high school music club alongside Yui's sister Ui, their classmate Jun Suzuki and new members Sumire Saitō and Nao Okuda. The spin-off manga K-On! Shuffle focuses on a new set of characters at another school. After being inspired by Sakuragaoka High School's light music club, Yukari

Stephanie Sheh (English) Yui is lead guitarist and Vocalist of Split Light Music Club playing Heritage Cherry Sunburst Gibson Les Paul Standard electric guitar that she nicknames Gīta (ギー太). Before she learned to play electric guitar, the only instrument she could play was castanets. [4] [5] [6] [7] She does not get good grades at school (although when properly trained, she can achieve astonishing results) and it is easy to distract trivia (mostly those considered sweet and adorable). Yui is a kind and friendly girl, but also clumsy and easily spaced most of the time; as a result, she can be forgetful and is sometimes unaware of the situation around her. Yui has shoulder length, brown hair (slightly longer than Ritsu's) which she approaches with two yellow hair clips and brown eyes. She is very much liked by any type of food (although she never gains weight, much usually results in excellent audience response. [10] [11] [12] As a musician, Yui has an absolute pitch – she can perfectly tune a guitar without a tuner, which greatly impresses Azusa, who played guitar much longer than Yui. [9] [13] It has a very simple nature, but it has incredible focus and

Sakuma and friend Kaede Shimizu are trying to start their own club. Together with classmate Mah Sawabe, they reveal the Light Music Appreciation Society, a club run by Riko Satou. Characters Main characters Yui Hirasawa (平沢 唯, Hirasawa Yui) Voice: Aki Toyosaki (Japanese); envied by Mugi, Mio,[8] and Sawako[9]). She has a younger sister, Ui, who is very mature and acts like big sister Yui, takes care of her and keeps her in line. [5] Yui works extremely hard to be better at playing guitar. During performances, Yui plays with incredible energy and joy which retention when it has a clear goal in sight; unfortunately, this is limited to only one subject at a time, and her other skills deteriorate rapidly (for example, Yui was pressed at one point to do unsuccessful test results, and she quickly brings her math skills to rank at the expense of guitar knowledge). [14] Despite all this, Yui is still dedicated to her band and will always practice hard enough for the club. At school, she was admired by her big voice. However, she is known to have forgotten her lyrics in the middle of the performance, as well as rewriting things, which sometimes made her unable to perform. [15] [16] Mio was the lead vocalist at first, as Yui could not play guitar and sing at the same time. [17] [15] Yui is also known for writing childish texts because Ui helped her create them. [18] [19] Mio Akiyama (秋山 澪, Akiyama Mio) Voice: Yōko Hikasa (Japanese); Cristina Vee (English) Mio is a bass player, songwriter and Split vocalist for the light music club. She's a shy girl who's in a light music club. She plays left-handed, 3-color Sunburst Fender Jazz Bass with a tortoiseshell pickguard, [4][5] although she is shown playing Fender Precision Bass in the first manga volume. [20] It uses D'Addario EXL160M medium bass wire. [21] Her bass is named Elizabesu or Elizabass) later in anime. While she originally intended to join a book club, Forced into a childhood music club by her childhood friend and club president/drummer, Ritsu. [4] She receives excellent grades at school and while she is usually very kind and strict, especially where Ritsu, who always teases her, is involved; its weakness is terrible; is often incapacitated by fear when stories involving ghosts, blood, injuries are shown,[22] haunted houses,[16] shells[23] or other disturbing topics. She also fears being the centre of attention, easily embarrassed and often susceptible to teasing Ritsu[22] and Sawak, their club counselor and eventual third-year home room teacher.

