This course will take a general look at the TPCASTT system of interpreting poetry and provide students with a system of hypothesis and discovery. This will help students interact with the subtleties of poetry beyond the face of the text. Class Level: 3-12 Standards Al alcause this course can be used at many class levels, common Basic State Standards for classes 9-10 are listed below. Please refer to your Common Core State Standards for strands that fit the right class. ELA-Literacy.RL.6.1: Specify textive evidence and inkings extracted from the text ELA-Literacy.RL.8 to support analysis of what the text clearly says and innations extracted from the text ELA-Literacy.RL.8... 1: Specify the text evidence that most strongly supports the analysis of what the text clearly says and the innations extracted from the text ELA-Literacy.RL.9-10.2: Determine a theme or central idea of a text and analyze in detail the development of the text, including how it appears and how it is shaped and examined with specific details; Text Time provide an objective summary: Two 45 Minute Classroom Meetings Lesson Special Basic Questions How can great writers create a mood that can be felt through the work of a reader? What are the chapters of a poem and how can we learn to analyze its meaning? What is the significance of the title of a poem? How do literary elements affect a reader's work of literature? Objective Students will be able to read and explain the elements in a poem using the TPCASTT method of study for poetry analysis. Before Reading, tpcastt steps are a good idea to introduce students, and to go through any term that might be new to them. It is very important that students focus on listening to the poem read aloud before entering TPCASTT. We recommend that students read quietly to themselves, then read aloud by the teacher or use multimedia. After reading twice, the students asked them what they had caught or what they had changed when they heard/read it a second time. Be careful not to get into a large class discussion, this can negatively affect from the event. TPCASTT with these classes after reading For the first time, we recommend allowing you to learn cooperatives. Students in pairs or groups should complete the analysis If this isn't their first time, challenge them by asking them to do it one by one; The teacher may always decide to make a think, match, share after if necessary. After finishing their worksheet and being checked, students can start creating storyboards that explain what they came up with for the idea. Then students can present their own movie boards and findings to the classroom! Just browse our article to present a storyboard of how! If you don't have computer access, go directly to the sharing and class discussion. TPCASTT Template Samples Create TP-CASTT Analysis* Analysis*
