Dan Foley's history opened the first Taco Tico in 1962.[1] in his native Wichita, Kansas, and began franchising new locations in 1967. The company was a regional hit until 1980. Dan's cousin, Mike Foley, founded a similar chain in 1960, Taco Grande, also in Wichita. [2] In 1988, Foley sold the company and the chain to a former KFC executive. The meat recipe, which gave Taco Tico their unique flavor, was changed at that time. This meat was sent to stores in frozen tubes from the main distribution centre. The new flavor was unpopular, and Taco Tico has since moved on to the original. On March 5, 2013, 10 restaurants were closed by the Kansas Revenue Department for non-payment of $434,939.23 in sales tax. [3] The restaurants were later reopened after filing bankruptcy and a transaction between Ajax International Group and the Kansas Revenue Department. [4] Three independently franchised locations were not affected by the closure or filing of bankruptcy. On July 11, 2013, the state of Kansas again closed 10 Taco Tico franchises for non-payment of state taxes. [5] Three other Taco Tico restaurants in the Wichita area were closed in August and September 2013. [6] On February 5, 2014, the new owner reopened one of Wichita's former locations, with plans to open at least four more stores in Wichita by the end of 2014. [7] On October 25, 2014, one of Topeka's closed locations reopened after being bought by new owners, but has since closed. [8] By November 2018, the company had two stores in Wichita and one store each in Arkansas City, Augusta, Derby and Newton, Kansas. [9] In 2019, The company opened a store in El Dorado, Kansas[10] Now privately owned (no longer franchised) Taco Ticos includes locations in Claremore, Oklahoma, El Dorado, Kansas, Topeka, Kansas, Texarkana, Texas, Lexington, Kentucky, Louisville, Kentucky, Duncan, Oklahoma, Mason City, Iowa, Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Kenner, Louisiana. It's all about taste. start by saying Taco Tico is one of my wife's favorite places to go He's in Claremore. She used to go when she was little and kept going when she was in town. Taco Tico was a Tex-Mex chain started in Kansas... Years. They used to have a lot of restaurants across several states. There are not many Taco Tico left. Prices were average for a typical Taco Bell, Taco Bueno as place. I had the taco tray, which included 3 tacos, beans, rice, and crisps. My wife almost always receives enchiladas. She loves her, I don't so much. It was ok, but it's missing any kind of Mexican flavor. It's probably more of a matter of personal taste. More taste. More