Mio has long, straight black hair and gray eyes (which are at an angle slightly more than other signs). She states that she chose bass since she is not the center of attention in the band, unlike the guitarist. [20] Mio is more technical when it comes to music, and Yui often comes to it when she needs more guitar tutorials. Mio is the split vocalist of the band, although since he does not like to be on center stage, he tries to avoid taking over the lead vocals if possible, generally singing if Yui is not able to do so. [10] [17] She writes most of the songs, though they usually contain some weird and overly girly lyrics like Light and Fluffy Time. [17] As she is left-handed, she becomes retracted whenever she sees left-handed instruments because of their rarity. [7] After their live debut, attractive Mio gained a huge following fan (in no small part because of an unfortunate accident at the end of the show where she accidentally flashed her underwear, after tripping over a bass cord),[16][24] led by a beleaved former student council president. [25] Also, as a result of her sudden popularity, most of her classmates voted for her to portray Romeo in their class play. [26] Mio comes to greatly enjoy her time at university as she encounters many new experiences. [27] She is also able to overcome some of her shyness and make new friends such as Sachi and Ayame. [27] [28] Ritsu Tainaka (田井中 律, Tainaka Ritsu) Voice: Satomi Satō (Japanese); Cassandra Lee Morris (English)[29] Ritsu (or Ricchan (りっちゃん, Ritchan), as Yui called him) is the self-proclaimed president of the Light Music Club and leader of Hokago Tea Time playing the yellow Rick Marotta Signature Yamaha Hipg The cimbal kit (with add-on floor tom in the opening credits only) combined with a cymbal set from Avedis Zildjian,[4][23] although it is shown playing a white Yamaha Absolute Series drumkit in anime closing credits. [4] [5] She has an ambiguous but optimistic personality, and is even more extroverted and hammy than Yui, but she often has trouble remembering important club activities and announcements and is constantly being reassessed by Mio and Nodoka for forgetting to send important forms concerning the club. [7] [15] Ritsu cheerful, cheerful, he likes to make jokes and is sarcastic most of the time, but still shares the good heart of the other members. She's adept at brainstorming ideas that make money for the club. Ritsu has shoulder length, brown hair, with bangs pulled back with yellow headband and golden eyes. He's wearing an open school jacket. She says she chose to play drums because they are cool, but later admits she has trouble playing instruments that include intricate finger movements such as bass, guitar and keyboard. [5] [20] [30] She is a childhood friend of Mia's and will often take the opportunity to tease her whenever Mio gets the out of something. [22]
She is also known to become easily jealous of Mio's other high school friends, even going as far as spying on Mio when on trips with them. [7] Ritsu is always in progress and will not stop at anything because of the success of the light music club. Despite her rough manners and speech, most of her classmates in the class play a rendition of Romeo and Juliet, and in the end she manages to act like a real girl. [26] In anime, she states that her favorite drummer is Keith Moon of The Who. [30] She is skilled at cooking. [31] He has a younger brother Satoshi (聡, The Voice: Mika Itō (Japanese); Amanda C. Miller. [32] Tsumugi Kotobuki (琴吹 紬, Kotobuki Tsumugi) Voice: Minako Kotobuki (Japanese); Shelby Lindley (English)[29] Tsumugi, Often referred to as Mugi (ムギ) by her friends, is a wealthy Kansai girl with a gentle and sweet personality who plays korg triton extreme 76-key keyboard, although he also sees her play Korg RK-100 keytar in the final credits of the first season, [4][5] and Hammond organ in the final credits of season two. She originally intended to join the choral club, but instead joins a light music club after receiving invitations and encouragement from both Mia and Ritsu. Tsumugi has been considered a piano prodigy since he was four years old and has experience winning various piano competitions. Tsumugi wrote several songs for the Light Music Club, as well as sang back vocals in several other songs. She is a good student and has long, pale blonde hair, blue eyes, unusually large eyebrows that obviously flow in her family, and a beautiful complexion that other characters do not have but do not get burned by the sun. She does, however, have great difficulty playing electric guitar. She is the daughter of a company president, [5][20] and her family has several villas in various places throughout Japan [13][33] (and even one in Finland). [34] Since her father also owns a maid's café, [26] she often brings sweets and an assortment of sweets and pastries to the club room, and she diligently makes tea with a tea set kept in their club room. Despite her wealth, she is also fascinated by joy in normal activities, such as ordering fries with your club friends, [4] keeping part-time jobs [32] and haggling over prices. [5] [20] Tsumugi occasionally shows a rebellious streak, absent from his normally polite and mature behavior to the surprise of others. It also shows children's desire from time to time, and possesses unusually high strength, being able to effortlessly carry their own keyboard. Ritsu's drums, amplifiers, [16][24] and at one point win the arm-knocking game in arcades. Tsumugi is often drawn into the sight of two girls communicating closely, sometimes imagining something more risqué in her head. [17] Although many things do not bother her, she is quite aware of her weight (just like Mio),[8] and becomes a bit anxious when her family's staff start spoiling their friends during a visit to the villa. [9] Later she starts learning to play quitar from Azusa. [31] Tsumugi has a childhood friend a few years younger than her named Sumire Saitō, who is the daughter of a family serving the Kotobuki household. Tsumugi grew up at home and therefore spent very little time in the outside world. Because of their close friendship, Sumire would buy everyday items for Tsumugi, like a manga she shouldn't have seen otherwise. Tsumugi was quite taken from some yuri mangoes she received, which may have influenced her later perceptions of relationships. When Sumire started high school, Tsumugi wanted to experience the light music club on her own, but because of Sumire's shyness, Tsumugi came up with an excuse to send her to the club room to pick up