Blizzard EntertainmentSeptember 28, 2020The best PvP teams from around the world competed in a tiring season of head-to-head arena action, but in the end only one team from each region could win the championship. Congratulations to Wildcard Gaming and M2KC, who have fought their way through fierce competition to rise as World Battle Champion Arena (AWC) for Regional Champion Azeroth! These teams have managed to ford their way through all the corners despite a year marked by a global panolycies and a move to a full online competition. They have been competing in a circuit against the best PvP teams from around the world through a four-cup series with each team finishing the battle for the Azeroth season with a $50,000 (USD), AWC Championship title, and securing their place in the Hall of Fame. EU Champions - Wildcard Gaming After a tiring season, Wildcard Gaming faces XSET on Saturday night. In a fierce battle, with victory on the final map extremely quickly, Wildcard Gaming won 4-1 to defend the European championship title. NA Champions - M2KC The North American final proved also intense, as M2KC dominated Charlotte Phoenix in the final match to win the final 4-1 and NA Championship. Even after 13 years, you never know what to expect from the Arena World Championship, said David Hollings, Lead Product for the Arena World Championship. Every team really steps up their game into the ever fir AWC Circuit. This year has been incredibly difficult for everyone and I can't think of a more interesting way to end the battle for the Azeroth season. While the AWC match for the Azeroth season ended the Arena competition did not end there.
