She is a Huntress, having been trained at the now-defunct Beacon Beacon Academy Beacon. Her favorite weapon is a variant of the Scythe ballistic chain (VBCS)[4] called Gambol Shroud. She first appeared in the Black trailer with Adam Taurus, her partner and mentor[5] in White Fang, a Faunus terrorist group. After leaving the organization, Blake enrolled at Beacon Academy, where she became a member of team RWBY along side with Ruby Rose, Weiss Schnee and Yang Xiao Long. She is also the daughter of Ghira Belladonna, the current head of Menagerie and his wife Kali Belladonna. Look [editing | editing source] Blake is a beautiful woman with young light skin, wavy black hair and amber eyes. Her faunus feature is a pair of black cat ears on her head. Original costume (Volumes 1–3)[editing | editing source] During her participation in Beacon, she wears a black vest with buttons, a tail and a single silver button at the front. Beneath it is a white, sleeveless, high-neck, undershirt culture and white shorts with a zipper on the front of each leg, emblazoned with the YKK logo of the real-life Japanese zipper manufacturer. She also wears black boots with small heel and full stockings with a color gradation from black to purple at her ankles. Her emblem is visible on the outside of both thighs, just under white shorts. On the left arm is a detached black sleeve with a silver cuff around the bicep, and the black ribbons are wrapped around both forearms. A small, free, black scarf is wrapped around her neck, and a grey magnetic backpack is tied to her back, hidden from her hair. She often keeps the gun attached to the magnetic backpack when she's not using it. A black ribbon is tied with a large bow at the top of the head, with her cat ears hidden inside the curls. She's wearing Catseye-style purple eyeshadow. Pyjamas [editing | editing source] During her presence at Beacon, Blake pyjamas are a black, long-sleeved, yukata-style shirt with edge over a purple T-shirt and a suitable skirt. A black obi is wrapped around her waist and tied with a black and white string. While at he wears his bow while he sleeps. Alternative Sucfit (Intruder)[editing | source editing] Alternative Intruder Team During the events of A Minor Hiccup and Painting the Town.... Blake wears an alternate outfit codenamed Intruder. [6] This outfit consists of a white shirt with a V-neck, zip, black hem and three-quarter sleeves. Its emblem is printed in white on the left side of the shirt. Wear black pants with a vertical grey stripe on the outside of each leg and a black belt. Attached to the back of the belt is a black piece of fabric that covers her from hip to hip. Beneath this is a longer, translucent, purple piece of fabric. She also wears black high-heeled boots with two straps and buckles and purple underoles, reaching the middle of the calf. He keeps the black ribbons on his forearms and his black bow. Dance [editing | source editing] During Beacon Dance, Blake wears a short, purple, asymmetrical, halter neck dress that is divided to the right and has a black collar. Translucent black mesh covers her shoulders, neckline and back, and the black decorative swirls cover the left side of the dress and continue the left belt. The outfit is filled with black pumps, and she wears a teal bow on her head, unlike her usual black one. Beacon Uniform[edit | edit source] During his participation in Beacon, Blake wears the same brown shoes, red tartan skirt, white blouse with brown trim and thin red bow, a brown vest with gold buttons and a brown blazer with gold trims like any other girl attending Beacon Academy, along with black knee-length socks. Post-Timeskip Outfit (Volumes 4-7)[edit | edit source] After timekip after the Fall of Beacon, its design features a long layer of white tail with dark purple inner lining and a sleeveless black culture top, as well as a belt attached from the back. The top of the crop has rectangular and diamond-shaped cutouts around the neckline, which have purple contours starting with volume 6. In addition, she wears a white belt over black pants fitted. After facing Adam in Heroes and Monsters, Blake was left with an X-shaped scar just above his left hip. Over its trunk is a diagonal strap that has a smaller magnetic clip on the back that is used to wrap the Gambol Shroud. She wears black thigh-high heeled boots with golden edges around the top. The left boot has a belt wrapped twice around the thigh. Each boot bears the Belladonna emblem in white on the outside of the thigh, and a white bag is attached to the back of its belt. In Of Runaways and Stowaways, Blake pulls out his bow and throws it into the ocean. Later, in The Lady in the Shoe, Adam cuts off his tailcovers. From Volume 4 on, ears Blake cat tend to fold down or otherwise move in sync with her emotional state, just like the ears of a real cat. Atlas Outfit (Volume 7-Current)[edit 7-Current][edit source editing] After arriving in Atlas and meeting with James Ironwood, Blake cuts his hair to shoulder-length bob. She