Produced in South Korea, India, Turkey, Russia, Ukraine, Pakistan, Kazakhstan and Iran. Accent (X3) was first introduced in 1995 as a model replacing Hyundai Excel. In the Netherlands and Australia he also bore the name of his predecessor Excel, and in France Pony. The car was produced in bodywork: a sedan, a three- and five-door hatchback. The choice offered two petrol engines of 1.3 liters and 1.5 liters 12V (60-99 hp). Hyundai Accent X3 Hyundai Accent became the company's first independent development. A new, fairly modern design, simple construction and low price allowed Accent to win a market niche in many countries, including Russia. Was introduced in 1994. The new car would be a serious bid for the European market. Appearance Hyundai Accent of the first generation is made in the style of biodesign, which dominated in mid-1990s in the automotive industry. For first-generation painting machines, unusual colours were presented, for example lilac or pink. The car had enough brittle bumpers. The interior was made in rounded shapes and had a thoughtful ergonomics. The car was manufactured in different levels of equipment: from the cheapest, with one rearview mirror to expensive – with automatic transmission, air conditioning, hydraulic booster, electric windows and airbags. The second generation Since 2000 Hyundai has started producing an updated version of the Accent, which has an LC index, with more straight shapes and an enlarged interior space. In Korea this model was sold under the new name Verna. In 2003 a small facelift was made, the model got the LC2 index. Hyundai Accent LC The car got a new 1.3-liter 12-valve SOHC and a 1.5-liter 16-valve DOHC engines. Also appeared for the first time a diesel version with a 1.5-liter three-cylinder turbodiesel CRDi. In Europe and North America Accent was available in the following versions: GL, GLS and GT with a 1.5 litre engine, and since 2003 with 1.6 liters. GSi, CDX and MVi were available in Australia. In India it would be held until 2013, until 2012 in Russia (in the TagAZ factory). Currently still sold in Egypt. In 2003, the factory began to release a restyling version. The dimensions have changed, the grid has become iron again. The issue ended in 2006. Third generation In 2006 Hyundai introduced the completely redesigned Accent model. In Russia, this model was called Verna. The car was built on the same base as the Kia Rio. It had a new look, a new interior and a new CVVT engine with a volume of 1.4 and 1.6 liters. Hyundai Accent MC In Russia this car became unpopular and in 2010 it was taken out of production. The fourth generation The model was presented at the Beijing Motor Show in 2010. Compared to its predecessor, it expanded by 60 mm (up to 4340 mm), was wider by 5 mm (1700) and lower by 10 mm (1460). The distance between the axles increased by 70 mm (2570 mm). Front – McPherson struts, rear – semi-independent beam. Hyundai Accent RB The engines are represented by two petrol four cylinders – 1.4 liters with a capacity of 107 liters. Of. and 1.6 litres with a capacity of 123 litres. Of. Engines merge a five-speed manual gearbox or a four-speed automatic transmission. In all sales countries, with the exception of Russia and China, this model is called Hyundai Accent (Korea, USA, Canada, Australia, Ukraine, Kazakhstan, etc.). In Colombia and Israel, the model is called the Hyundai i25 Accent. In India – Hyundai Verna. In the People's Republic of China the model is called Hyundai Verna, but unlike India, here the car has a different form of the front body and another form of side mirrors. In Mexico, this model model Dodge Attitude (but the Hyundai icon is saved). In Russia, the model was named Hyundai Solaris and adapted to Russian conditions.
