Everyone knows one or two films from the 1980s that take them back, even if you're too young to remember it well. Some of the best films, from Return of the Jedi to Risky Business, come from this decade, each steeped in its own nostalgia and sense of place. There's something about the '80s movies that makes them memorable, even without today's elaborate special effects, big production budgets and high-definition resolution. Fortunately, many of the most iconic films of the 1980s are currently available for streaming on platforms like Netflix and Disney+, whether you're looking to watch them for the first time or by the 100s. This is where to start. More back to the Future streaming guides (1985) This is where the journey began with Marty McFly (Michael J. Fox), a teenager who finds himself traveling back in time (and forward to the future that was then 2015) with Doc Brown (Christopher Lloyd). In the past, he meets his future parents and must try to fix the story to secure his own existence. Two sequels followed in 1989 and 1990, along with related merchandise, games, books and more. The film has been selected for preservation in the National Film Registry and is widely considered one of the greatest sci-fi films of all time. Rotten Tomatoes: 96% Gender: Adventure, Comedy, Sci-Fi Stars: Michael J. Fox, Christopher Lloyd, Lea Thompson, Crispin Glover Director: Robert Zemeckis Rating: PG Runtime: 116 minutes Watch on Netflix Star Wars: The Empire Strikes Back (1980) Kicking the decade, this film, the second in the franchise following the original 1977 Star Wars, advances from three years to a time when the Galactic Empire follows Darth Vader's orders to find and eliminate Luke Skywalker. Largely considered one of the film's first sequels to be better than the original, this is the film where Luke discovers his true kinship at a time that is often called one of the biggest plot in a movie. Don't stop with this movie, of course. If you're going to look, you'd better get them all. Rotten Tomatoes: 94% Genre: Action, Adventure, Fantasy Stars: Mark Hamill, Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher, Billy Dee Williams, Anthony Anthony David Prowse, Kenny Baker, Peter Mayhew, Frank Oz Director: Irvin Kershner Rating: G Runtime: 124 minutes Watch on Disney+ Indiana Jones and the Raiders of the Lost Ark (1981) This film is the first in the Indiana Jones franchise, which included two sequels, Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom and Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade, as well as a prequel television series, in addition to a prequel television series, as well as a prequel television series, as well as a prequel television series, as well as a prequel television series, in addition to a prequel television series, The Young Indiana Jones Chronicles, and several video games. It tells the story of an archaeologist in a search for the Ark of the Alliance, but must fight the Nazis to get there first. As the highest-grossing film of that year, the film earned nine Academy Award nominations and has been included in the National Film Registry. Some call it one of the best movies ever made. Rotten Tomatoes: 95% Gender: Action, Adventure Stars: Harrison Ford, Karen Allen, Paul Freeman, Ronald Lacey, John Rhys-Davies, Denholm Elliott Director: Steven Spielberg Rating: 13+ Runtime: 115 minutes Watch on Die Netflix Hard (1988) Often regarded by die-hard fans as mandatory annual viewing during the Christmas season, the stage is Night, and a heist is about to take place. led by a criminal mastermind (Alan Rickman). But Officer John McClane (Bruce Willis) is not going to let that happen, uncaging his fury while trapped in a Los Angeles skyscraper while things are going on. It has all the elements that make a great action movie, from suspense edge of your seat to menacing one line and fantastic fighting scenes. It's Willis at his best. Rotten Tomatoes: 93% Gender: Action, Thriller Stars: Bruce Willis, Alan Rickman, Alexander Godunov, Bonnie Bedelia Director: John McTiernan Rating: R Runtime: 132 minutes Watch on HBO Max Aliens (1986) One of the first major film franchises to put a strong woman at the center of the story to kick ass and take names, this is the