He has been fighting for World Wrestling Federation (WWF, now WWE) under the ring names 1–3 Kid and X-Pac, World Championship Wrestling (WCW) as SyxX, and Total Nonstop Action Wrestling (TNA) as Syx-Pac and Sean Waltman won a dozen championship between WWE, WCW, and TNA, the majority that they had cruise and tag team titles. It's the only insect to have held the championship of TNA X Division, championship at WCW Cruiserweight, and the WWF Light Wolf Championship. He was the last WWF Light Heavy Championship match against titleholder Bret Hart in July 1994 was ranked by WWE as the third-best match plane on the company's flagship boat program. He was part of the Klig, a group of hostages who were known for their influence on WWF storylines in the mid-1990s. Waltman declared himself retired in July 2019. In parallel, he produced in the WWE Hall of Such a part of the 2020 class, this time under his real name and as part of the New Order (Won); this will make him the first person to be done two years in a row. Waltman is recognized by WWE as the only liter to have been an active member of both the NWo and DX during the heydays of the 1990s. [8] Teacher Career Games 1989-1993 at Waltman highlighted the school's ninth-grade liter team, but swiftly guit smoking rather than cut his hair.[9] Waltman began his career as the Lightning kid. He worked his way into various independent promotions, including Pro Wrestling America (PWA) and the Federation Global Wrestling Federation (GWF), winning the heavy BEAN title, [10] the PWA horses make TV [11] and GWF heavy championship lights. [12] During that time, Waltman worked extensively with Jerry Lynn in North America and Japan. They often fly with each other, but they were also equipped to win the PEAS Tag Team title twice in While working for Larry Sharpe and Dennis Coralluzzo's WWA Promotion on November 28, 1992 at Clementon, New Jersey's opponent Kamikaze Kidd Bill Wilcox cut a suicide dive and landed on Waltman's head, driving him into the concrete and causing a blood clot near his brain. He was hospitalized for three days, couldn't work for four months, and he was advised to give up litre completely. He also appeared in New Japan Pro Wrestling at the Head of the Super Juniors in 1993, facing the likes of Chris Benoit, Eddie Guerrero and Jushin Liger. Wrestling Federation (1993–1996) Tag Team Champions (1993–1995) as Lightning Kid, Waltman had his WWF try to match in Phoenix, Arizona, the day after WrestleMania IX, against fellow hopeful Louie Spicolli (soon known as Radford Radford in the WWF). He reminded that he was likely to have an opponent with a vested interest in an impressive match, rather than (as was then typical) a veteran WWF job like Virgil or Jim Powers. [9] After making a deal, he made his television debut as the Kamikaze kidd on Monday night before 3 May, losing to Douk Clown. [15] He quickly became kid to Cannonball, then simply the kid. He scored an angry pinfall on Razor Ramon on the episodes of May 17 on Monday night, thus becoming 1-2 Kid. [1] [14] Razor challenged him to a stay, paris $2,500, then $5000 and finally $10,000 of his own money. Kid accepted the challenge, but grabbed the money and ran out of the arena during the match. Ted DiBiase, who was born with Razor, tasted him on losing someone. That upset Kid, and led to a match in which he angered DiBiase too. Razor turned his face shortly after he took Kid under his wing. [1] 1–2–3 Kid made his pay-by-view debut in Ether, losing Dibiase's tag partner Irwin R. Schyster after Razor overcame DiBiase. In Survivor Series, Kid was in Razor's team in a match of four elimination. He and Marty Jannetty are the only survivors, leading to form a tag team and holding the Championship Tag Team Championship T admirer. He was struggling Bret Hart in a strangely long (for the time) with the highly acclaimed match for the WWF World Championship on July 11, 1994 on Raw[16] and had another short (one day) reign tag title in January 1995, and Bob Holly beat Bam Bigelow and Tatanka in the Royal Rumble before losing smoking the gun on Raw. Million Dolla Corporation (1995-1996) Main Article: Million Dollar Corporation After Kid and Razor failed to win Championship Tag Team from Billy Gunn and Bart Gunn in October 1995, Kid attacked the gunns' face after the match with a heel turn. On the trip before Survivor in November, he was invited to in a match between Razor Ramon and Sycho Southern. As Razor tried to finish it off, Edge Razor's, Kidd pulled the bed down from Razor, allowing South Hey then to hit Razor with his Powerbomb, and Kidd's fast-counting pinfall, thereby turning the heel. He was the only survivor of his team in Serial Survivor, who was besting rival Marty Jannetty. Razor and Marty would team up to beat Kid and Southern in your home 5. After serial survivors, Kid joins million-dollar Cooperation Ted Dibiase. He