changes her outfit to a purple sleeveless suit with boots attached, which has light purple soles and an sie. The Catsuit has a high neck with a single short silver zipper alongside matching zippers running from her thighs to her ankles on the front of her legs. A pair of knee matching color to the catsuit with silver studs on them are attached to the knee of the catsuit. Tailcoat her long, white coat has desaturated purple detailing on the chest, sleeves, sides and collar next to a dark purple details on the back. She has a narrow belt around the collar and a wide white belt fastened around her waist through the straps of his coat. The belt has two bags attached to the back. Coattails end in a point and the inner lining is vividly purple. The front zip of the layer is upside down and extends to the bottom of the layer, and there are additional zips along the lower half of the sleeves with a single purple line running between the zipper and its shoulders. Around each wrist is a bracelet with a dark purple belt and has a desaturated purple magnetic backpack on the back. It displays a cool, reserved and serious personality most of the time, but does not lack a humorous side, which is usually in the form of dry spirit and sarcasm. Blake is a just person, respecting other people's lives, whether they're Faunus or not. He strongly despises those who judge and discriminate on the basis of racial prejudice. Blake is sincere, going so far as to indirectly insult the Schnee Dust Company in front of his heiress and defend Faunus of any kind. Blake turns out to be an introvert. Although she reads books to distance herself from the discussion at hand, as the series continues, she turns out to be more facetly and friendly. Blake seems very familiar when discussing the history and situation of her people. As a Faunus, Blake has faced discrimination in the past and carries a bow when around people to be treated for her character and not for her species. However, despite having no hatred for people, she has seen the real world work and wonders she can undo so many years of hatred and pain. After Beacon's fall, Blake gives up her bow and no longer covers her ears, not even around people, showing that she is no longer afraid to be seen as a Faunus. Blake's past negatively influenced his personality, leading to stubbornness, sleep deprivation and trust problems at times. She also has self-loathing issues, seeing herself as a criminal hiding in plain sight because of her past with white Fang until her colleagues convinced that they still have confidence and took care of her, despite her being a Faunus and a former member of Fang White, and seeing herself as a coward running away from her problems, seeing her Appearance as a prospect of her tendency to avoid conflict and feeling unworthy of the love of her parents her after she left them behind. However, she has a strong sense of justice as she strongly disagreed with Fang White raising the level of violence and hatred towards people, especially Adam's, and leaving Adam and the organization after realizing how mischievous and careless for the lives of the people he was and eventually decided to fight against him after discovering that he was planning to overthrow Sienna Khan and Because of her parents' unconditional love and Sun Wukong's support for her, Blake began to grow from her problems of self-loathing and distrust of others, with Sun convincing her friends to help her as much as she thinks she is helping them. She also uses this to persuade Iia Amitola to leave the White Fang and confront Adam with the help of others and to meet with her teammates at Haven. Her Faunus features also seem to give her other aspects of a cat, it would be climbing up to Ruby's bed to stay away from Ruby and Yang's pet dog, Zwei. Another time, she is distracted and instinctively decides to follow a laser pointer light to a Yang waiting in the burning of the candle. She also has a great love for tuna, so it shows in Round One, where she drools over a bowl of noodles topped with tuna. Powers and Skills [editing | editing source] Blake shows great agility, speed and stamina, as shown when fighting against several enemies still maintaining movement and energy without fatigue. It also presents a high level of skill when handling The Gambo Shroud. She can cut opponents with amazing speed and divert the machine gun entry from the fire using her blade. Blake also possesses remarkable reflexes because she is able to dodge an almost empty shot from Adam using her appearance. She is also able to jump great distances, jumping from building to building and even on moving cars, as seen in City Painting.... Her fighting style takes advantage of her agility and reflexes, emoving her opponents' blows until she is in the best position for a counter-strike. As a Faunus, Blake possesses the ability of night vision, giving him the ability to competently in the dark, so it looks after shooting power during the White Fang Faction Meeting, using darkness as a means