Italian food is in the blood of our owners, Silvio and Josephine Cammarata, who are native to Sicily, Italy. They came to this country many years ago to start a better life and built a beautiful family! The couple has been in business for 40 years! Cammaratas bought their first pizzeria in 1980 in Brooklyn, New York. In 1989, they left Brooklyn and one ventured on to a new restaurant in Kingston, New York. Later, in 1995, they moved to Apex, North Carolina and opened J &S; S New York Pizza and has been handing out delicious handmade pizzas and Italian food to the Apex community since! As their children Philip, Venera & Lori grew older, they decided to join the family business and opened their first place in Fuquay-Varina! My husband and I celebrated their 8th anniversary and decided to support a local eatery to celebrate. I had read reviews at this restaurant and saw that the food was good so I made reservations for 2. We sat quickly on arrival. Our water glasses were filled and the waitress came by for our drink order. After bringing out our wine, the waitress reviewed the specials and let's look over the menu a little further. She returned and took our order, mine was chicken parmigiana and minestrone soup and the man chose gnocchi. The waitress was amazing. She came around to check on us just enough and not too much. The soup came out and it was amazing! A different minestrone than I'm used to, but it was tasty and quite yummy!! When our starters arrived, I was happy to dive in, but after the first bit I was a little puzzled. Thinking maybe the dish was hot (temperature hot), I let it cool down for a minute and took another piece. Same taste, or lack of I should say. I ate about 5 -7 more bites and asked for a take out box. I love chicken parm, but there was a lack of flavor in this dish. It was like it was just tomato sauce with no taste. No garlic, no basil or Italian flavor ing of sorts. I ate it the next day for dinner, but it was still missing. I was disappointed, but don't count Garibaldi is out. I have read too many good reviews on their food and will definitely give them another try with another dish next time. Around.
