Set up your private seller account and create your listing today Start Here Set up your BrokerWeb Account and list multiple companies Start here Craigslist.com When you search craigslist type in Coin Laundry, Laundromat, Washeteria and even Laundry. Depending on your area, they are called different names. Once you have a laundry list for sale, you'll need to contact the person who posted the listing – either by calling (if a phone number is given) or email to request more information. What to do with the listing The first thing you need to do is find out if the post is listed by the owner or a business broker. Many brokers will want to pre-qualify it before disclosing the site and providing details. If the owner is listing the deal for sale, then you may have a chance at a big deal because the owners will typically be easier to work with and trade directly with than a business broker. That's not to say you can't find a good deal through a trading broker, just that your strategy will be different. Keep in mind that you can use your own consultant during the process. The amount you spend will seem negligible after a successful trade, you will probably cover it in your first month of income or perhaps in your first days. Negotiating a bad deal on your own can cost tens of thousands of dollars. What results Do you expect You will find that most laundries are listed for a price that does not work because the return on investment (net annual cash flow divided by the purchase price) will be very low – you should reach the ROI in the range of 20-30%. You will also see that business brokers have many of the listings. Keep in mind that the broker is NOT working for you the buyer. They work for the seller and most of them just want a closed transaction so they can be paid. You need to take care of your own interests. You also have the option to work with a Distributor who has experience in the construction and renovation of Laundromats. Often they know of locations that may not be listed or owners who are considering selling and are open to offers. As I mentioned before, I work with someone who owns the laundromat. Many brokers will sell you a flower shop, a coin laundromat or a restaurant. It makes no difference to them that they are in the sales business, not in the Laundry or Restaurant business.
