Product Description Vango has reintroduced the huge Vango Diablo 900XL for the 2013 season. Vango Diablo 900XL has three bedroom areas with 3 bunk beds each with an interior tent of breathable polyester with part mesh doors for ventilation. Each room offers a full height of the head standing to add to the comfort level. The large hexagonal living area has a fully sewn floor sheet and a 'C' shaped side door that has a double mesh door to improve ventilation. Later, the main entrance has two walks through doors, both with double mesh doors with large windows along the front door to bring plenty of sunlight. The entrance is finished with a protected area with side wings and drip guard. The dimensions of these tents are truly bulky and therefore there is a lot of space for your camping furniture (and kitchen sink). If you have booked with us and would like to leave a comment, you must first stay at the property. © 1996-2014, Amazon.com, Inc. or its affiliates I've been to a couple of camping festivals, and I've been camping like a little boy. I'm definitely not an expert on this, but I'm not completely clueless, either. One of the biggest concerns when camping is where you go to sleep, that is: the tent. A tent should be compact enough to store, but wide enough not to make you feel claustrophobic : it's a delicate dance between innovation, design and aesthetics that continues to be researched today. Vango's tent, the Diablo 900XL, basically looks like a hotel. It can accommodate up to nine people and has a 3-bedroom arrangement with a front porch to install. As for most other tents, this isn't bad. But then, a tent of this size has to assume very much space even when packaged. Well, according to the sales rep, the entire tent should fold into a 2 1/2-foot by 7-square-inch. However, we all know what it's like to fold a tent at the end of the day. Check out the video below; it's a little camp, and the measurements are in metric, but you'll get the general idea. Unfortunately, the tent is no longer being manufactured. So if you're really looking for one, we're sure they're out there somewhere – just don't look at Amazon for it anytime soon. When a tent is stored while wet for a week or more, mold can be obtained. This is harmful to your tent and possibly your health. This was helpful (156) How can I impregnate a tent? Verified pitch of tent, clean the cloth and let it dry. Apply the impregnation agent in the cloth with a plant sprayer or other spray. It is also possible to use a paint roller or brush. The cloth should be completely saturated with the impregnation agent. Also treat the inside of the tent. Thoroughly clean any window with a damp cloth. Wet. don't let the impregnation agent dry on it. Let the tent cloth dry completely. Repeat the treatment if necessary. This was helpful (48) Can I repair a tear or hole in the canvas of my tent myself? Verified There are special pieces of self-adhesive fabric stains available for synthetic tent fabrics. Stick one of these stains on both sides of the hole or tear. For cotton tent canvases or tent canvases of mixed material it is best to use patches that can be ironed out. This will require an iron. This was helpful (32) My tent zip won't work smoothly, what can I do? Verified When a zipper is running smoothly, use a dry PTFE spray or silicone spray. Do not spray on the canvas and spray preventively to prevent future problems. This was useful (27) There are drops of water inside the tent, does that mean it's leaking? Verified No, this is probably condensation. Make sure the tent is properly ventilated to maintain condensation at least. This was useful (15) Which tent pegs are the best to use for which surfaces? Verified in meadows or forest surfaces you can use semi circular or plastic pegs. On rocky surfaces you have to use rock pegs. On clay surfaces you can use semicircular, plastic or universal pegs. On gravel surfaces semi circular or universal pegs are needed and on sand you have to use wooden pegs. This was useful (12) The impregnation agent leaves white spots or a white mist on the fabric of the tent, what can I do about it? Verified If the agent leaves a white mist or white spots on the tent cloth, this means that you have applied more impregnation agent in these areas. This is not harmful and stains often disappear over time. It is not advisable to use less impregnation agent to avoid spots. The cloth must be completely saturated with the impregnation agent to give good results. This was useful (11) This manual was originally published by Vango.