second film to watch Ellen Ripley's (Sigourney Weaver) trip. After returning to the moon, now with a unit of space Marines in tow, she is ready to look for the aliens she claims to have found earlier. Considered one of the best movie sequels ever made, it's worth seeing even if you haven't seen the original. Rotten Tomatoes: 97% Genre: Action, Adventure, Sci-Fi Stars: Sigourney Weaver James Cameron Rating: R Runtime: 137 minutes Watch on HBO Max The Terminator (1984) I'll be back. It is one of the most recognizable lines in film history, as is the character who pronounced it: a cyborg killer named The Terminator (Arnold Schwarzenegger). The Terminator travels back in time to hunt down and kill Sarah Connor (Linda Hamilton) to prevent his son from saving the world from the post-apocalyptic future where the machines have taken over. It is one of the first films that secured both Schwarzenegger and James Cameron as the main forces in Hollywood. Rotten Tomatoes: 100% Gender: Action, Science Fiction Arnold Schwarzenegger, Michael Biehn, Linda Hamilton, Paul Winfield Director: James Cameron Rating: 14A Runtime: 107 minutes Watch on Amazon Prime Batman (1989) If you are a believer that Michael Keaton was the best Batman or not, or that Jack Nicholson's version of the Joker was the most intriguing, this film is a must-see. It is the first Warner Bros. film to start the series of films centered on and/or with this comic book character. The star-filled cast depicting who the A-listers at the time helped turn the film into a huge blockbuster, which led to three sequels. Keaton only played the title character of the first two, but now, decades later, he is in talks to rework the role for the upcoming Flash-centric film. Rotten Tomatoes: 71% Gender: Action, Adventure Stars: Jack Nicholson, Michael Keaton, Kim Basinger, Robert Wuhl, Pat Hingle, Billy Dee Williams, Michael Gough, Jack Palance Director: Tim Burton Rating: PG Runtime: 126 minutes on Watch on HBO Max Star Wars: Return of the Jedi (1983) After the tremendous success of the second film, the story quickly continued a few years later with this, the third film in the franchise. As the first to use THX technology for enhanced audio, he skips a year and follows the typical story of good versus evil, as the Rebel Alliance must fight the Emperor and his plan to build another Death Star and destroy them. The story is emotional and action-packed, with something for everyone. Rotten Tomatoes: 82% Gender: Action, Adventure, Fantasy Stars: Mark Hamill, Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher, Billy Dee Williams, Anthony Daniels, David Prowse, Kenny Baker, Peter Mayhew, Frank Oz Director: Richard Marquand Rating: G Runtime: 132 Watch minutes on Disney+ The Princess Bride (1987) It's not nicknamed a rom-com, but this film totally fits that genre, with elements of fantasy, adventure and comedy. It is a story as old as time, adapted from the novel of the same name from 1973 and told in the film as a book that a grandfather is reading to his grandson. At the heart of the story is Wesley (Cary Elwes), a farmer who sets out on a mission to rescue his love, Princess Buttercup (Robin Wright). Along the way, however, he meets and travels with some very interesting and eccentric characters. Although it did not break box office records when it appeared in theaters, the film has since become a cult classic. Rotten Tomatoes: 97% Gender: Adventure, Family, Fantasy Stars: Cary Elwes, Mandy Patinkin, Chris Sarandon, Christopher Guest, Wallace Shawn, Andre the Giant, Robin Wright, Peter Falk, Fred Savage, Billy Crystal Director: Rob Reiner Rating: PG Runtime: 98 minutes Watch on Disney+ Full Metal Jacket (1987) Gunnery Hartman (Lee Ermey) is an abusive U.S. Navy drilling sergeant, but the real story is about The Comosio (Matthew Modine) and Pyle Pyle two privates fighting to pass through the training camp in such hostile conditions. Based on Gustav Hasford's 1979 novel The Short-Timers, the film earned an Oscar nomination for Best Adapted Screenplay. While the film received its share of criticism, it's still one to see if they're in the war movies. Rotten Tomatoes: 91% Genre: Drama, War Stars: Matthew Modine, Adam Baldwin, Vincent D'Onofrio, Lee