THE TURTLE, WHICH EXPLORER CAPTAIN COOK GAVE TO THE KING OF TONGA IN 1777, DIED YESTERDAY. IT'S BEEN ALMOST 200 YEARS. ANIMAL CALLED TU'IMALILA, ... WOULD BE SENT TO THE AUCKLAND MUSEUM IN NEW ZEALAND. By the time I was on tv sound off, I was in a 382 mood; I just picked him up. So while I heard the emptiness intellectually, I didn't feel it. My first reaction was grateful that we could afford the Penfield mood organ. But then I realized how unhealthy it was, the absence of sensory life, not only in this building, but everywhere, and not to react, do you see? I guess not. But this was previously considered a sign of mental illness; they called it not the right effect. So I left the tv sound and sat down at my mood organ and experimented. And I finally found a determination of despair. So I put on my schedule twice a month; I think it's a smart time to feel desperate about everything about staying here on Earth after everyone who smartly emigrated, don't you think? Emigrate or degenerate. BOOK DU: Empathy apparently existed only within the human community, and intelligence to some extent can be found throughout every phylum and order, including arachnida. Empathy, he once decided, must be just herbivores or, in any case, almighty who could deviate from the meat diet. For eventually the empathic gift broke the boundaries between the hunter and the sacrifice, between successful and defeated. BOOK THREE: I doubt if I ever own an owl. - - - BOOK FOUR How Izorius knocked on the door of the apartment the TV died immediately in nonbeing. He was not only silent; he stopped existing, frightened into his grave to knock him. He felt behind closed doors, the presence of life, behind the TV. His strained faculties made or even picked up haunted, without the fear of tongue, someone pulling out of it, someone blew back to the far wall of the apartment, trying to avoid it. Hey, he called. I live upstairs. I heard your TV. Let's get to know each other; Well? He waited, listened. No sound and no movement; his words were not an add to the person lost. I brought you a margarine cube, he said, standing close to the door in order to speak through its thickness. They won't do that. Isidore said. He could say that at first sight. Chairs, carpet, tables, all were rotten; they were killed by multiple collapse, victims of despotic force of time. And abandonment. No one in this apartment has lived for years; the ruins became almost complete. He couldn't imagine how she figured while living in such an environment.-When he parked his truck on the roof of van Ness Pet Hospital, he quickly carried a plastic cage containing an inert fake cat downstairs to Hannibal Sloat's office. As it entered, mr. Sloat looked out of parts on the inventory page, his gray, sea face ripping like restless water. Too old to emigrate, Hannibal Sloat, though not special, was doomed to slip out of his rest of his life on Earth. Over the years, the dust has destroyed it; he left his qualities gray, he fell for him and made his legs rotate and his gait unstable. He saw the world through glasses literally dense with dust. For some reason Sloat will never clean up his glasses. It was as if he had given up; he had accepted radioactive dirt and had long since begun to bury him. It's already eclipsed his eyesight. In a few years he has stayed to spoil his other senses until finally only his bird screech voice will remain, and then that will end, too.- Postscript:All writers return to themes but fruitful approach to obsessions. ... Philip Dick is again studying two great issues in his life. What is real? What does it mean to be human? Empathy. Quality Androids do not have. - Warren Ellis. apotheosis = the highest point of development of something; climax or climax ameliorated = do (something bad or unsatisfactory) better.- - Is Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? VOLUME 2Philip Dick held a deep sense of empathy! The title of his book is not the counting of sheep to go to bed, but I suspect that I dream as a target, longing, dream of having an empathic relationship, friendship, friend, pet. As David confronts Nathan (of Scripture) this story recalls the need for empathy. Androids do not feel empathy. So, the name is the question that drives the plot. Will we find out the answer at the end of the book? - - The suffering of humans and animals makes me crazy; when one of my cats dies I curse God and I mean it; I feel furious at him. I'd get him here where I could interview him, tell him that I think the world is screwed, that man is not sin and fall, but was pushed - that's bad enough - but then it was sold to lie that he is basically sinful, and I know he's not. I know all kinds of people (I turned fifty a while ago and I'm angry about it; I lived for a long time), and it was also great good people. Model the characters in your novels and stories about them. Now and again one of these people is dying, and it makes me mad- really mad, as mad as I can get. 