It premiered on Fox in the Us on November 8, 2009. The episode follows Brian Anthropomorphic dog as he dates a middle-aged woman named Rita and his daughter Brian stood up. He becomes reluctant to continue their relationship after discovering many of her health concerns; The episode debuted during all of Seth MacFarlane's schedule, ahead of the live action episode of Seth and Alex's almost live comedy show. The episode was written by regular series Tom Devaney and directed by Pete Michels. It received very mixed reviews from critics for its story and many cultural references. According to Nielsen ratings, it was seen in 7.38 million homes in the original broadcast. The episode featured guest performances by Hart Buchner, James Burkhardt, Amy Garcia, Jack Samson, Stacy Scully, Debra Skelton, Reginald Philjohnson, Nana Visitor, Tiko Wells, May Whitman, and Bruce Willis, along with several frequent guest voice actors for the series. Brian got a brand new bag released on DVD along with seven other episodes of the season on June 15, 2010. The episode is dedicated to Patrick Swayze. Plot during a visit to the final video store during the DVD sale, Peter decides to buy the house road, and after watching it, decides to start roundhouse kicking everything in sight including his family. While driving with Brian and using his feet on the steering wheel, Peter crashes into a young woman's car and Brian rushes to make sure she's ok. The woman apologizes to Brian and asks her out that she accepts, but when he comes to her house to pick her up, her mother Rita says she just left with someone else. Brian keeps talking to Rita and finds himself attracted to her. After dating for several weeks, they sneak into Griffin's house late one night, but the family discovers the next morning and taunts Rita behind her. Brian tries to convince the family that Rita is a wonderful, charming woman despite the fact that she is much older than he is, and invites her to dinner to prove his point. It's not going well: they're asking her to reveal her age, and she's proud and admits she's 50 years old. With Griffin, Brian goes to console Rita, and proposes to her. Feeling guilty for how they deal with him, Griffin gives Brian their blessings. Rita breaks her hip while she and Brian have sex. Peter warns Brian that their relationship won't last much longer now that he must run errands for her. Brian goes out to pick up rita's bedridden medicine, but is distracted by the sight of a group of young women entering a bar. One of them offers to have sex with Brian in the bathroom, and then returns with her medication. Realizing that he still loves Rita, he admits his betrayal. However, Rita decides that he is too far small for her and interrupts their engagement. Unfortunate Brian understands that he is for the best and leaves her. Production and development of The Visitor Nana made Rita's voice. The episode was directed by former Simpson-Pete Michels, and written by Tom Devaney, shortly after the end of the seventh season of production. They are both regular series of the show, which joined in its third and fourth seasons, respectively. Before presenting simple voice roles over the series, actress Nana Visitor portrays the character of the special episode, Rita. Regular series Peter Sheen and James Purdum served as moderators, with series creator and executive producer Seth MacFarlane and David Zuckerman serving as the staff writer for the episode. [2] Brian got a brand new bag, along with the other seven episodes of Season 8 Guy Family, and was released on dvd three discs set in the United States on June 15, 2010. Brief audio commentary groups by Seth MacFarlane and various crew and cast members included several episodes, a host of deleted scenes, a special mini feature that discussed the process behind Moving the Way to Multiverse, and a mini feature titled Family Guy Karaoke. [3] In addition to the regular visitor and actor, actor Hart Buchner, James Birkder, actress Amy Garcia, Jack Samson, actress Stacy Scully, Debra Skelton, Reginald Philjohnson, actor Tiko Wells, actress May Whitman, and actor Bruce Willis wills star in the episode in both sound and live games. Repeating guest cast actors Alexandra Breckenridge, writer Steve Callahan, voice actor Ralph Garman, writer Danny Smith, writer Alec Sulkin, and writer John Fenner also made a minor appearance. [2] Repeat guest cast members Adam West and Patrick Warburton also cast appearances in the episode. Cultural references this section probably contained original research. (November 2020) (Learn how to remove this template message and when) the title is a reference to the song James Brown Papa got a brand new bag. Peter Buys Road House Movie Starring Patrick While in a movie store coming out of a business sale - where West Garbage Mayor Bayle buys kids film - Peter refuses to take Robin Williams' movie What Dreams May Come, even though she's free, causing a DVD to sadly sing a song possibly from Annie. Meanwhile, Brian buys Dan in real life, which makes fun of Stowe. In another scene, Joe is pulled away by mysterious characters, referring to Patrick Swayze's second film, Ghost. One cutaway gag features Whitney Houston and Bobby Brown bonding emotionally on their shared love of crack cocaine. Another cutaway gag features Peter in the famous peanut bit in which Lucy pulls the football away from Charlie Brown, with Peter attacking her until she cries and promises not to pull a single trick. Brian brags about his previous work as an actor, which is evidenced by a scene from Die Hard in which Brian is included animated in live action alongside Reginald Veljohnson and Paul Gleason. When Rita is introduced to Griffin, Peter jokes about her age by asking if anyone has made any Jessica Tandy jokes yet. Charlotte Ray of The Facts of Life later appears in Griffin's living room to say, Whaaat? Peter flips through the Playboy Women's Olympics affair, which Peter finds full of unattractive, women-jerking. The reception was significantly lower than the previous week's show, and although it was heavily promoted as Seth MacFarlane's All Night, the episode received nielsen rating of 4.3/7 at 18-49 demographic, and was seen in 7.38 million homes. [4] The episode received mostly mixed reviews from critics. Ahsan Haque of IGN gave her 6.5/10, saying that the episode felt very formulaic and a bit of a missed opportunity[5] Emily VanDerWerff of Club A.V. gave her B, saying: It's strange to see the Family Guy episode that has something approaching an actual story [...] and even cutaway muzzles were more mute than usual. [6] In a later review of Family Guy Season VIII, Ramsay Isler of IGN listed Brian got a brand new bag as remarkably unfunny, with lazy and unoriginal writing.
