On the edge of the explored universe you will find the bazaars of the Bollux, rival religious fanatics Bannaur and Drayhoah, the carnivorous plants of the Talismana . . . Adventures galore. Each description of the world includes the entire Planetary Record Sheet, with an overview of the entire star system and a detailed description of the planet itself, using the GURPS Space format . . . planetary map, atmosphere and gravity, the length of day and flight, population, government, resources, economy, biosphere and peculiarities. Some worlds include descriptions and statistics of game for humans, animals, plants or vehicles found on this planet. Adventurous proposals are included for every world. The Space Atlas is designed to fit into any action. You can use the world together (maps of the entire Old Borders sector are included), or you can select individual councils and include them in an existing campaign. In the introduction to the book are historical and background information that corresponds to the corporate worlds in four different universes: Anarchy, Alliance, Federation or Interstellar Empire. The Space Atlas is designed specifically for GURPS Space, but can be used by GM of any interstellar role-playing campaign. Check out our GURPS Resources page for general GURPS tools. This double-size space atlas is your guide to the two worst neighborhoods in the galaxy – the divided Phoenix Sector and the chaotic saga sector. The 49 systems are presented with detailed descriptions of planets, a inhabited asteroid belt and the mysterious Phoenix Nebula. This is the most flexible space atlas ever. You can combine sectors, use them separately, or select individual worlds, and turn them on to your campaign. The introduction of each sector includes historical and basic information that can be included in any type of campaign – anarchy, federation, corporate state or empire. Proposals for combining two sectors and using these sectors as flags are also included . or enemies! Each description of the world includes a complete Record Sheet with an overview of the entire star system and a detailed description of the planet itself, according to the GURPS Space format. Each description includes a two-color planetary map, atmospheric and ecological data, population, government and much more. Many of the world's descriptions contain new animals, aliens and vehicles – all with complete game statistics. Also included are the cost of point signs for playing four different alien races and three types of genetically modified people. The Space Atlas series is designed specifically for SPACE GURPS, but can be used in any interstellar role-playing game. Check out our GURPS Resources page for general GURPS tools. Privacy Policy | Contact US GURPS Space is a stellar source book for GURPS – now revised and expanded for its third edition. On 160 pages of GURPS Space you will find: Scientifically accurate and updated rules for the creation of star systems and planets . . . randomly or corresponds to a particular campaign. Detailed guidelines for the formation of futuristic and foreign governments and associations. An informed view of the technologies of tomorrow: what will be, what could be and continue! Funding to create characters for space campaigns involving 24 types of characters, three variants of the human race and four alien races. Full list of science-fiction equipment, including weapons, accessories and medical technology. Realistic treatment of the dangers of noisy atmospheres, crushing gravity, vacuum, radiation, and other dangers of travel and space exploration. Self-containment ship building system compatible with GURPS vehicles covering TL8 (around the corner) to TL13+ (superscience). Perfect rules for fighting ships - no ship counters, only role-playing - for playing battles of the ship to the ship. GURPS Space does not moor your game on a single background. Instead, it is aimed at a creative GM that wants to develop its own universe! This book presents the widest choice and background information so you can re-create your favorite science-fantastic background - or build your own. Years in the making and now extensively revised and updated, GURPS Space is a survey of the entire space-adventure genre as it relates to role-playing. If you are willing to create your own future. It's yours. Winner of the 1988 Origins award for Best Roleplaying Supplement! Written by Steve Jackson/David L. Pulver/William Barton Cover art Alan Gutierrez, the 1991 GURPS Space Atlas 4 is a scientifically fantastic complement published by Steve Jackson Games in 1991 for GURPS Space. Publication history As the name suggests, GURPS Space Atlas 4 is the fourth encyclopedia of planets and planetary systems for use in gurps space campaigns, one written by David Pulver and Stephen Dedman, with illustrations by David Midgett, and an art cover by Alan Gutierrez. In the 2014 book Designers & Dragons: The 80s, the historian of the game Shannon he noted that the GURPS Space Atlases (1988-1991), the GURPS Space Bestiar (1990) and GURPS Aliens (1990) helped complete the GURPS space world. [1]:41 Reception #190 In the February 1993 issue of the dragon, Rick Swan called the book an invaluable reference not only for GURPS Space enthusiasts, but also for the science fiction games of all verifiers. Swan concluded by giving the book an excellent rating of 4.5 stars out of 5, saying: quality writing, efficient graphics, and variety of entries distinguish Space Atlas 4 from its run-of-the-mill competitors. Retrieved from Randy McDonald (rfmcdpei) wrote: 2005-10-18 14:19:00 Randy McDonald rfmcdpei 2005-10-18 14:19:00 When I was ten years old, I collected 4 books--1, 2, 3 and 4-u GURPS-wrapper series Space Atlas. Any book containing a collection of pre-regenerated worlds for use with GURPS Space or most other space RPG systems, these worlds organized into sectors (a single sector for the first three books, the related phoenix and saga sector in Space Atlas 4, a few dozen worlds per sector) have excited me. These books, as I thought, have done an interesting and more competent job of describing the fragments of a distant future interstellar society. Space Atlas 2. My first aquisition described a sector of total dominating corporate governments, but the Space Atlas 3 is a display of a recently formed interstellar confederacy of worlds housed by generations of starships, Space Atlas 1 is a display of generic long-inhabited rear sector, but space atlas 4 is a display of 1 sector locked in a cold battle of two interstellar countries and ahnari hinterland. It seems to me that these were impressive images of the future. Ever since I grew up. As far as I want, I can't find any reason to RPG.net comments (Space Atlas 1, Space Atlas 2, Space Atlas 3, Space Atlas 4). Apart from the chemist's simple flaws in slacking-- the contradictions between the planetary guide and the accompanying text, especially -- the various titles in the Space Atlas series don't do a very good job of communicating the sense of real interstellar community. How can sub-insuated worlds compete for influence with worlds home to ten or hundreds more people? How can the whole sector adopt a unified form of government? How can worlds orbiting the smoke of red dwarfs not be tidelocyte? How can B super-warriors have planets? This, as of course, should be, raises the question of how interesting these books are and their settings. Maybe I'm a boy from the early 21st century. science fiction in the broadest sense, but as Pompe observed elsewhere, how can the realm of literature, which rewards its loyalty to nature, completely de-establish what worlds, and planetary systems, and human communities, actually resemble? I can handle a certain amount of non-compromity, but you can pass that limit, and you're going to lose me completely. On April 9, I deleted my LiveJournal. I've written about it in length.
