Notes begin with blank music loss paper consisting of graphs with five lines and four spaces, each representing a note. Songwriters who compose songs in standard musical notation use staff paper to create sheet music, which can then be passed on to musicians who interpret sheet music for a musical performance. Today, it's easier than ever to make your own sheet music. With notation software such as Finale, or the free web-based Noteflight service, anyone can turn their musical ideas into professional sheet music. Use Noteflight to get started (see Resources). Noteflight is a free web-based music notation service that allows you to write, print and even save your notes as music files for playback. Noteflight has a clean, easy-to-use interface that allows even a beginner to create a song in sheet music. Because Noteflight allows you to listen to what you've written, you can experiment with different notes until you create something that sounds good even if you're not familiar with music composition. Create a Noteflight account and sign in to start creating your notes. You can start writing your song right away. Click New Score at the top of the page located on a toolbar to create an empty note document. Select whether notes should be private or shared. Noteflight presents you with an empty note sheet in Key of C with a 4/4 time signature. Click Edit Title at the top of your sheet music, and type the name of your song, and then click Edit Composer and type your name. On the Score menu with the Change Time Signature or Change Key Signature command, make the necessary changes to your key signature or time signature. Add notes and rests to your notes by clicking on the blank music staff. A notehead appears, and you can drag and click where you want the note to appear. You can also use the floating palette to select different note durations. When you insert your notes, Noteflight automatically reformatts notes to keep the correct number of beats per bar. To listen to what you typed at any time, go to the Play menu and select the playback option you want. Print sheet music when you're done composing your song. The result will be a professional score on your song composition. You can also use Noteflight to create an audio file with your composition. With Noteflight, you can assign actual instrument sounds to the appropriate parts. Go to File and select Export to save the finished notes as an MP3 or wav file. This allows you to take an example recording for your band. tax refund may make you want to this month and dip into the funds stored in your checking account. But a lack of three-day weekends and shopping holidays in March means you don't get much bang for your buck. Don't be fooled by discounts and offers that can drive you to spend more money than you should. This is the perfect time of year to do some spring cleaning and get your financial house in order at the same time. Here's a rundown of the items you should hold off on buying in March.The temptation to overspend may be high this month as your favorite retailers fill their store windows - and your email inbox - with new styles this spring. But prices for swimwear, sandals and Easter Sunday outfits reach their peak in March. This means that you probably won't see any sales on these items until later in the season. Memorial Day is usually the best time to score deep discounts, free shipping and buy one, get an offer. Throughout the summer, expect to find clothes for sale around big holidays after Memorial Day, like the Fourth of July and Labor Day weekends. Home improvementFor the best deals on lawn care materials and items for home improvement projects, you're better off waiting until stores unveil their Spring Black Friday offerings. According to discount aggregators and ad scanning sites like bfads.net and theblackfriday.com, early April is the best time to fix up your garden after a long winter. For the past few years, retailers like Lowe's and Home Depot have kept blowout Spring Black Friday sales that have been running for more than a week, usually around late March and early to mid-April. Last year, a Lowe's ad showed sales ranging from buying one, getting a 50 percent off exterior paint and stains to $100-off riding lawnmowers. Home Depot offered daily doorbusters, $200 garden furniture sets and more. Keep an eye out for weekly ads and save email alerts so you know what to expect from Spring Black Friday sales this year. Tech fans will likely remain in limbo this month as they wait for the latest and greatest new models to be unveiled. Last month, Samsung unveiled its new hybrid smartphone and tablet, the Galaxy Fold, with a starting price of nearly $2,000. But it doesn't hit stores until January 26. Apple is also expected to launch upgrades on popular products like AirPods and Macs in the coming months, but no official announcement has been made yet. After Black Friday and the Super Bowl, you probably won't find many televisions on sale in March either. Manufacturers usually release new models in March and throughout the month of April, though, so you can find some discounts on last year's inventory. You probably won't see a big tech sale until back-to-school shopping season begins. But if you're trying to save money during the year, look for discounts on older models manufacturers or your preferred authorized dealers. Home appliancesIt doesn't hurt to get a head on your spring cleaning. Just don't rush to upgrade your big-ticket home items. Beds and mattresses were marked down for Presidents Day last month and ovens, dishwashers, washing machines and dryers probably won't go on sale