Strait-line 64030 laser tape-newell rubbermaid

Einige Word-Funktionen k'nnen in Google Docs nicht angezeigt werden und werden bei andernungen entferntDetails anzeigenNarrow line laser tape is a precision measuring device. The laser tape uses a visible laser beam, aimed at a perpendicular wall surface. The device measures the time it takes to receive the reflected beam light back into the unit. Install a 9-volt battery in the Strait-Line laser unit. Remove the battery compartment door and adjust the battery connector to the battery. Place the battery in the compartment and replace it. Adjust the unit to the desired distance to be measured. If you measure something like a 2-by-4 piece of wood, place the board on the floor and tor). Adjust the unit on the board, then press the FT/M button to select the measurement name. FT will show the measurement in feet and inches: While M will provide the measurement in meters. Point the front of the laser tape toward the vertical wall, which will reflect the laser light backwards on the unit. Press the Read button on the button panel to perform the measurement. If the measurement is to be taken while moving the unit, press and hold the Read button while moving the laser tape along the board. The unit will display the distance as the position changes. Press the button with an L on top of it, if you are taking an area measurement. After pressing this button, place the Strait-Line laser tape device at the farthest distance from the wall to be measured. When you are ready to take the first measurement, which will be the length, press the Read button once. Wait for the letter W in the reading to start flashing: Then, take the measurement from the other wall by pressing the Read button once more. After performing both measurements, the unit will calculate and display the total area. Tips The Strait-Line laser tape cannot measure through the glass, even though the laser beam passes through the glass. The glass interferes with the amount of reflected light the unit receives. Warnings Never stare at the laser beam. The laser beam from the Strait-Line laser tape is bright enough that permanent eye damage can occur.
