AISD wants to let parents know about our continued support through remote health and mental health services. All AISD families have access to these services through our partnership with Virtual Care for Kids, the Vida Clinic, and Inseparable Care. The following link provides information in English and Spanish on remote health and mental health services at AISD: Virtual Care for Kids has agreed to waive all copays for all AISD remote medical visits. In addition, students with Medicaid will receive free care. If your child is insured and does not receive a free/reduced lunch, the AISD Crisis Support Fund (is offering vouchers to families to get remote medical care for free. Before we can treat your children, you need to see them . We urge parents and guardians to act now and not wait until they need medicine. Digital citizenship is responsible for the use of technology whether it takes place at home, work, or school. It is suitable to monitor students' use of technology to ensure student privacy and safety. Resources for different ages of students are available in common sense media about digital citizenship, screen time, and useful tips for handling school closures due to coronavirus. For cyberbullying reports please see Austin ISD Respect for full screen. The social and emotional well of your family is important. The most important thing you can do for your family right now is the following: Mixed learning is an approach that combines face-to-face classroom education with online learning. The face-to-face learning experience is closely aligned with the online learning experience. Students, at least to some extent, have control over their time, speed, path and learning place. What mix will be offering my child? BLEND is a learning positioning system that allows teachers to provide educational support, classroom calendars, assignments and resources for students in a secure online environment. Features within BLEND are intended to be used to strengthen teachers' best practices and enhance students' skills and interests. BLEND provides learning, evaluation and organization tools that allow users to be more efficient and effective in day-to-day educational and learning tasks. BLEND will not replace the area grade book (teams). BLEND is designed: Improving teachers' capacity to understand and serve their child at an individual level enables their child to create ePortfolios, where he can keep the work out of his child's K-12 grades to be able to identify his strengths and weaknesses Make, set personal learning goals and access the right resources to meet those goals of providing your child with collaborative learning experiences that improve social learning interactions and support diversity provides opportunities for your child to learn and apply responsible digital citizenship whether parents have access to BLEND? Parents will have their own accounts on BLEND that allows access to view their child's courses through the mixed parent portal. In BLEND, a parent has a role called observer. Observers have limited licenses that allow them to see what's going on in a period and a of assignments. What can parents see in BLEND? Below are some features available for parents/supervisors. Please note that not all courses use all features. Set up your notifications view the dashboard display period display course but not send preview assignments and download some files view the display modules scores canvas view calendar communication with teacher How do parents access BLEND? Introduction to BLEND: Blend can be accessed via the Austin ISD portal: your username and password are the same as your Austin ISD parent portal account. If you are experiencing a problem with the Austin ISD portal or mixed parent login portal or password, please call (student services) parents should use their student login credentials. The Boom Parent app, which allows you to access BLEND, is available on the Google Play and App Store for tablets and smartphones. Windows devices use the browser. BLEND is new to the area and campuses are developing apps for parents as observers. If you have specific questions about how to use your child's campus using BLEND, please contact campus. Campus.