for her and Sun to get rid of Roman Torchwick and White Fang. Weapon[edit | edit source] Main article: Gambol Giugiu Blake dual-wielding dual-wielding and the weapon chosen by Blake is Gambol the Shroud, a sword that has three forms. When wrapped, the weapon is able to slice opponents in two with its cleaver-like cap. However, when unsheathed, Blake is able to use both a sword and sheath in tandem against her opponents. It can also turn into a weapon. Gambol the Shroud was destroyed in the battle against Adam in the Lady in the Shoe; blade being cut horizontally in half by Wilt, and later received an upgrade in Atlas. Using the black ribbon that extends off the grip of the weapon, Blake can convert the Gambol Shroud into a kusarigama, a grappling hook to swing or her friends, or catch or confuse her opponents. Semblance [editing | editing source] Main article: Semblance #Blake Belladonna Using her semblance in the air to launch herself towards a Nevermore Blake's Semblance, Shadow, allows her to create shadow-clones of her. [7] These clones push her in the direction of her choice and can be used to fool and disorient opponents. Blake can use Dust to give her clones additional skills, such as creating a burst of fire or freezing an opponent's weapon instead. Trivia [editing | source editing] Blake alludes to both Belle and the Beast of Beauty and the Beast. For more information about this allusion, as well as other choices the creators have made for this character, see Blake Belladonna/Behind the Scenes. Blake is a black variant of middle English. Bella donna means fair lady or beautiful woman in Spanish and Italian, and is also the name of a toxic plant known as deadly nightshade. The plant usually carries poisonous black berries, which gives to Blake's black theme. She also frequently wears purple bell-shaped flowers, which gives her Aura color. Blake's name and love of literature may be a random reference to the renowned English poet William Blake. The Rooster Teeth Team said Blake is one of the hardest characters to write for. [8] Miles Luna and Kerry Shawcross stated that Blake prefers to drink tea for coffee. [9] In Destiny, when Weiss suggests the two drink coffee, Blake opts for tea. It was also mentioned in the Fan Service Podcast. When asked about her bow by a fan during Blake AMA Week, Arryn replied that Blake has a closet full of bows all neatly lined up on the walls. [10] Monty stated during a livestream that the lack of a navel in her original costume was an error with her character model. [citation required] However, he has one in the other suits. Blake's cat ears, that's what they look like in The Stray. In the Field Trip episode, Blake is shown to be uncomfortable around, or even scared of, most likely because she is a Faunus cat. This aspect is played for comedy in episodes by RWBY Chibi. During group battle scenes, music often moves to dramatic piano scales when the focus moves only on Blake, as seen in episodes as Players and Pieces, Best Day Ever, Painting the Town... and Round One. This could be kind of a leitmotif for Blake. On her first night at the Beacon, Blake tells Ruby that her book is about a man with two souls. The first line of the page on the right of the book says, He raised the glass to his lips. - a direct quote from Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Blake is a dlc character played for free in BlazBlue: Cross Tag Battle. [11] In the fourth episode of the genre:LOCK, another animated series produced by Rooster Teeth, one of the main characters, Yasamin Madrani, can be seen dressed as Blake (Volume 4-7) in Ether. Blake, along with Ruby, Nora Valkyrie and Jaune Arc, is one of the characters who own an item sold in the Rooster Tooth store: her backpack. It is possible that Blake's Shadow Semblance was inspired by the hologram's armor accessory ct from Red vs. Blue, which worked and was used very similar to Blake's Semblance. On 19 July 2019, limited collaboration between RWBY and SMITE was announced. [14] The RWBY team is confirmed to be made up of skins with Blake as skin for Acaterasu. [15] Blake's Huntress license number is 63600-23412-56709. On a Galaxy Con Livestream, Arryn says that she is quite similar to Blake to whom Barbara responds, Arryn also likes men and women, implying that just like her voice actor, Blake is bisexual. Barb follows with, I think it's pretty obvious that Blake likes all people. [16] Although since some thought it was a headcan from vocal actors, a Reddit AMA with RWBY co-writer Eddy Rivas answering a question that asked, ... we learned sexuality both Coco and Blake, with Coco being gay and Blake being Bi, [will we] learn about the sexuality of other characters, either in the show or books? Eddy goes on the answer with a simple yes! and did not deny the canonicity of Blake's sexuality. [17] During the RTX 2020 RWBY Panel, Blake's birthday is confirmed to be on January 19, making it Capricorn. Blake was said to initially have iridium heterochromia, one of her eyes being blue.