again until Memorial Day (and later this year over Labor Day weekend). Of course, if your fridge gives out this month, you may not have the option to wait several months for a good discount. Look for deals from online retailers like Amazon and Overstock.com.CarsMindt you find yourself in an emergency, steer clear of the dealership agreement this month. You'll find the steepest discounts on this year's cars in the fall and towards the end of the year, when the 2020 models appear on dealers' lots. But you can score a better deal just by waiting a few weeks. Just as other retailers are looking to lure in shoppers over the long weekend, car dealers run their sales annually around holiday weekends. Wait until Memorial Day for the next holiday sale. Last year, Cars.com reported savings of up to $4,750 on Ford Fusions and up to $5,000 on Jeep Grand Cherokees throughout May. If you don't have much time to wait, try to time your purchase carefully. Save your shopping trip at the end of the month or end of the quarter when you will have more success negotiating with sellers. Musicians in the world, your dreams just came true. Some kinds of souls have come up with a Kindle for sheet music, and it's called Gvido – a dual-screen E Ink unit, digital score organized, and all these binders of loose leaf paper from exploding over and over again. The brain child of Tokyo-based company Terrada Music Score, Gvido consists of a 13.3-inch Mobius flexible electronic paper display, about the same size as your actual sheet music, with a resolution of 1,200 x 1,600 pixels. But now, instead of flipping through physical pages, you can swipe across this thin, light device as you make your way through a piece. The Gvido claims to support a long period of use due to the low power consumption of its e-paper, and thanks to its Wi-Fi and Bluetooth features, you can actually buy scores directly from the internet, and download them to your device. And don't worry - if you like to make annotations in your score, you'll still be able to do it with Gvido. According to the company, the device comes with a digital pen that allows users to make notes directly on the e-ink page, and save any selections in a PDF file format. Its microSD card slot and internal memory should also provide plenty of storage space to support your exploration of musical compositions from baroque to modern periods. Unfortunately, there is no automatic side-turning functionality (which is really what we need), and a demo video suggests that side-turning process (you tap or push your finger device) is a little slow. Still, it may just be one of the most exciting tech innovations made for musicians in recent times, so if you're tired of trying to organize piles of sheet music on your shelf, consider Gvido instead. Editors' Recommendations Music says they had a sale in the music store on the same music stands they use in real orchestras, or so they say. They have heavy non-tilt bases and simple one-handed lift and table tilt adjustments. The only thing I would have appreciated more was a heavier quality sheet metal on the easel part, and maybe metal instead of plastic tilt fittings... you get what you pay for... Our JANSJO LED table lamp Lamps come finished (IKEA is Swedish) in a few bright colors, so choose one that you like. I'm not sure what the LED light is rated for, but it's probably a 1 or 2 watt light, which is actually very bright. It's running pretty cool. Wall wart adapter electronics are at the power outlet end. It has a built-in power button. Please note that there are two models or versions of the table lamp. One is in a more compact box and the other is packed in a longer box. The difference is the way the flexible axle is mounted to the base. One in the short box is configured with two mounting chairs with screw bolts. The longer box contains the version of the lamp, as the flexible shaft has threads cut into it so that it is mounted at the bottom by attaching with a nut. I picked the short box one with the two mounting entries so it would withstand torque better and not work loose when fitted. They also have the same lamp head or light unit already attached to what looks like a giant spring rein instead of a heavy desk base. The flexible axle is slightly thinner and shorter. But it costs $30US as opposed to $10US. Why do you get less but spend more? I went for the $10 version. There is also a similar type of LED lamp SUNNAN that has a solar cell for $20, but I found it difficult to move it back into the sunlight to recharge the lamp's battery. You can customize this lamp if you needed something more portable.. The other bookcase shelf lamps need a lot of work to mod it to fit and adjust for a music tripod. Filler plate I will not use the base that comes with the lamp, there is a heavy iron core disk and sheet metal cover that goes along with it. I will make a custom filler plate that makes up the hole in the iron disc so that the lamp can be placed and fixed directly on the music stand. You can make this filler plate out of most somewhat rigid, metal, wood, plastic... I used some small hardboard scraps from my TARDIS project to make the filler plate. I had some silver spray paint about around which I use to decorate the filler plate. The leftover Krylon gold paint from my Stargate Gong would have been too flashy, but some people may that Lexus emblem touch. You need a drill/driver with different Bits. CAUTION: Know how to properly use power tools. The metal shards from drilling the musical stand must be disposed of carefully. The non-slip sandy finish on the music stand may have some sharp edges.
