Going to california lyrics by led zeppelin

I spent days with a woman un kind, smoked my things and drank all my wine, decided to start going to California again with a sore heart, someone told me there was a girl out there with love in her eyes and flowers in her hair, I took a chance on a big jet plane, never let them say we're all the same Oh , the sea was red and the sky was gray wondering how tomorrow could ever follow today mountains and canyons began to shake and shake Children of the sun began to awaken, attention It seems that the wrath of the gods got a blow to the nose and began to flow I think I might be sinking Throw me a line when I get to it in time I meet you where the road runs straight and high to find the queen without a king , they say she plays guitar and cries and sings La la la Ride white mare in the footsteps of dawn, trying to find a woman who has never, ever, ever been born Standing on a hill in my mountain of dreams and telling herself that it's not as hard hard as it seems mmh oh (Ahh, ahh, ahh) Lyrics submitted by Kevin, edited by Mellow_Harsher, giedre Going to California as written by James Patrick Page Robert Anthony Plant Lyrics © Warner Chappell Music, Inc. It's super easy, we promise! Led Zeppelin Lyrics Going To California I spent days with a woman un kind, smoked my stuff and drank all my wine, I decided to make a fresh start Go to California with aching in my heart Someone told me there was a girl with love in her eyes and flowers in her hair took my chances on a big jet plane Never let them say they are all the same The sea was red and the red sky was grey wondering how tomorrow could ever follow the mountains and canyons begin to shake and shake Children of the sun begin to awaken Attention It seems that the wrath of the gods got a blow to the nose and it began to flow I think I could be sinking Throw me a line If I get to it in time I meet where the road runs straight and high to find the queen without the king Say that she plays guitar and cries and sings Ride the White Mare in the footsteps of Tryin' dawn to find a woman who has never, ever, ever been born Standing on a hill in a mountain of dreams She tells me it's not as hard, hard, hard as it seems Writer(s): Page James Patrick, Plant R And Going To California is thought to be inspired by Joni Mitchell whom Robert Plant and Jimmy Page both liked. While playing the song at concerts from 1971-1977, Plant sometimes said Joni after the line He plays guitar and cries and sings. The working title of this song was The Guide to California. Live version of Going To California, during led zeppelin's performance at Earls Court in 1975, it included two Led Zeppelin DVDs (2003).
