Young adults/adults can experience the world of EA to the fullest. While other age groups remain stuck with limited interactions. So any mod that give kids, kids, teens and the elderly a chance to shine is an automatic victory in my book. Thankfully, most of these school mods do exactly that: especially for the little ones for teens. Check out these amazing (and incredibly fun) school mods to make learning fun again. Check out this Get Started mod with Telford's impressive (and heavy) mod that allows Teen Sims to drop out of high school and get a job. This means that they do not return home with homework to do, they will not have to increase skills at certain levels and they will not have to keep their grades. Essentially, they will function as young adults and adults. Already this mod makes the game much more in the sense of playability/events. This closes some interactions for them, but it certainly opens up more in terms of career. It's a great concept that's been done beautifully in this multiple-part download – of which there are, essentially, three main aspects: let your teen drop out of school without facing (i.e., being taken away from childcare services) Make adult jobs and careers available for teens Make adult work and career clothes available for teens as I said, heavy. But it's definitely worth it. Quick note: Ideally you should just download and install the available files. But be sure to carefully read the creator's notes on the download page so you can fully enjoy the mod! Check out this Mod The Sims 4 Get to Work expansion pack gives us three new and unique career options. And instead of sending our Sims into the famous rabbit hole, it allows us to follow our Sims and control the flow of their workday. We're given a taskbar, a list of possible tasks to complete, and even a couple of recurring NPCs to chat when things get too repetitive. This intuitive mod from Zerbu follows pretty much the same theme. Instead of your child and teen Sims disappearing down God-knows- where from 7:00 am to 3:00 pm (Pacific Sim Time, maybe?) you can now follow them to their learning position! It's a simple idea that has been translated into a fully functional mod with tons of interesting features. Lemme lists some: Five personalized topics: personal development, problem solving, creative arts, health and fitness, science and technology Attend a different topic every day Redeem reward traits by earning emblems; Earn emblems by requesting special opportunities (unlockable aspirations) from leading surprise guest presenters (NPCs) from the Doctor, Detective, or Scientist expansion pack: Sims 4's Get to Work expansion pack is required for this mod. Check out this mod created specifically for the previous mod (Go to Zerbu school), this mod adds a fully built and fully furnished elementary school for your little kids to run to! This community lot boasts two beautifully designed floors with all the rooms you can imagine finding in a regular school. I'm talking about an Arts n' Crafts room, a guarded computer room, public toilets and a nice safe napping area to pull out little tykes. The best part? Everything in the lot is interactive and made of vanilla basic game items. So you don't need to download the new CC just to make this school look like in the photos. Hey, since you're going to follow your Sim child around with the Go to School mod, you might as well follow them to nice places, right? Check out this mod The premise for this mod is pretty much the same as telford's Drop Out of High School mod. The biggest differences are (1) it also gives children the opportunity to stay out of school and (2) leaves children and teenagers alone from the beginning. They won't be enrolled in school once they've aged just to leave, and they won't be under pressure to start a job or career. They can basically stay around the house at will -- without fear of repercussions or penalties -- until their Or until you really want an education... If that happens, all you have to do is use the careers of cheats.promote elementary school or careers.promote high school to put them back on the duct list. It is a very simple and very simple addition that is easy to use and lightweight on the Mods folder (something I am sure many of us can appreciate). Check out this mod This is the latest mod with this concept, I promise you. Telford's Drop Out of High School mod was specifically aimed at Teens and Careers for Teens, adding additional, unlockable interactions. Azoresman's No Grade or Highschool mod allowed kids and teens to drop out of school, but it didn't include options for teens to get a job. Essentially the really heavy and extensive mod to get out of school and the simple and direct mod to get out of school. Now this Triplis mod, I think, is a solid middle ground. Disables the Auto-Enroll feature by default. This means that your child will not automatically enroll in school once they have aged. You have to do it manually. And unlike Azoresman's mod, you don't need to use a cheater, just the Sim's phone. This