Edit Comments Share Berzerker is the fourth and final opponent a player will face in Burrito Bison Revenge. Unfortunately, there is no way to really beat Berzerker to grab the launchador and throw them out of the ring, after which the player will receive a Time Taco item for their skill start counter[edit | edit sources] Berzerker's starting counter is more simplified compared to the Cyborg Jawbreaker start meter. The marker quickly moves to the right along the red bar, and when it touches the side of the red bar, the loop marker back to the left side of the red bar. What makes Berzerker the toughest opponent is that the position of a small white stripe on the red bar is random every time you enter the ring! Randomization prevents the launch button. Chocolate Chuck • Brutus • (Cyborg) Jawbreaker • Berzerker Involvement[edit | editing source] In a futile attempt to stop Burrito Bison after defeating Cyborg Jawbreaker, the gummy bears opened the portal to another dimension. Berzerker came out of this portal. After being lied to by gummy he wears Berzerker steps into the ring in anticipation of a real challenge to his abilities. But instead of another hulking warrior, Berzerker meets only a paltry man in a bison costume. Wanting nothing to do with Burrito Bison Berzerker just threw the launchador off the ring with great force. Community content is available through CC-BY-SA, unless otherwise noted. Edit Comments Share Burrito Bison: Launcha Libre is the Burrito Bison series. It is described by IGN as the worst of all its sequels, but has a different view of the world of Bison Burrito. Gameplay[edit | editing sources] The game is similar to the original Burrito Bison and its sequel, Burrito Bison Revenge. One of the most visible changes is the ability to play as multiple characters and use a aim-based start instead of using the knob. Characters and use a aim-based start instead of using the knob. Plot[edit | edit source] In the same grocery store as the first two games Burrtio Bison finds the Cookbook he wants to buy. But suddenly from the portal to Candy Land hundreds of gummy bears jump out and start wreaking havoc on the city. To make matters worse, chef Gummy steals the Burrito Bison cookbook. With the help of his Fellow Launchadores, Burrito Bison manages to beat the gummy chef, but unfortunately the cookbook pages get sucked into Candy Land and now Launchadores must travel to the candy land to download the recipes. Edit Comments Share Loading Screen Burrito Bison is the first game in volves jumping and bouncing on gummy bears to maintain high speed and break through walls to escape Candyland. Storyline[edit | sources of editing] One day, when Burrito Bison was buying groceries, a mysterious bag appeared on the shelf, which suddenly grabbed him and kidnapped him, which placed him in the world of candy inhabited by gummy bears. He then found himself in a cage and was forced to fight Jawbreaker. Eventually, he flies to the point where he escapes. Sequel, called Burrito Bison Revenge continues Mechanics[edit | source] There are many mechanics that were introduced and improved later Here's a list of some of them: Updates allow for further progress that becomes more expensive at each level, but can be helpful. To learn more, go to the upgrades section. Special gummies, like Bubble Gummy, allow you to increase speed and height. When touched, they allow you to play a mini game where if the player is doing well, he will give you an extra kick in speed. Perfect Launches is done by clicking (or pressing spacebar) when the needle is in the white zone. In this way, the wming of this target whisks Bison at a higher speed than usual, along with damage to the enemy. 10 Perfect Launches will defeat Jawbreaker and make him visibly injured for the rest of the game. Upgrades[edit | source] There are 2 types of upgrades that can be purchased: player upgrades and 6 qummy upgrades respectively), each with a higher price. Player upgrades increase Bison's Burrito skills, and gummy updates unlock and increase the likelihood of them appearing. The chart says more about game improvements: Player upgrades [edit | editing sources] Name Flexible cables Slippery cables Pickpocket Bounciness Rocket Slam Resistance Effect Launches are stronger. Gummy bounces and hits the floor cause less loss of speed. Gummies give you more cash when squished. Gummies give bounce higher, and less speed is lost. More rocket slams can be used at once. Less speed is needed to bypass doors and cops. Gummy Types[edit | source] Normal Gummy: When squished, these guys will make you lose speed and bounce higher. Each of them destroyed the rockets. Police: Hitting cops will cause you to lose speed and can even stop bison. Hitting them with rocket strikes will not have a negative effect on them. Items-Carrying Gummies: These bombers and thieves will kick speed up, or give the player serious money. Special Gummies [edit | source] Bubble Gummies that will send you to jump out with a pulse. Gummies Rocket: These rocket riders have a fast rocket that will send you flying! Pogo Gummies: They have a pogo stick that jumps 3 times. Clicking when a pogo stick that jumps 3 times will reward you with an increase in speed. Pepper Gummies: Peppers allow endless rocket hits! Burrito Bison Revenge is a sequel to Burrito Bison, which was published in February 2012. The plot of this part of the series Burrito Bison ended. Burrito Bison, after noticing that he has lost his wallet, returns to Candyland to even more fear and destruction. And of course, recover your wallet. Zones[edit | editing sources] In Burrito Bison Revenge there are several separated zones of Giant Doors that need to be broken to move on. Ravaged Arena[edit | editing sources] Ravaged Arena is the first location in story mode. The background shows arena with Burrito Bison, but completely in ruins with gummy splashes all over and crashed vehicles from the first game. That's where the burrito bison launches itself. Breaking the giant door from the Empty Arena will give you access to the Sweet Desert. Sweet Desert[edit | editing sources] Sweet Desert is the second area in story mode. The background depicts a desert with all kinds of sweets embedded, next to cacti. One cactus appears in the distance from time to time. Sweets are: donuts, lollipops, cookies, sugar bags, candy canes, gumball machines, etc. Sometimes a sign criticizing the Bison appears.no Candy Forest (WIP) Area 4 (WIP) Giant Safe [edit | editing sources] You need to get over the clouds, so you turn into purple cotton candy and fly into the wall while still in cottoncandy. Bosses[edit | edit sources] There are several bosses in Burrito Bison Revenge that can be defeated. Chocolate Chuck [edit | editing source] Chocolate Chuck is the first boss in Burrito Bison Revenge to be unlocked by default. It can be defeated by hitting a certain number of excellent starts. Its rotating meter is shown as a semicircle, while the left and right sides are red and the bottom is white. Defeating Chocolate Chuck will give you the achievement of The Way The Cookie Crumbles, as well as allow you to purchase Brutus in the store. Brutus[edit | editing sources]
