, Tony Perry and Vic Fuentes announced they'll fly to New Jersey to start recording their new album with producer Dan Korneff. [33] In an interview with Press Vic Fuentes said the band had set a release date in early 2015, postponed from the release date in 2014. [34] The reason the band was left a few weeks behind because of two songs the band wrote while recording their new album in the studio with producer Dan Korneff. [34] The band's ambitions for a release date in early 2015 did not appear because the album was again postponed for later release. This release date will be later confirmed as May 2016, it was announced that the band's fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2015, the band released The Divine Zero, the first single from their fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2016, it was announced that the band's fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2016, it was announced that the band's fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2016, it was announced that the band released The Divine Zero, the first single from their fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2016, it was announced that the band released The Divine Zero, the first single from their fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2016, it was announced that the band released The Divine Zero, the first single from their fourth studio album, [36] On March 18, 2016, it was announced that the band released The Divine Zero, the first single from their fourth studio album. Misadventures, would eventually be released on May 13 through Fearless Records. [37] The album was produced by Dan Korneff. [38] The band released their second single from the album, Texas Is Forever, on March 24, 2016. In November 2017, drummer Mike Fuentes was accused of asking for nude photos and rape by a young woman. The incidents were accused of taking place about a decade earlier over several years. The pair allegedly made contact on MySpace before meeting for the first time at a Pierce the Veil concert. Fuentes was 24 at the time, while the girl was 16, a legal minor from the state of California. The woman said they had sex after meeting again at a concert during the Warped Tour They say the relationship lasted until he turned 18. [40] No official charges were made publicly against Mike Fuentes for this charge. In December 2017, a second woman accused him anonymously on Twitter. The woman claimed they first met at the Warped Tour in 2008, when she was 14, where they changed phone numbers. When she turned 15, Fuentes allegedly asked for nude photos from her. [41] In light of the allegations, Fuentes would resign as a drummer to focus on his personal life. The band announced a break and cancelled their planned uk tour in 2018 with All Time Low. [42] No official charges were made publicly against Mike Fuentes for this charge. The future of her fifth studio album (2018-present) On July 5, 2018, vocalist and guitarist Vic Fuentes posted on social media that she was working on the band's fifth album. [43] In February 2019, the official Twitter band posted that they were still working on the album. [44] On April 13, 2020, the band uploaded a home rehearsal of their song Hold On Till May to YouTube in light of the COVID-19 pandemic. Former member of the band. [45] The reaction of Mike Fuentes who sang with was mixed, with listeners expressing concern on social media about the sexual allegations surrounding it, with the band yet to fully address them beyond the original 2017 statement. [46] On August 24, 2020, Vic confirmed that Mike had left the band in 2017 and would not appear on his next album. [1] Pierce the Veil's musical style was generally considered a mixture of post-hardcore,[47][48] pop punk,[49] experimental rock,[50] emo,[51] and metalcore. [52] Their debut album A Flair for the Dramatic was described as a mixture of emo, screamo, and progressive rock. [54] According to the German music magazine Intro, the compositions on the recordings are complex [clarification required] and have compared them to acts such as Sparta, And You Will Know Us by the Trail of Dead and partly with Queen itself. [55] Their second-year album, Selfish Machines, was partially influenced by punk music and was compared to bands such as Emarosa, Chiodos, The Used and Alesana. [56] [56] The band was praised by The Morning Call for the band's metal and hardcore punk mix with the composer and pop music songs. [58] The third album, Collide with the Sky, was praised for its progressive rock elements. [citation required] His fourth album, Misadventures, tilted more towards pop and pop punk. [59] The album has been compared to artists such as Atreyu, My Chemical Romance and Panic! at the disco. [60] The voice of Vic Fuentes was compared to Claudio Sanchez of Coheed and Cambria. [61] [62] The term mexicore was also applied to the band because of the Spanish flair in many of their songs. Vic Fuentes said in an interview with Alternative Press that the band always tries to include at least one hint of Latin influence in each song. [63] Vic Fuentes described mexicoore as a mixture of heavy music with a bit of Spanish sensation.
