Keep out of the reach of the children! Skip to content You know what doesn't get enough credit? A glass of wine that can't be knocked over. Seriously, what an amazing invention. Definitely must-have for your crafting surface of choice. You know what else isn't enough credit? Cutting mats! Cutting mats! Cutting mats are even more important to your crafting surfaces than wine glasses that can't be rolled over (I can't believe I said that, but I did.) If you're using a rotary cutter, you're probably using the All cutting coaster. The one. Time. And you probably don't even thank him. But it does a lot of good work for you. That is why you need to make sure that you choose a high-quality cutting mat and treat it properly. Get ready to cut the 101 mats, a very important ingeasing course with me, Professor Suzy (but you can just call me Suzy. And, if at any time you feel the need to step on your cutting mat while you say no matter what: O Captain, my captain, I will accept that as well. But, yes, Suzy is fine.). Depends. When you are looking to buy a cutting matte, there are several things to think about: material, size, use ... You have some options. Let's talk about them. Cutting mats come in many shapes and sizes... and prices. You can definitely find cutting mats for as little as $10, and if that's where your budget is, know that these mats will protect your desk or desktop, but if it's made of hard plastic, it'll come with When using a rotary blade on a hard plastic cutting coaster, leave a small slot. Maybe it doesn't seem like a big deal at first. Thing. Over time, all these grooves add up, and can affect cutting mat. You'll give a few more bucks, but in return, you'll get your little piece of magic. Self-healing cutting mats are actually made with a surface that closes after cutting with a blade. He's really self-healing! These mats are actually made with a surface that closes after cutting with a blade. He's really self-healing! These mats are actually made with a blade. These mats are actually made with a blade. He's really self-healing cutting with a blade. He's really self-healing! These mats are actually made with a blade a little better, which rotary cutting breeze. Big vs. SmallNow let's talk about sizes. When it comes to cutting mats, bigger ones are not always better. Sometimes, but not always. The main thing you want to think about is portability. Are you a great tourist? Do you do a lot of stitching in sewing groups, in other people's houses or in class environments? If you answered yes, I need a break right now, and my easy project is coming, then you might prefer a smaller cutting mat, like an 18 x 24 mat. It's a big size for travel, and it won't need its own seat on the plane. If you're going for size and portable table-cutting mat you'll find is probably 24 x 36. It's big. That's a bad thing. It will guide your rotary cutter to infinity and beyond. Portable cutting coaster and slide it out of the way when you're not using it. Here are some official Professor Suzy recommendations: The 5 best cutting mats I've had this cutting up and sitting. Be sure not to iron accidentally on the side of the cutting coaster. I've done it a few times and now my Cut 'n Press has a bit of a warp on it. Keep hints: This is not a self-healing mat, so I wouldn't recommend that this is your main cutting surface. I recently inspected one of these folding cutting coasters so you can see a smaller version of 12 x 17 here. Curved seams allow this mat to completely fold in half, and then return to the site without antipathetic seams inducted with a dead zone. You can cut anywhere on the mat and your rotary cutter will not be caught by the flap. I treated myself to this little cutting mat a few years ago and I always get really excited when a project comes along that allows me to use it. The rotating function is perfect for trimming blocks. 6 1/2 square ruler and this cutting matte doubles my speed every time I make a Kris Kross quilt. This is my standard go-to eashing mat. It's big enough that I can easily cut the yard and it's also portable so I can throw it on the floor to trim the duvet. My exact setup includes this kitchen from IKEA with 25 x 40 piece Plywood on top (the guy at Home Depot cut it for me) and this cutting coaster is perfectly placed on it. It may not be the best cutting table, but it's perfect height (so I don't have to bend over and make my already bad posture worse), the perfect size for my small studio and has storage shelves. 3mm thick, 3-ply high-tech polymer material - translation: unusable. This professional cutting mat is large enough to cut out a standard quilted cotton yard (36 x 42), fully positioned. Since you will be able to see all the fabric at once, it is perfect for fussy cutting, as well as large projects! Be nice to your cutting coaster! I mean, yes, it's made that the blades go over it all the time so it's going to take a little abuse, but there are some ways you can make your fabric when you reach the sawing stage of a boring rotary blade, but this same back and forth movement can cause grooves in your mat. There are some wounds from which even magic mats can not recover. Rotate the mat. You may notice that you have a few common cuts or lines that your rotary blade follows much more often than others. Turning the mat can prevent you from carrying too much in a particular area of the mat. Bonus if you have a two-seater, so you can turn that baby around! Feed your mat a happy home. You can prevent your sypoccal cutting coaster by storing it straight or hanging it on the edge! It will completely destroy their posture, and eventually look like me. Also: remember that your cutting to aster is not an ironing board. That's the end of class today, everybody. It's a great job. Cutting the Mat 101 wouldn't be the same without you. This is Professor Suzy checking out to take a bath in a balloon... with my self-healing cutting coaster. And a glass of wine without a tip. Wine.