Ermey, Dorian Harewood, Arliss Howard, Kevyn Major Howard, Ed O'Ross Director: Stanley Kubrick Rating: R Runtime: 116 minutes on Watch HBO Max Blade Runner (1982) While the 2049 Blade Runner sequel that premiered 35 years later was a box office hit, the original film did not enjoy the same wide. Since then, however, it has become a cult film and is often considered one of the best sci-fi films ever made. The dystopian future that serves as the setting is supposed to be 2019 (eek!) when synthetic humans work in space colonies. But a group of fugitives manages to escape and return to Earth. Based on Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? by Philip K. Dick, is the film that started Dick's Hollywood career. Since then, several more Dick books have been adapted into films, including Total Recall, Minority Report and The Adjustment Bureau, as well as The Man in the High Castle, which is now an Amazon series. Rotten Tomatoes: 90% Genre: Action, Sci-Fi, Thriller Stars: Harrison Ford, Rutger Hauer, Sean Young, Edward James Olmos Director: Ridley Scott Rating: PA Runtime: 117 minutes Watch cbS All Access Airplane! (1980) When you're in the mood for a good laugh, this parody of disaster genre movies, namely Zero Hour!, from 1957, is a masterful class of silly humor. The late Leslie Nielsen was not supposed to be the protagonist, but he quickly became the breaking star thanks to his subtle humor. How can you forget lines like your answer to the question, surely you can't be serious? with a stone face, I'm serious. And don't call me Shirley. Nielsen starred in many other hilarious comedy films, including the film series The Naked Gun. This one that started it all will make you laugh all the time. Rotten Tomatoes: 97% Genre: Comedy Stars: Robert Hays, Julie Hagerty, Leslie Nielsen, Robert Stack, Lloyd Bridges, Peter Graves, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Lorna Patterson Director: Jim Abrahams, David Zucker, Jerry Zucker Rating: AA Runtime: 87 minutes Watch on Amazon PrimeWatch on CBS All Access E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial (1982) Widely considered to be one of the greatest films of all time — in any genre — this movie takes viewers on an emotional journey as a young befriends Tierra and trying to return to one of the greatest films of all time — in any genre — this movie takes viewers on an emotional journey as a young befriends Tierra and trying to return to one of the greatest films of all time — in any genre — this movie takes viewers on an emotional journey as a young befriends Tierra home with his own family. Rotten Tomatoes: 80% Genre: Comedy Stars: Matthew Broderick, Mia Sara, Alan Ruck Director: John Hughes Rating: PG Runtime: 103 minutes Watch on Netflix The Goonies (1985) Sloth loves Chunk! This film, featuring a cast of children who recently gathered for a Zoom video chat, is mandatory for anyone growing up at the time. A group of friends heads to seek the lost fortune of legendary pirate One-Eyed Willy in the hope that he can help save their homes from foreclosure. They quickly discover that they are not the only ones in the search for treasure. While there are some scary elements, it's an adventure comedy in the heart that's great for seeing with the whole family. Rotten Tomatoes: 75% Gender: Adventure, Comedy, Family Stars: Sean Astin, Josh Brolin, Jeff Choen, Corey Feldman, Kerri Green, Martha Plimpton, Director of Ke Huy Quan: Richard Donner Rating: PG Runtime: 109 minutes See on HBO Max Risky Business (1983) Joel (Tom Cruise), a high school student living with his wealthy parents, should try to live up to his high expectations, which involve entering Princeton. When they go on a trip, he and his friend decide to let go. A night of debauchery involving prostitutes quickly becomes bitter. While the age arrival film is best known for that iconic Old Time Rock and Roll scene with Cruise sliding down the floor in his shirt and underpants, it's a great film that looks at themes of ambition, innocence, materialism and wealth. Rotten Tomatoes: 92% Gender: Comedy, Crime, Drama, Romance Stars: Tom Cruise, Rebecca De Mornay Director: Paul Brickman Rating: R Runtime: 99 minutes Watch on Hulu Editors' Recommendations Recommendations
