Many manufacturers also allow owners to download free versions of repair and manuals for different models and years of cars from their websites. Both Free-Auto-Repair-Manuals.com JustGiveMeTheDamnManual.com allow users to search for automated repair manuals based on the car manufacturer. Each site displays an intuitive list of manufacturer logos from which the user is able to choose to see all the manuals available for it. Clicking on a manufacturer like BMW allows the user to view books for different models such as 3 series cars or 5 series. By clicking on a specific model, the user is able to then choose the exact year of the car for which he needs the manual. ManualsLib.com enables users to search manuals by selecting a brand or doing a keyword search. As it offers manuals for products other than vehicles only, users should use keyword search tools to find the exact year, and an automated manual repair model is required. Different manufacturers host repair manuals in different parts of their sites, but in most cases they are in a section dedicated to car owners rather than prospective buyers. Buyers.