mod (with a long name) also has a couple of built-in failsafes and two variants. So it's not as extensive as Telford's, but it's not as simple or bare-plug as that of the Azores. Any of the three discharges is definitely a matter of preferences and little else. They're all great. Check out this mod I personally love the concept of this mod no matter how simple it is. And the creator definitely delivered. The premise is that the real time your child's Sims can leave school is based on their grades. A bit like real life. The default time when all school children return home is at 3:00 p.m. With this mod, B to D students can return home at 2pm (perhaps to allow study and/or homework). A student can return home at 1pm (probably for exemplary performance). And F-students don't come home until 4:00 p.m. Extra credit? Extra lessons? The point is that this gives you a way to spin a pretty neat narrative about your Sim son's upbringing, which I think is pretty interesting. It also allows your Sims to spend more time outside the School Rabbit Hole. Check out this mod I think the name of the mod is quite self-explanatory. But let me break it down, anyway. This was created to address the problem that there isn't enough time for teens. Between going to school and meeting their needs, there is very little time for them to finish their homework, work on and complete extra credit projects. If you've ever played the 100 Baby Challenge - or at least played a full Sim home - you know that's the evangelical truth. This mod introduces a new scam in the game that allows you to maximize your Teen Sim's school performance without having to turn your homework or level up Simply enable tricks (typing testcheats true in the command bar) and then click the teen (holding down shift). This should bring the makeup menu. You'll see an extra interaction menu called Cheat Sim Info. Based on that, there is an option for Max School Performance. Click on that option and, boom. All completed requirements and maximum performance meter. Talk about your Easy A. Check out this mod just like Zerbu's Go to School Mod, Stacie's playable school events are a pretty exciting mod that allows you to join your sims kids and teens as they navigate elementary and high schools. But instead of a mod that rewrites the entire education system, this introduces a new event that your parent Sim can schedule. All you have to do is put down a school lot on a library, chalet gardens, park or generic lot (could we recommend the mod? elementary school) of Sim4fun and start the event by phone or calendar. Make sure this is done before 8:00! Choose the students you want to invite and start the event. Your school will need to have a kitchen if you want staff to cook and a microphone if you want teachers to teach. Yes, you can really have a school canteen for your Student Sims to have lunch! Let me quickly list some of the great new additions this mod offers us. Build skills (while having school) Promotion possibilities at the higher level (hitting tiered rewards with event objectives) for events with objective And you don't even need an expansion pack or game pack for it! The playable school event only works perfectly with the Sims 4 base game. Check out this mod In addition to making school a playable event, the creator himself has created a Mod bundle of the education system that basically adds a lot of beneficial treats to TS4's current education system. This doesn't need to be used in combination with its Playable School Events mod, by the way. This can be installed and used on its own. Bizarre options! The mod is actually a group of its other education-related mods all grouped together. A mod allows kids and teen Sims to build skills while they're in school and doing their homework. Another mod opens Kindergarten to reach younger Sims who just want to learn. And a different mod also adds an online schooling option to the game! Just plop your Sim in front of a laptop or computer. A new interaction that reads Attend School Online should appear. All the details of what this mod does (and the possible requirements for which you will have to prepare your game) can be in the creator's extensive download description. Be sure to read it carefully to optimize the experience! Check out this mod Now this mod adds a new education system and a new social event that could bring back good memories for people who have played The Sims 2. Impress simston private school principal and sign up your child exclusive Private School! (Very similar to the visits of the principals of TS2 SimCity Academy, only there is a chess game instead of a House Tour.) Start things off by going to your Sim's phone and selecting Schedule Principal Visit ($500). Get a message telling you simston private school principal will come to your house for dinner. The event begins once the Principal enters your home. You have to impress them through successful social interactions, a lot of boasting and a game of chess. Be successful, and your child may be Simston's latest addition - for the low rate of $1000 Simoleons. Keep in mind that planning principal visits also deducts $500 from your family's funds, and cancelling the event won't refund it. Pretty expensive in the game, but hey. The experience is fun and definitely worth it. Check out this mod moving on to higher education, you've got this stylish little zero mod that gives Teen Sims the opportunity to skip High School and jump straight to university. It's realistic in the sense that the chances of being offered the jump aren't very high to begin with (because universities have standards, okay?) Having the Genius trait increases the odds in your teen's favor. A lousy school show, on the other hand, practically kills their chances. The whole jumping process is quite true to life. You will get a random request that informs you that your teen can drop out of high school and enroll in college thanks to excellent results. Once your Sim chooses drop out of high school (although there's a chance to continue high school if this particular Sim isn't what you wanted to advance), a letter of application for your teen is immediately sent. If accepted, the Teenager then has the opportunity to enroll at the University following the discover university enrollment process. But if you're looking for something a little easier... Check out this mod This mod does exactly what the previous mod (of Zero) does. It basically allows your Teen Sim to skip High School and start his college life early. The two biggest differences: only Teen Sims with the Genius trait have the option to enroll (or am an A student, depending on the version you download) Teen Sims with the Genius trait can apply whenever they want (no waiting for automatically generated requests) The creator also keeps things pretty organic with this mod. Instead of cheating your teen's promotion, you get them through an official process if they choose to drop out of high school. The mod has two versions, but you can only install one. The original version only allows Genius Teens to sign up. The alternative allows Genius Teens and Teens who has reached an A in High School to enroll. The first is a little more selective, the second rewards hard work. Note: Unlike zero's mod, this mod doesn't have a built-in option to get out of school. Le Le actually recommends installing triplis' Child and Teen can Quit or Rejoin School mod to remove the risk of penalties! Check out this mod Combine this mod with Zero's Teens Jump to University mod for an even more realistic and exciting sign-up experience! The Sheldon L Cooper Program Mod basically adds another scholarship program to the game (for teens). There are 3 in all (from Buckingham High): Sheldon L Cooper Merit for Young Geniuses - worth $15,000, covers the full cost of the University, available only to teenagers with the Genius Sheldon L Cooper Merit for Young Promises trait - worth $5,000, only available for high school A Teens Sheldon L Cooper Program for All Students - special scholarship that adds an extra set of special classes If your teen is neither a genius nor a high school A student, they can still apply for the program. As mentioned, this will enroll them in special classes (basically night classes) that they have to attend to win the scholarship. Extra tasks are also given on top of the teen's regular tasks that need to be completed and additional requirements that are honestly quite difficult. Everything is very suitable to create a story of this brilliant, ambitious teenager who desperately wants to enter their Dream University, and I am here for it! If you combine this mod with the teens jump mod from the same creator, the school will take care of the teen's application for both Merit scholarship options ($15,000 for Genius Teens, $5,000 for elementary school A students). Check out this mod Now I can't speak for everyone's dorm experience. But I, for example, was given access to a stove when I lived in college dorms. How else could I learn how to burn water? That's why I found it quite frustrating when my college Sims couldn't cook on the accommodation premises. Enter Zerbu again. This Master Mod Creator has created a simple TS4 mod that erases university housing restrictions that prevent us from placing any type of electric cooking tool within a five-mile radius of University Housing. So your College Sim can practice burning Mac n' Cheese as they please. Check out this mod by wrapping up this list with yet another great Zero mod. As the name suggests, installing this will make your Sim a Doctor, Scientist, Detective, Astronaut, or even Style Influencer without the appropriate degree. Realistic, right? Realistic, yes. And I like it. I absolutely love it. Of course, it forces you to play through the entire Discover University package. But for reasons experience and realistic gameplay? This is an A+ mod that deserves all the love in the world. For a complete list of all Jobs & Careers that require a degree (and the corresponding grade, of course) scroll to the end the creator's download notes. Notes.
