This popular theme promotes our purpose and drives our passion, from the products we design to how we bounce back. It's at the heart of every organization we work with – each uniquely supporting women and children, creating a positive ripple effect across the country and around the world. The loss of our close friend and colleague, Mary Sloan, in 1993, was the inspiration for the Vera Bradley Foundation for Breast Cancer. By celebrating his life and the lives and legacy of all those bravely ill, we remain steadfast in our commitment to creating a community of hope around breast cancer. Our charming colleagues, business partners, customers and friends share our passion for finding a cure, and together we have raised over $34.6 million to support breast cancer research important. Our team at the Vera Bradley Foundation Breast Cancer Research Center at Indiana University School of Medicine in Indianapolis, Indiana, collaborates with researchers and leads clinical trials nationwide. They focus on developing and significantly improving the radiotherapy for some of the most difficult types of breast cancer to treat, most, triple negative breast cancer. Their advancement of Monogrammed Medicine is leading to promising discoveries in diagnosis, treatment and prevention. Eighty-one cents of every dollar donated to the Foundation goes into breast cancer research. learn more When we were first introduced to New Hope Girls, we were inspired by their story and mission: To provide light and life for girls and women arising from the darkest and most difficult places. After traveling to the Dominican Republic to meet the women behind the nonprofit, we knew we had to get involved. We sponsored the new New Hope Girls workshop in 2016, helping them build a safe and effective sewing work space that has become a sacred place for women to develop into esotho few patients and individuals. 2020 marks the second year we partnered with New Hope Girls to launch a special collection of hand-crafted styles on International Women's Day. In addition, 2020 saw the launch of Backpack 1982. A portion of the proceeds from this purported package directly benefit the New Hope Girls. learn more Another charity that quickly captures our hearts with its mission and impact is the Blessings in Backpacks. The national organization mobilizes communities to provide food for students in need. In 2019, we donated 50,000 brand new backpacks to Blessings in a Backpack and organized star packing events around the country to bring awareness and support. We are also committed to matching your donations up to $50,000 and were able to present a large total of $136,000 to Blessings in Backpacks on Giving Tuesday. In the spring of 2020, we released two special styles with Shawn Johnson East gold medal supporting Blessings in a Backpack with each purchase made. This fall, Blessings in Backpacks will remain committed to providing for children everywhere - anywhere and yet they return to school. You can help by donating. Our partnership with Autism Speaks® was sparked by a desire to help girls and women everywhere living with autism. In particular, a bright-eyed 10-year-old girl named Kenzi, is the daughter of one of our collaborators (and one of our favorite models ever!) Autism Speaks® is a national organization dedicated to promoting solutions across the spectrum and throughout life for individuals with autism and their families. It works to promote research on causes and better treatments for autism spectrum disorders and related conditions both through direct funding and cooperation. We recently partnered with Autism Speaks® on a Plush Throw Blanket that helped us make a donation to charity. You can help by buying one of these special styles! Read more As the COVID-19 crisis continues to affect us all, our hearts remain with all of you and all those on the front line. The nurses who worked tirelessly and bravely throughout this crisis are our heroes. These remarkable caregivers are also our family members, our friends, our longtime clients and the heart of vera Bradley's community. To support them, we pledged in April to force a portion of the proceeds from the sale of our non-medical cotton masks to support the U.S. Nurses Fund's Coronavirus Response Fund for Nurses, which provides direct financial assistance to nurses; support their physical and mental health, today and in the future; promote national advocacy and ensure nurses everywhere have access to the latest science-based information to protect themselves, prevent infections and care for those in need. In August, we were honored to present the American Nurses Fund with a donation of $633,636.01! Thank you for helping us make this gift worthy of happening.
