Photo by Megan Turner. Sigma Chi at UCF will not pack up the house on the campus she owns in May - the Office of Student Conduct lifted the sanction in a response letter to the appeal on Thursday. In January, UCF's episode of Sigma Chi was found to be contrary to disruptive behavior and alcohol-related misconduct following a September 2019 incident at the Knight Library. The appeal was filed on the grounds that the sanctions were unusually unusual for violations, and that irregularities in fairness and declared proceedings of the hearing could have affected the outcome of the hearing. Sigma Chi will only be required to take down its logos, letters and photos from home as part of the corporate suspension only in the summer of 2020. The most notable changes to the sanctions are listed below: new sanctions: a deferred corporate suspension for autumn 2020. Previous sanctions: Organizational disciplinary suspension for summer and fall 2020. Evacuate the park house by May 15. Appeal: Brian Wells, president of the Sigma Chi branch, appealed OSC Director Michael Gilmer's decision on February 7. The sanctions: Director of the Office of Student Behavior Michael Gilmer changed the sanctions to include the fraternity house in the result letter on January 22 and did not provide a concise and detailed written statement that the fraternity-owned house was included. Nate News called UCF spokesman Mark Schlov on January 30 to request more information about what the sanctions change means — proposed by the december 17 hearing officer — and there's no explanation as to why student conduct office director Michael Gilmer is removing the fraternity from campus. Following your question about the change in sanctions, there is no statement explaining the basis for the change in sanctions because the temporary loss of home use to Sigma Chi is not considered a sanction, Schlueb said in an email January 30. It's a clarification of the terms of the suspension. If you look at the previous sentence in the result letter, he says: During the suspension period, chapter Eta Pi temporarily loses university recognition and/or registration and cannot use university resources or facilities. It's evolving. Check for updates again.
