Full details from Pathfinder: Kingmaker Wiki Remove Curse is a spell in Pathfinder: Kingmaker. Effect[edit | edit source] Remove curse can remove all curses on an object or creature. If the target is a creature, you should do a icing level check (1d20+ wheel level) against the DC of any curse affecting the target. Success means the curse has been removed. Remove curse does not remove the curse from a cursed shield, weapon, or suit of armor, although a successful icing level control allows the affected creature with any such cursed element to remove and get rid of it. Notes[editing | editing source] For wizard and wizard is a 4-th Lvl spell. See also[editing | source editing] Remove Curse is a spell in Pathfinder: Kingmaker. Remove curse does not remove the curse from a cursed shield, weapon, or suit of armor, although a successful level of icing icing allows the affected creature with any such cursed element to remove and get rid of it. Remove the curse counters and dissolves award curse. Remove curse momentarily removes all curses on an object or creature. Remove curse does not remove the curse from a cursed shield, weapon, or suit of armor, although the spell usually allows the creature affected with any such cursed element to remove and get rid of it. Some special curses cannot be treated by this spell or can only be treated by a icing of a certain level or higher. Remove the curse counters and dissolves award curse. After being hit by a curse last session (-6 to Int for my alchemist), I read about how to remove the curse. Well, there's a third level spell called Remove Curse, and if I understand correctly, our Level 5 cleric can just give it a try next session if he removes it with my touch. And if he fails, he can try again the next day. And the next day, until he gets to DS 20, which he will eventually do. Is it supposed to be that easy? Or should it be, since Spoon Curse is also only a level 3 spell? Spell?