stayed with the group until May 1996 when Waltman left the WWF. He lost to Soveo Vega. Notably, Waltman was the only Kliq member not involved in unfavorable Curtain Call which took place at Madison Square Garden the night before his final match from the first WWF running plane, as he was in drug rebels at the time and thus did not participate. [17] World Championship Wrestling (1996-1998) On September 16, 1996, Waltman was shown sitting in the front row for a live episode of Maniacs. [18] Later that night, he used a remote control of New World War II (NWo) propaganda from the ceiling, revealing himself as the newest member of the recently formed faction. [18] He was called Syxx, for he was sixth member of the WCW United States Heavy Belt Championship, leading away to a ladder match for the title in Souled from January 1997, which Syxx lost. [14] The next month, in SuperBrawl VII, Syx pinned Dean Malenko for the WCW Cruiserweight Championship, after hitting him with the title belt, which he grabbed from Guerrero in ride. [14] [19] In June 1997, he lost the championship to Chris Jericho at a webcast house show in Los Angeles, California, minutes after successfully defending against Rey Mysterio, Jr.[1] During a fed with Ric Flair, and a loss to him at Wild Road in August, Syxx desperately reported Flair as part of a segment Nwouk will pay his four-horse segment. [14] This segment leads to a war match in Fall Brawl, where Syxx, Kevin Nash, Buff Bagwell and Konnan defeated the four rider (Flair, Steve McMichael, Chris Benoit and Curt Hennig) after Hennig betrayed the horses and entered the won. [14] In mid-1997, the NWo invoked Wolfpac Rules, allowing Syxx to replace Kevin Nash's defending WCW World Tag Team Championship with Scott Hall. [20] On October 13, 1997, Hall and Syx lost the title of the Brothers Steiner (Rick and Scott). [14] In October, a neck accident underlined Waltman from liters, but he continued to appear on TELEVISION for several weeks later. [1] While later retrieves the he was fired via Federal Express by WCW Chairman Eric Bischoff. Waltman claims this was a power play that pointed to his friends Hall and Nash, who has the backstage influence felt him as a threat. [14] Bischoff later said Waltman was a competent performers when sober, but the saber periods were few and far between, and in many ways, Sean was likely to even have a job. [21] Return to WWF/E (1998-2002) D-Generation X (1998-2000) Main Articles: D-Generation X Waltman performed a promo Waltman back to WWF TV on March 30, 1998 episodes of Monday Night Raw, the night after WrestleMania XIV and days after his fire from WCW. [3] With Shawn Michaels starting a four-year retirement after a WWF World Championship loss and back injury, Triple H was now leader of D-Generation X (DX). He said he formed a DX host and when you start a host, you look at your blood... you look at your blood... you look at what you... you look at what you... you watched the Kliq. [3] Waltman appeared on the scene, commented on Bischoff and Hulk Hogan, and said if they had not dealt with WCW, Hall and Nash would have also turned up in the WWF. [3][14] Bischoff responded on the Nitro the next week by telling Waltman to bite me. [22] Initially called Kid's on the WWF website, he became known as X-Pac by the next Raw. X-Pac feuded with Jeff Jarrett, finally beating him in a hair-vs-hair match at SummerSlam, then with WWF European champion D'Lorown, whom he destroyed on September 21, 1998. He re-lost the title to Brown two weeks later, then won it again on Judgment Day: In Your House in October. [14] Waltman lost the title to Shane McMahon on February 15, 1999. [23] At WrestleMania XV, he lost a championship stay when Triple H, Chyna and Billy Arms, after the temporary resignation of DX. X-Pac and Chen Road wanted a DX reform to be about rebellion, while the others wanted it to be about making money. [1] X-Pac befrinded Kane, a beautiful, upset whom he was partially socialized and encouraged to speak, in an electrolarynx. They won the WWF Tag Team Championship twice together. [24] After DX reunited at the end of 1999 as a healing group, X-Pac lead Kane believed that he should produce in DX, but instead betrayed him, he eventually robbed his girlfriend, Tori. [14] In 2000, X-Pac feuded with DX Road Dog members, and Chris Jericho, who botched powerbomb bolivated waltman for three months with another neck injury. [1] Various faction and stalls (2001-2002) See also: X-Factor and New Order (Professional Wrestling) Waltman in a Dumpster match at King of the Ring 2000 after returning from his neck injury in early 2001, X-Pac somewhat long-held actor and Chris Jericho on the WWF International Championship, cultivated in a fatal match with Chris and Eddie Guerrero of No Way August in February, who Jericho won to retain the title. In February, X-Pac formed a new stable called X-Factor and