Where was the movie rad filmed

The spice has to flow. In the distant future of a desert planet called Arrakis, Frank Herbert's Dune explores the cult of heroes, environmentalism and other heavy themes. Test your knowledge of the 1965 novel and the 2021 film with our quiz. Since Mark Mancini Hollywood movies thrive in life-changing scenes, and there is nothing more life-changing than, well, death. It won't shock you that some of the highest body counts on screen are credited to war movies. But you may be surprised by some of the kill-frenzied events in this quiz. By Nathan Chandler In Cannes City, May is the month of film. The Cannes Film Festival is the crossroads of international cinema and anyone can submit a film for consideration. But how many have been chosen? By Julia Layton The epic musical film Grease is now over 40 years old. You think you're desperately committed to the iconic movie? Test your knowledge to see if you're who we want. With Alia Hoyt movie lovers around the world will soon be glued to their sets, yes, it's almost Oscar time. Get skinny for the rules of the voting academy and for the famous golden guy himself. By Melissa Russell-Ausley & Tom Harris Get all the best moments of pop culture & entertainment delivered to your inbox. The great films explore everything from claustrophobic submarine warfare to expressionist visions of the future, from angelic dreams of immortality to a certain mischievous dwarf. Lang, Wenders, Schlöndorff, Fassbender, Herzog; here is our list of the ten best German films. Fritz Lang's 1925 expressionist sci-fi dystopia describes a world where the privileged few live to dance with fawns while the masses work in giant underground factories – until a sexy robot disrupts the system. Make sure to get the version without Giorgio Moroder's soundtrack of the 80s. Every Wim Wenders movie is worth seeing, but the elliptical 1987 film (the original title translates as The Sky Over Berlin) wins over such good films as Alice in the Cities and By the End of the World because it seems to sum up everything the director has to say about life and movies in a gorgeous, lyrical set. Directed by Bruno Ganz and Peter Falk, Germany's answer to the French New Wave is a more silly, more innocuous version of Breathless. Werner Enke plays a slacker who drifts through a Munich day and falls in love with Uschi Glas. The Oscar-winning adaptation of the Nobel Prize-winning Günther Grass for the Second World War by Volker Schlöndorff is a you should see, as disturbing and surreal as the German story itself. Rainer Werner Fassbinder, the terrible child of the new German cinema, pays tribute to douglas sirk melodrama for the 1970s in Germany with this touching and incisive melodrama about a cleaning lady's love for a Moroccan immigrant. Barbara Sukova starred in Margarita von Trotta's vivid biopic about the iconic socialist revolutionary. A A incompatible film. Werner Herzog sent Klaus Kinski's best demon into the South American jungle for this 1977 epic about a conquistadore driven insane by greed and ambition. Flame hair Franka Potente and Moritz Bleibtreu chase through Berlin in Tom Tykwer's riveting 1999 techno mindgame, the most dynamic and elegant film to come out of Germany in years. The greatest submarine film ever made, and one of the best films about the reality of World War II. Wolfgang Petersen's claustrophobic underwater epic is a tour de force. Leni Riefenstahl, otherwise known as Hitler's favorite director, deserves no sympathy for her Nazi propaganda, but deserves credit for her extraordinary ability behind the camera. Her documentary about the 1938 Olympics is a beautiful film that celebrates the beauty of bodies on the move. By the way, her extraordinary life is also the subject of an exciting documentary.
