From Tammy Croft Charts and Graphs provide an ideal visual explanation for business plans, marketing strategies and other reporting activities. These aids may seem difficult to do, but technology makes it easier to create professional and complex graphics. Most software programs provide many options for the number of columns, rows, sizes, and other creative graphics to choose from. Charts can be made with word processing software, such as Microsoft Word. Open Microsoft Word. Click the Start button in the lower left corner of the screen. Click All Programs, Microsoft Word, and Microsoft Works Word Processor. This process will display a blank and editable screen. Select the chart symbol from the toolbar. This symbol resembles a small white chart and read Insert Table when it is marked. When you click, a menu will appear with many style options to choose from. Options include basic, simple, creative, modern, professional and basic diagrams. Select the number of rows and columns required for your chart. Enter the number in the spaces specified next to the rows and columns. Select the number of rows and columns required in your chart. The number of rows and columns can be anywhere from one row to 100 rows. Select the row height and column width. Both attributes can range from one centimeter to 22 centimeters. You also have the option to let the program determine these two options for you by selecting automatically, which is also indicated in each of them' drop-down menus. Press OK when you are satisfied with your choice. The chart will appear in the print form. Set font styles and colors. Styles, font, and color can be customized by selecting the appropriate symbols from the toolbar. Once you've finished customizing, you're ready to print. Select one of the two print options.

You can print the chart immediately by selecting the print symbol from the toolbar or selecting Print from the file drop-down menu. If you're not ready to print, you can save the document by selecting Save or Save As from the drop-down menu and giving it a file name. You have already created a print chart. From Joanne Thomas There are many ways to create a print network using basic home computer programs. These instructions detailed method of creating a print network by using Microsoft Word. The grid is easily customized by size, number of columns, and number of rows. This method is useful for various design, arts and crafts projects. Open Microsoft Word and open a new blank document. Click Table in the top toolbar, then click Draw table. A palette titled Tables and Borders should appear on the screen. Click the table icon arrow next to it in the lower left corner of the palette. A field titled Insert Table should appear on the screen. In the box under the heading Table Table there are white boxes for the number of columns and the number of rows on your grid. Click the arrows to change the numbers in each field, or click in the fields and enter the number of columns and rows you want for your grid. Change the number in the box labeled Column Width if you want to change the column width. Click OK at the bottom of the box. A network should appear on your page. If the grid is the desired end size, it is ready to print. If you want to make changes to your network, you can either start again with a new blank document and change the number of columns, rows, and/or column width. Additionally, use the different tools in the table to add or remove columns or rows, add a different border around the grid, and distribute rows and columns evenly. Read more Shoppers can use stamp coupons in many stores and chains that accept manufacturer or newspaper coupons. However, some specific stores or major chains may have different coupons to accept, such as limiting the use of stamp coupons or refusing to accept completely. Shoppers should check the store coupon code to see if they accept stamp coupons. The most direct way to find out if a store accepts stamp coupons is to check its coupon. Many stores, such as Target and Wal-Mart, post their full acceptance coupon online so shoppers can check them out before visiting the store. While most retailers require all employees to learn these policies, not every employee understands all aspects. As such, shoppers should consult managers and online policies to determine the right admissions rules. Print coupons function in the same way as other coupons, allowing shoppers to exchange discount coupons on qualifying items; instead of taking them from a newspaper or distribution brochure, shoppers print them from their computers. Many manufacturers make these coupons on their websites, either by and deal with common sites such as Coupons.com. Some retailers also post their own stamp coupons online, which are only valid for use in their own stores. These coupons are usually a note on top indicating such restrictions.
