A short guide to college writing

Sylvan Saul Barnet was born in Brooklyn, New York, on December 11, 1926. During World War II, he served in the army for two years. He graduated in English from New York University in 1948 and received his master's degree in 1950 and a Doctorate in 1954 from Harvard University. For the next three decades, he taught freshmen and literature at Tufts University. He has written or edited a number of textbooks, including Introduction to Literature, A Short Guide to Writing About Literature, A Short Guide to Writing About Art, Study of Literature: A Manual of Critical Essays and Concepts, and Critical Thinking, Reading and Writing: A Brief Guide to Argumentation. In the early 1960s, he decided that his students at Tufts University needed a Shakespeare edition with each play in a separate list, including introductions and study aids. He presented the idea to editors at the New American Library. Editors approved the idea, and Barnet became editor-in-chief of the Signet Classic Shakespeare series. He co-authored with William Burt of Zen Ink Paintings, which was published in 1982. He died of cancer on January 11, 2016 at the age of 89. Author: Sylvan Barnet was born in Brooklyn, New York, and was educated at Erasmus Hall High School, New York University (BA) and Harvard University (MA, Ph.D.). For a while he was a semi-professional magician, but when he discovered that he could fool all people all the time the work became boring, so he became a university professor. For 30 years, he taught composition and English literature at Tufts University, published scientific articles on Shakespeare, and authored several books on the art of writing. Pat Bellanca was born in East Hannover, New Jersey; He graduates in English from Wellesley College (BA) and Rutgers University (MA, Ph.D.). She teaches at the Harvard College Writing Program and is director of the writing program at Harvard Extension School, the university's open enrollment evening department. Her research interests include studies of composition and Gothic fiction, fields that are not unrelated. Marcia Stubbs was born in Newark, New Jersey, where she was a drum majorette for the bandWeequahic High School and was educated at Stanford University and the University of Michigan. She taught at Tufts University, Harvard University and Wellesley College, where she directed a writing program. In addition to her student composition notes, she wrote poems and lyrics translations, and co-wrote several books on writing. About this title may belong to another edition of this title.