Just Credible with Albert. [14] During this time, it is usually equipped and credible, but also appears in single matches. He won the WCW Cruiserweight Championship [19] for the second time in his career when he beat Billy Kidman on July 30. Despite the fight conducted during WCW's invasion angle, where the WWF side was mostly leveled as faces, fans were denials of the disaproval fan, later by WWF Edge members When credible put together the ECW / WCW Alliance X-Factor is broken. At SummerSlam, X-Pac defeated Tajiri to win the WWF Light Heavy Championship for the second time during the Cruiserweight title to Kidman, he took time off for another injury [1] The WWF Championship's fixtures heavily abandoned his return to TV, even though he had defended him in several home shows shortly before. Hall, Nash and Hogan returned to the Rock at WrestleMania X8. X-Pac, who came out with a crash, back on Episode 21 of SmackDown!, rejoiced the nWo with attacking Hogan. He said he was waiting four years to do so, because Hogan shot on WCW Thunder after Waltman's fire, saying he couldn't cut the mustard. [14] The story was dropped after the first WWF draft, when the NWo went in before full editing with Hogan SmackDown!. During the NWo feud with Booker T and Goldust a spinebuster botched his wounds and kept him from participating in the federal. [26] On the July 8, 2002 episodes of Raw, Waltman was struggling in his last WWE match, a ten-person tag. This match was also at the end of the NWo angle, as Nash tore his kwadriceps, with Vince McMahon abandoning the group a week later. At SummerSlam, the previous comment, Jim Ross announced WWE and Waltman were involved in ways. [1] Total Littling Action (2002-2006) Waltman, as Syx-Pac, beginner for TNA Liters on September 18, 2002, lost a gauntle match. To reunite his WWF tag partner Scott Hall with B.G. James, whom he's ferrited with Jeff Jarrett and Brian Lawler. [14] On October 9, 2002, Syxx-Pac made his X Division defeat, defeating eight other liters in a ladder to win the TNA X Division. He left TNA after beating Lawler in the first round of a NWA World Championship number one concurrent on November 6. [28] Waltman, as Syx-Pac, turned to TNA for a single night on June 18, 2003, in the first anniversary of pay-by-view, as A.J. [6] On December 9, 2019, it was announced that Waltman would be born in the WWE Hall of Fame a second time (this time under his real name) as part of the class of 2020, this time as a member of the New World Order, along with former NWo stable Hulk Hogan, Kevin Nash, and Scott Hall; this made him the first person to be done two years in a row, and the first to be produced twice as part of team or group. [67] Unfortunately the Hall of Fame ceremony was delayed indefinitely due to the COVID-19 pandemic in the United States. Waltman's personal life had a pregnant self-described problem. She was raised by a single mother, calling herself without supervisor from the age of five. He was tempted several times as a child, and popped out of school in the ninth year. A love of indeed and limited career opportunities leads to him working in local promotions for free, setting up rings and doing other odd jobs before eventually engaged to Joanie Laurer, who is former competition as Chyna in the WWF. [14] Later on, Laurer and Waltman split. In March 2005, Waltman appeared on the VH1 television show Life to Surreal when he visited Laurer in an attempt to reconcile with him. After Laurer refused to reconcile, Waltman was finally rejected other guests. On the show in Tomorrow and Keven Undergaro, Waltman recounted the last time he saw Chyna. [68] Waltman has opened up about the issue of past substances. During his relationship with Laurer, Waltman admits to struggling with a methamphetamines addiction and using several narcotics in addition, such as cocaine and prescription pain medications. [69] In 2008, while living in Mexico, Waltman tried suicide in his Mexico City apartment. Waltman's statement was so overcome with shame and guilt after a physical alteration with then girlfriend Alicia Web, she mixed pills with alcohol and hanged herself from her apartment balcony. Web supposedly found Waltman hanging Waltman and was able to get him down and review him until an ambulance arrived. Following that incident, Waltman was placed in a WWE rehab was patrolled and began his recovery.[70] On April 30, 2017, Waltman was found arsted at Los Angeles's International Airport after they were alleged to have been found in possession of methamphetamines. On May 26, however, they announced that the allegations against Waltman fell after lab results determined the pills Waltman owned were not methamphetamin, nor were they in any form of a narcotics. [71] On September 24, 2018, Waltman announced his ex-wife and mother to his children, Terry Waltman is dating author Angela Nissel, beginning in 2018.
