If you are looking for a book tree Chuck chipper guide in PDF format, then you have come to the right site. We provide the full edition of this book txt, PDF. The author is published in categories Post navigation. I just got the Whisper 16 chipper this week. I'm very new to chips and this is my first attempt. The engine is strong and the drum is very pleasant and quiet. The problem is, the blade is very boring. I'm looking for the manuals to how to change the blades and what settings should be to chip quickly. Also, I bought this 16' because I thought you could handle 16' log - is this case - if not, what size can this type of unit chew? We swear hundreds of 40 feet of red pines - almost no limbs - just a tree. Any help will be very grateful. First this should be published in Arbo 101 or equipment forum. DO NOT use 12' blade in 16', take the guide and right knife. The blades should be torque for a specialist- If the blades are that chewing the cutting cutter is probably in poor shape and should be serviced. This chipper won't have anything 16. It's brushes. To break brushes and trees. There is no way to stop the material after hitting the blades, so it should be the right length or the machine will clog. 6' diameter of 15' long is safe guess experience and use will tell you otherwise. Be careful, these machines are very effective and dangerous, they will feed in seconds everything that connects to these blades. Click to expand. Stop for a second and think about it. These are blades. Held by a tightened wedge. Sharp enough to easily cut a tree. Turning at a very high speed and you're there. Do you really want to put the wrong knife in our liver and release it to 3,500 revolutions? Do you still want to stay there when one or more are flying? They will easily tear the metal chute. Any guesses as to what they're going to do to you? I never thought about it. Sell the 12 knives. Remove the chute and turn forward. Break off the bottom of 3 bolts at the chute/drum unit. Turn this from the road back you will see 5 bolts for chapter 16' 4 are ideally off and one is out of range. The cosmonauts are long and holding wedges. The other one's short. Remove this and replace it with a long bolt to push the wedge. Believe me here, the compressor with an air compressor and the impact switch will be a great help. repetition of all 4 blades. Turn on a clutch when you get the bolts where you can work on them, take them off and turn off, then repeat. take blades for machine sharpening, there is the sponsor who does this, and you will track down your irregular blades when you get your sharpened knives, let us know surely someone will know about manuals. Your model must be a 75-80 model if memory serves. Don't forget to show us pictures of him too! Yes, you're still in good shape. Take these blades sharpened to reduce bogging and it will work cooler as well as eat, starting with the smaller things. You will also feel what can be done when you reach the limit. Be sure to stand on the side of the feed table when submitting the logs. Trust me, over the buggy I'll thank you when a block comes to fly back to the right place and very quickly. be much ahead of the hiring game. As a general rule, hiring units are usually not the right equipment, and are almost always in rare need of techno. You think your fins are boring while you're in there pulling the blades and the knife. A large square block of metal, and take it with the blades and true them too. soon you'll have nicer pure pine chips than you can use the areound property, plus you'll have a good hard scrape for every time something comes up. You can also rent it out to other homeowners and/or work it on their brushes in your spare time to offset the initial cost of buying it. The blades, as you describe them, are due for sharpening. You do not want to wait until they are shot to drain them, they will have to remove too much material. If the blades are so sharp that you are afraid that you run a finger slightly along the edge, they are for proper. feeding problems are usually associated with the knife bar, and the blade for cutting tape settings. CB will tend to wear in the middle and not pull the brush into the machine as they should. If you plan to pull the blades and CB tomorrow, get out of the tone and spray the bolts down with WD-40 or other penetrating oil. It's going to make life easier tomorrow. Honestly, there are better people than me to talk about. Perhaps it would be best to use it and let them watch, or at least drag the brush to you to eat. War, just my two pennies here. I have one of these chippers and they are WIDOW CREATORS for the uninitiated! Be extremely careful at work. Make sure you feed this thing to the side and throw the debris into the blade until you move away from the device. Do not let the blade pull it out of your grasp. Do not wear gloves in glove style, as they can be thrown at a stop and pull you out. Wear eye and ear protection. Do not throw away the vines and you have someone in place, but well away from the device. Good luck and have fun, but please be careful. War, just my two pennies here. I have one of these chippers and they are WIDOW CREATORS for the uninitiated! Youtube's atomic PC pad driver. Be extremely careful at work. Do not throw away the vines and you have someone in place, but well away from the device. Good luck and have fun, but please be careful. Click to expand. Very good advice! In fact, I came close to this in terms that he had already used it a lot to chip the brush, therefore he now that its blades are boring, or that you have to fight it a little to take it to take the brush, and did not look to cut off with it acts in this way. This was an assumption on my part and there is a good opportunity to assume that my assumption is wrong. War, be a little more than careful, never smug and always respect the machine. One mistake can get very ugly very quickly. Click to expand. Don't make any changes. Even killing the engine will allow the blades to appear for a long time, and there's still a lot of energy as you move along the coast to chip a body. respect is the key, not modifications. Treat him with gloves and act like a rabid dog that will bite you if given the chance. Because it will be a good thing, let it become respect and never be lost. They all include feeders themselves. This can cause a person to be cocky, due to the illusion of complete control of the process of feeding and breaking. I bought a chipper on Thursday, started it for the first time yesterday and stopped after about 10 minutes because I had a diary that was about 10 feet long and I and press form on the side and I was pressed hard ot to do something. In fact, after about 30 seconds, wood started smoking like those wood burning kits. There is no doubt that it is very dangerous ith how much pressure I was put on this device - Did not take anything - only what I forced and nothing more. When I saw it was dangerous, I stopped right away. I already had this sender for about 2 days. Thank you.