'You took my cat,' I want to tell God, 'and then you took my girlfriend. What are you doing? Listen to me; Listen! It's not good what you're doing. - Introduction to the Golden Man by Philip K. Dick - BOOK FIVEIsidore: Aren't dead bodies disappearing or something? BOOK SIX:BRYANT: ... But there can't even be one slip. Rick: Andy's hunting could never be. It's no different. Using the infinite key, which analyzed and opened all known forms of locks, he entered Polokov's apartment, a laser beam in his hand. BOOK SEVEN: His adrenal gland, in degrees, stopped pumping his multiple secretions into his bloodstream; his heart slowed to normal, his breathing became less frantic. But he was still shaken, anyway I made myself a thousand dollars just now, he informed himself. So it was worth it. BOOK EIGHT: A new type of Android that apparently no one can handle but me. - - - 3Disclaimer:The characters and events depicted here are invented. Any resemblance to actual persons, demons, anti-Christ, aliens, vampires, faces or political figures, alive, dead or non-ideal, or any actual or supernatural events, is incidental and unintentional. So don't come cry to us. IN BOOK NINE: Realizing his defect and failure, Rick settled down And helplessly waited waited what can go on. BOOK TEN: Phil: What is the basis if your Voigt-Kampff test, Mr. Deckard? Rick: Empathic response. In different social situations. Most often this concerns animals. BOOK ELEVEN: Android is running out where the bounty hunter seeks. Mr. Reschedule, you are android ... You have everything we're disgusted with. The point is what we are committed to destiny. BOOK TWELVE: Andy can't keep the animal alive. Animals need a heat environment to thrive. When phil resch stopped, he looked at it intentionally when he saw The Scream of Edward Munch: In oil painting, Phil Resch stopped, looked at it intentionally. The painting showed a hairless, oppressed creature with her head like an inverted pear, her hands hammered into her ears, her mouth open to a huge, no sound scream. Twisted creature suffering ripples, echoes of his cry, flooded into the air surrounding it; man or woman, whatever it was, was to control his account. He covered his ears from his sound. The creature stood on the bridge and no one else was; the creature screamed separately. Cut off from his cry or in spite of him. Cadaverous = very pale, thin or bony. Do you think androids have souls? - - Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? VOLUME 4BOOK THIRTEEN:ReSchedule: It's necessary. Remember: they killed people to escape. And if I hadn't taken you out of Mission Police Station, they would have killed you. That's what Garland wanted me to do; that's why he had to let me down in his office. Didn't Polokov kill you? Isn't Luba Luft close? We act defensively; they're here on our planet – they're murderous illegal aliens masquerading like He's never thought about it before, never felt any empathy on his part toward the androids he killed. ... Empathy towards artificial construct? he asked himself. Someone who just pretends to be alive? Rick said: I can feel empathy at least for specific, certain androids. Not for everyone, but for one or two. So much for the difference between authentic living people and humanoid structures. At the elevator museum, he told himself, I rode down with two creatures, one man, the other android . . . and my feelings were the opposite of those intended. Of those I am used to feeling, I must feel. BOOK FOURTEEN: And Horst was interested in pre-klon fiction. You mean old books?. Stories written before a trip to space, but about space travel. How could there have been stories about space travel before -... In any case, there is happiness to be smuggled up to colonial fiction, old magazines and books and films, to Mars. No one is so interested. To read about cities and huge industrial enterprises, and really successful colonization. You can imagine how it could have been. What Mars is be like. Channels. BOOK FIFTEEN: All of them, Izorius thought; they're all weird. He felt it without being able to finger it. As if a distinctive and malignant abstraction pervaded their mental processes. BOOK SIXTEEN: I own an animal now, he told himself. A living animal, not an electric one. For the second time in my life. We could no longer continue with electric sheep; he sapped my morale. Maybe I can tell her that he decided. Are Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? VOLUME 5I has never taken acid, speed or similar mind-altering drugs. But I read the work of the man who did it. Think of what you do, but this book reads me. Deeply insightful in your psyche and sense of identity. Layers. Boom! BOOK SEVENTEEN: Conscious your unity. BOOK EIGHTEEN: The position he reflected on, a cautious hunter perhaps cro-magnum persuasion. BOOK NINETEEN: Rachel: We are machines stamped like bottle caps. It is an illusion that I - I personally exist; I'm just a representative type. BOOK TWENTY: He sal for a long time over the arms of a green, black and gold leaf bunk, sifting coffee and meditation for the next few hours. - - - Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? VOLUME 6BOOK TWENTY-ONE:[Pris (Android) thinks Isidore's spider]: It probably won't work so fast, but there's nothing that it's caught around here anyway. He's going to die anyway. She reached for scissors. [Isidoriur]: Please. BOOK TWENTY-TWO Android slowly crippled by spider. J.R. Isidore tells Rick Deckard, If I took him back there she would cut it again. Little by little, to see what he did. Deckard: Androids do this. BOOK TWENTY-THREE I'm going to be fine, he said, and he thought, and I'm going to die. Both of them are also correct. He closed the car door, flicked the signal by hand to Iran, and then swept into the night sky. BOOK TWENTY-FOUR He got to his feet, stood painfully, his face sleepy and confused, as if a legion of battles had ebbed and advanced there over many years. - - - ... more Page 2 2
