It then falsely dm users with claims that the server has been raided and will be removed including an invite to a 'new server' as a replacement. The 'new server' is called opium and claims that their aim is to become the biggest bickering server. The server was created only about 5 days ago and has already grown to 1100+ members. Server owners try to hide their identity with empty aliases and status set to invisible. Personally, as a public server owner, I understand the hard work it takes to develop your server into something worthwhile. It infuriated me to see that server deleted as servers that I set back and these guys simply leave everyone out of their server members to scum everyone. So as a warning, if you receive this 'fake dino' bot or anything similar, please, don't respond to it or add it to your server and don't join the server it advertises. These are screenshots of the bot's DM and server:
