Craigslist charlotte auto parts for sale by owner

Also known as the coolest cars we have found on the site in recent months. It's okay if you think CarBuzz has been on the Craigslist payroll in recent months. We've been writing a lot lately about cool cars that are on sale on the website. This was unsponsored content, just a love for finding fantastic cars for sale in odd places. Our search revealed many offers for supercars, a few new cars that are turned upside down and one or two really, really stupid scammers. We fully intend to continue our search for the best cars on Craigslist, but this week we'll take a look back at some of the best cars we've found so far. So far, the Porsche 918 Spyder is the only member of the Hypercar holy trinity that has been offered for sale on Craigslist. Okay, that may not be entirely true, but it's the only member of this exclusive trio that has made it into this series. (Again, if you've seen a Ferrari LaFerrari or McLaren P1 for sale on Craigslist, please let us know.) Since we last saw this 918, its price has fallen a bit. Originally listed at 1.59 million US dollars, but now it is at 1.49 million DOLLARS. The car is still listed in the online inventory of Empire Exotic Motors, the Addison, Texas dealership that originally posted the Craigslist ad. For reference, its price is about 600,000 US dollars above the original price tag of the 918 with 845,000 US dollars. That doesn't seem like an unfair price to us, but perhaps the Craigslist crowd disagrees. Perhaps the dealership should offer trades for jet skis and home repairs in its next ad. If you're wondering why the 918 has already appeared on Craigslist when the P1 and LaFerrari are nowhere to be found, we think the reason comes to the production. A total of 918 units of the hybrid hypersports car were produced, which is far more than the 375 P1s McLaren or the 499 LaFerraris Ferrari. Being the first member of the hypercar holy trinity featured on Craigslist was easy enough for the 918 Spyder to secure a spot on our list of the best Craigslist cars. If you see an R34 Nissan GT-R for sale on Craigslist chances, it's a scam. We wrote about such a scam before we found this gem on Craigslist Miami. Said gem is a 1999 Nissan GT-R V-SPEC with 16,000 miles and a price tag of 64,999 U.S. dollars. The seller claimed to have all the papers in order, although the car was not technically approved for import into the US, at least what the 25-year-old Concerns. We took the seller's word for it, partly because the ad looked genuine and partly because we wanted to believe that a legal R34 was casually around Craigslist, waiting to be bought by a wealthy JDM fanatic. For the possibility of owning an R34 GT-R sooner rather than later, this car deserves a place in our Bestofa. The Ferrari F40 is a legend in the automotive world, and seeing one for sale on Craigslist was truly stunning. This ad was published by San Francisco Sports Cars, and if in the end to see the car on Craigslist and buy it, then the dealership would get a spectacular return on its investment. The cost of displaying on Craigslist as a trader is 5 dollars. The F40 was sold for .49 million U.S. dollars. We actually spoke to San Francisco Sports Cars and learned that all of his cars are listed on Craigslist because it puts the local business first. This is a car dealership that gets it, folks. The fact that it is one of the most legendary supercars of all time brings the F40 a place on this list. Hell, it could be the coolest Craigslist car we've ever come across. Of course, we would miss it if we did not pay tribute to the fraudsters we have come across so far. We leave the pinballers alone, but the dummies trying to sell non-existent Koenigsegg Regeras and Bugatti Veyrons deserve another round of ridicule. While we really want Craigslist to pull these fake posts faster, it's always funny to see that people think they're actually going to be able to pull a fast one in the market for ultra-exclusive multi-million dollar hypercars.
