With our own strength, because perhaps the truth is that there is no reason for life from the beginning. Everyone expects and strives so hard to find a reason for existence. The reason we're born, they're with someone, they're supposed to believe that we have to find them all with our own hands. How to find a place for ourselves in dreams, in jobs, in people. The reasons we conclude may be undefined and fragile. We may lose him too, but still, we want a reason. As long as I'm alive, So do I. If possible, I want to find a reason for existence within a person, within someone. – Tohru Honda The scariest and most painful thing is to be loved by someone you really love. – Tohru Honda It's not always easy to see good in people. In some people, you may even doubt that it is there at all. But if you can somehow find a way to believe... sometimes it's all it takes to help someone, to give them the strength to find good in themselves. – Tohru Honda My mother told me, it is better to trust people than to doubt them. She said people aren't born with kind hearts. When we're born, all we have is craving for food and material things. Selfish instincts, I guess. But she said that goodness is something that grows within the body of each person, but it is up to us to nourish that goodness in our hearts. That's why kindness is different for each person. – Tohru Honda A consciousness grows, just like the body. It was created inside your heart. That's why the way people's kindness is so different. – Tohru Honda Mom taught me that people's differences are something to celebrate. When I thought of all the different forms of human goodness - imagining them as round or square... I was very excited. Your kindness is like a Sohma-kun candle. I can feel it light up, and I just want to smile. It's that kind of kindness. – Tohru Honda Sometimes live can be difficult! But it's only because we're alive that we can make each other laugh, cry and be happy! – Tohru Honda As long as you live things will keep happening! As long as you are wishes will continue to be – Tohru Honda While playing... I waited for someone to call onigiri. But no one called. I was very small at the time. I almost forgot about that. But they knew... There would never be room for an onigiri... In a fruit basket. – Tohru Honda Nobody really starts like, All we know how to do at first is want to. We want food, we want attention... It's just a natural survival instinct. I think... But kindness is something we all have to learn as we go along. It is something that grows and develops slowly over time... The same way our bodies do. – Tohru Honda Being away from everyone else can be lonely, but being away from you will be even lonelier. – Tohru Honda I don't think anyone is born knowing why they're here. It's just something you have to find as you go along. – Tohru Honda My happiness comes from the kindness of those around me. – Tohru Honda If you think of the good qualities of someone like umeboshi in an onigiri, it's as if your qualities laugh stuck to your back! People around the world are like onigiri. Everyone has a umeboshi with a different shape and color and flavor. But since it's stuck behind their backs, they may not be able to see their umeboshi. – Tohru Honda I'm sure inside your heart... you are trying with all your might to find it on your own... the reason you were born. Because... because really... there may not be someone who was born with a reason. I think everyone might have to find one on their own. A reason to be born... One reason it's okay to be alive... A reason to exist. Tohru Honda 2. Megumi Hanajima Cites There are things that take a long time to acquire. Friends. Love. Really, nothing was a waste. Megumi Hanajima 3.
