May16 We are so excited to participate again in the dance of the U.S. Academy's Navy. Every year they undercut each other and we have a responsibility to transform the space to create a really special night for these young men and women. This year it's casino royale. Here are some of the usual pieces we're finishing for this weekend... It's such an amazing event to be a part of because of the rich history. Below is an excerpt from the Parents' Resource Guide to this tradition... Dance in the Ring for the second grade is a right of passage. At this very special event, second-graders officially receive their class rings and blessing them by submerging them in the waters of the seven seas, a bowl of water collected from all seven seas. As the tradition unfolds, priests gather and mix water from the seven seas, then immerse each ring in this water, which symbolizes the navy's spout. It is a solemn tradition that the medic takes very seriously. Here at this official dance at the end of its junior year, second classics are officially allowed to wear their class rings. Dance is an official affair. Everyone who is present will see the best ensign in their official dress. The dresses worn by the ladies are breathtaking – very elegant and refined. There's a immersion and dancing ceremony. If the weather is favorable, the dance takes place outside on the site between Ricoover and Nimitz . If time is not cooperative, it moves inside Dalgren Hall. To complete the dance, they have a spectacular fireworks show. Ring dance was established as an academy tradition in 1925. We like to look back at Ring Days from the past, take a look at the class of 1963 and the event in 1979! This week we have #FirstieFriday special meeting in honor of the public relations brigade team. Ensign 1st Class (Senior) Katie Hawkes was our Brigade Relations Officer (RDA) and was in charge of the team leadership, coordinating the Interacting with The public relations office and like many great photos! MIDN Hawkes is a member of the Chess Club, Navy Spectrum, and is the current president of the Naval Academy's Takuondo team. MIDN Hawkes is a major in mathematics and its current research project is focused on algebraic geometry. She's proven she enjoys math more than anyone we know. She plans to serve as a Surface Warfare Officer at graduation. On Katie's team we also have: 1st grader Anna Walker, who was second regiment PAO for the fall semester and who also serves as president of Lucky Bag (usna's yearbook), a leading photographic coverage of USNA's events in terms of medium media. MIDN Walker plans to join the aviation community after graduating this spring. Midiman 1st Class Delfino Garcia is the 1st Regiment and plans to join the Surface Warfare Community after graduation.
