Inspired by the mountainous desert area of Riverside, JCJ Architecture designed the Sun City Library to combine the Southwest environment with natural materials and contemporary architecture. The library takes advantage of the sunny climate and is surrounded by full-height windows that show a beautifully free landscape. An architecturally dramatic entrance includes an elevated atrium ceiling and windows that fill the lobby with natural light. This USD 3.7 million redevelopment and expansion offers a total area of 10,739, which expands the bustling library by more than 4,000 square meters and creates space for about 30,000 additional books and digital resources. The renovated library design now includes a common room, a children's and youth area and meeting rooms where visitors can experience the warmth and beauty of nature. A brief history of the library: In 1963, Erma Krauch, founding member of the Women's Club, donated 500 books that served as the beginning of the Sun City Center Library. The original collection and later additions were housed in the arts and crafts building in a library room where shelves were built. In 1980, the WG Development Corporation donated a model house to its current location at 1011 N. Pebble Beach Blvd., which became the current library. Beulah Evans was appointed as the first librarian in March 1963, a position she held until 1982, when Velma Laughlin took over. Volunteers will help them with the selection and call them as agreed. Call the library for more details. Donated items: The library is happy to accept donated items in excellent condition. We regret that we cannot accept items smell of mildew or mold because they threaten the rest of our collection, not to mention the allergens they bring into the building. It would be a good thing if donated items were not placed in the dropof books, but were, if possible, brought along during regular business hours. Books and other items are either added to the collection or sold in the bookstore or at the annual book sale. Book sales: Another feature of the library is the annual book sale, which now takes place in February and is open to the public. It's a great opportunity to buy books at bargain prices. In addition, a book sales room in the library is open all year round. Year.
