Imperial dial caliper reading

The list NoTypeLengthResolution9698Imperial40.0018888880.0019699Imperial60.001 also has a metric version here, the store for Calipers reading on the calipers is a combination of values displayed on the beam core and the value specified on the dial. See below to see how to read the emperor's dial caliper or to see how to read the metric dial caliper for reading metric measurements. When measuring, you should first read the values at the main level. This number is the number to the left of the reference edge immediately. On the imperial caliper, this dial is given in inches and ten inches. Each section that increases on the scale is 0.1 inches, and then reads the values displayed on the dial indicator on most imperial dials. In this example, the caliper is displaying a reading of 0.769 inches, 0.7 (shown on the beam scale) + 0.069 (displayed on the dial scale) = 0.769. 100 000
