 0-4 x Beam or beam or grenade launcher 2 x secret shot port beam RifleBits (GM III version)Hyper Bazooka 1-2 x Vulcan Pod System2 x Triple Rocket Pod Shield (2 x Twin Rocket Rocket)Sea Serpent RGM-89S Stark Jagan is a mass-produced anti-ship mobile suit. Originally appeared in Char's Mobile Suit counterattack line, it was later reworked for the novel/OVA Mobile Suit Gundam Unicorn. Technology & combat features Special version of RGM-89D Jegan D type. Stark Jagan has improved performance due to additional bumpers and thrusters. It also included feedback from its prototype, the RGM-89S prototype Stark Jagan, and can mount rocket pods on its shoulders for support. Thus, he also inherited the functional concept of RGM-86R GM III. Some of the added bumpers and rocket pods can be blown away if necessary, with the subsequent blade adjustment done automatically. Armament Mounted on the head, he's from close combat readiness. Its mounted Vulcan cannons fire 60mm rounds at a rapid pace, and although it has low firepower, it is extremely effective at holding enemy machines and can destroy the enemy machine's camera, sensors and joints in a very close range. Stark Jagan usually installs one only volcanic owl system, but can be fitted with two blocks when needed. For close combat, Stark Jagan uses the same type of stalk as Jagan D type, and the output of the weapon can be adjusted as there are two beam emitters. By selecting the output and emitter, the beam's save can emit a flat beam for tilting, or a thin beam with a high penetration capacity. Two sabers are stored in each additional arm armor and can be turned on for grenade launchers. A grenade launcher can be mounted in the extra armor of any forearm instead of sabers. Stark Jagan can mount a triple rocket pod on each shoulder to support a long range and can be discarded after use to increase the speed of the suit. The missiles fired have high accuracy thanks to sensors in missile launches. Due to changes in the way the suit is used, Stark Jagan's 10-foot sub-missile sub-missiles are not designed to carry additional large missiles like the RGM-89S prototype Stark Jagan. Weapons that fire refractory bullets to distract enemy units. The standard weaponry of many mobile suits is the ray weapon. Stark Jagan can Jegan D. Has a short barrel for easier use and is most effective in a medium range of combat due to its short firing range. Although its power is reduced, it has an excellent fire speed and can accurately eliminate the enemy during a battle melee when used together with a composite sensor at the top of the rifle. Beam rifle (gm III) Another type of beam rifle that can be loaded stark jagan. Previously used by GM III, powered by a rechargeable energy cap and has a power of 2.8 MW. For heavier firepower, Stark Jagan can be equipped with hyper bazooka. Stark Jagan's hyper bazooka can fire normal 380mm rounds or scattered shots that cover a large area. Stark Jagan can be equipped with a Jegan D type shield to increase defensive abilities against physical and beam attacks. This shield also has two missile launchers. The small rockets launched by the pair of dual rocket launchers have composite sensors in their tips, allowing them to target even under the intervention of minovsky particles on the battlefield. However, they have a small range and are mainly for use in a narrow battle, since they only carry a small amount of fuel. A hand-held, starship weapon that can be used to deliver electric shocks to enemy mobile suits. Its tip contains faithful who helped control the trajectory. History A few years after the introduction of mass production RGM-89 Jegan, it was updated into the RGM-89D Jegan D type to bring its technology up to date. The RGM-89S Stark Jagan is a variant of the Jegan D type, and is designed as an anti-ship mobile suit and for attack missions. During the events of the Mobile Suit Gundam Unicorn, one of these units (piloted by an unnamed veteran of the second Neo See) is observed during Londo Bell's attempt to intercept Garenecieres on asteroid 7, but was destroyed in the heat of the battle with NZ-666 Kshatriya. The second, piloted by Galom Gorga (Juliet 002 call sign), is seen aboard nahei Argama instead equipped with two beam rifles, which was later destroyed by MSN-06S Sinanju. The third and fourth are seen during the Federation of Earth's attack on the asteroid Palau, along with the prototype of RGM-89S Stark Jagan. Variants appeared in episode 2 of Mobile Suit Unirog OVA, this is a small change version of Stark Jagan. Front skirt armor and added armor on the hands, shoulders and mouth are removed for improved mobility. His side skirt armor carries three hand grenades on the left, and on the right a sabre instead of a spear for use in the rifle. As stated in SD Gundam G Generation World and SD Gundam seen in SD Gundam G Generation Worlds, seen on the game Gundam Diorama Front 3th.
