It was our first baby, so we had no idea what qualities were important to us. Safety is obvious, and the price was, of course, a factor, but what else? Easy? Is it easy to set up and take off? Comfort for us and baby? Which counts for more & which drawbacks should we give the most credit? We went to a lot of stores and tried all the models, and then we came home and read the Amazon reviews, and also what we wanted, they would have made negative comments that would cast doubt on our decision, so we'll start the search again. No one seemed to like a stroller/car seat. I'm sure some of you are having the same trouble, so for those of you hung up as I've been in negative comments, I'd like to give another perspective on some of the other reviews. Just because you have a con doesn't mean it's a dealbreaker – these things are liveable! There is no perfect element out there - the... The stroller deserves 5 stars. Our baby was too big for the car seat when we bought it, so we didn't have a chance to use it yet. We bought this system because we wanted the stroller, but since it didn't come without the car seat, we just gave up and bought the whole thing and decided to sell our old seat. Anyway, the stroller is amazing. It had all the comforts we were looking for. We didn't want a big stroller or a small umbrella stroller, so we were looking for medium size. My husband is 6 feet tall and I'm 5'5, so the adjustable handle is perfect for both of us. My son is tall and big and 9 months old. He's off the charts at height, and 95 percentile in weight and he fits in the seat fine. IDK why another parent said that their child doesn't fit in. I'd like to see this in person. This is our third purchased stroller, if you count... On 5/6 57 people found the following review useful Great for a higher parent, May 25, 2008 J. Stover ShopDiv@ (Fresno, CA) – See my review after spending a lot of time testing strollers in the store, it was totally my choice. My husband and I are both very tall and it's so comfortable to move in relation to height. I was actually pleased to see how light the car seat/carrier was and I thought the fold up was in the wind as some bulky Gracos were tested. Positioning the seat for forward-facing use (without the carrier) was also very simple. The car base is extremely safe and you click on its location so you can set say that there properly. Properly, when it comes to ease I can't imagine anything better than the Cortina system. I've read some places where the carrier can't fit in shopping carts. It does not bother, we use the baby carrier or strap when buying, or just take the stroller and put batteries underneath the storage compartment. As a first time mom I am very impressed with this item and consider it a great value for the price. Share your thoughts with other customers: > View all 145 customer reviews...