tea sets left there and told Sawak when Sumire joined in that it was ok to leave tea sets there. [35] Azusa Nakano (中野 梓, Nakano Azusa) Voice: Ayana Taketatsu (Japanese); Christine Marie Cabanos (English) Azusa is a student of the same year and class as Yui's sister Ui, who joins the light music club and becomes a rhythm quitarist, playing the fender mustang electric quitar. In the end, the guitar was named Muttan, because it's a Mustang. She is a self-proclaimed novice guitarist who has been playing guitar since her fourth grade, and her parents work in a jazz band. [36] She is more serious than other girls, and in a way she tsundere because she often doesn't like to admit her true feelings. She often finds herself confused by the tea parties and cosplaying aspects of the club, when she would rather just exercise, and is curious about how the club is able to play so well despite their problems and lack of practice; Still, she's as kind as the other girls in the end. [37] However, it has a certain weakness for cakes and can settle down fairly easily, sometimes just by cuddling. [37] She is a constant victim of Yui's physical and the nickname is Azu-nyan (あずにゃん) after trying out a pair of cat ears and mealing (nyan is the equivalent of meauka in Japanese vocabulary). [36] Nevertheless, Azusa ironically is not too good at caring for cats. [32] Azusa has long black hair, which she wears in braids and brown eyes. While Azusa is talented at guitar, she has trouble singing while playing unlike Yui and Mio. [38] In the band, she looks back on Mio most because of her maturity and the fact that she is an experienced bass player, even trying to give Mio chocolate on Valentine's Day. [39] However, she sometimes unintentionally makes remarks about Mio's weaknesses, such as her weight. Mugi is also very beautiful, envied by her hair and big eyes, and later begins to teach her to play guitar when the two are alone in the club room. [31] Ever since she joined, Yui has been coming to her for advice on playing guitar, [40] as well as maintenance. She gets a tan very easily, once during her time on the beach[9][13] and another during a music festival (even after applying sunscreen). [41] As a result, she often gets sunburn as well. She gets lonely very easily, and often worries that everyone at the club will leave her, because they are a vear older and will eventually graduate. Because of that, the other girls are buying her a turtle to take care of, calling it Ton. [42] Outside the band, he often hangs out with Ui and Jun whenever other girls are busy. [43] After the others graduate, she becomes the new president of the light music club alongside Ui and Juna, who decide to join her. [44] Together with two new members, Sumire and Nao, they form a new band called Wakaba Girls (若葉ガールズ, Wakaba Gāruzu, lit. Fresh Leaf Girls). During wakaba girls' first summer training camp, Azusa reveals to Sawaku her belief that she is unable to act like the real president of the light music club; however, Sawako suggests that there is no adequate way to define what it means to be president, and that Azusa will do just fine. While in the same training camp, Azusa was persuaded by others to become the band's vocalist despite her previous reservations about the issue. [45] Supporting characters Sawako Yamanaka Sawako) Voice: Asami Sanada (Japanese); Karen Strassman (English) Sawako is a music teacher who is a consultant to a wind instrument club at a girls' school. An alumna of schools and a member of the light music club in her student days, she doesn't want people to know that she was previously a member of the heavy metal band death devil (of which she was also a lead guitar and vocalist and went by the stage name Catherine (キャサリン, Kyasarin)[12]), so she disguises it by being gentle and affectionate with her co-workers, especially the students. Forced to be a light music club consultant, as Ritsu blackmails her girls find out about her past. [15] [22] However, she is able to juggle being a consultant for the wind instrument club, even as the story progresses. Although she has mature and gentle demeanor at school, Sawako (she affectionately addresses sawa-chan (さわちゃん, Sawa-chan) and Rits and Yua) portrays a completely different, completely authentic character when alone with an easy music club. In reality, she's quite wild, lazy, and she's a rather irresponsible teacher who enjoys dressing up a light music club in (sometimes embarrassing) cosplay costumes (like French maid uniforms), much to Mio's disgust. [46] She gets excitement from the rare moments in which she is praised for her work. [47] She appoints the Ho-kago Tea Time club after members have been deciding on the name for too long. [47] In anime, she once fills Yui with her white Epiphone 1958 Korina Flying V electric guitar. [11] She becomes a maiden house room teacher in year three, and puts Nodoka and all band members (except Azusa, since she is a lower grade) in the same class, so she doesn't have to remember so many names. [6] An episode in the second anime season reveals that it owned one of the first Gibson SG models (from about 1960 with a custom stoptail bridge) that later went on sale. [42] Because of her relationship with club members, other students in her class begin calling her image as a mild teacher. Her image was further destroyed after Death Devil was temporarily reunited at a wedding reception for the high school alumnus. Regardless, her popularity with students remains unchanged. despite her laziness, she still shows herself to be a capable mentor, as demonstrated by her willingness to coach Yui as lead singer[17] and attend their performances. [10] Her musical abilities have clearly not dulled over the years, as she is able to replace Yui at the school festival almost without first practicing the band's song. [11] Sawako is also very perceptive: she immediately sees through Ui's mask when she impersonates her sister and on several occasions boasts to the club that there is nothing she cannot see. [11] Sawako was named after the real-life Japanese rock musician Sawao Yamanaka of The Pillows. [49] Ui Hirasawa (平沢 憂, Hirasawa Ui) Voice: Madoka Yonezawa (Japanese); Xanthe Huynh (English) Ui is Yui's younger sister, who begins the story as a third-year high school next year in the same class as Azusa. [10] Unlike her older sister, Ui is mature, responsible and copes well with housework.
Despite these differences, Ui shares a very strong relationship with Yui and has great love and admiration for his older sister complex. [8] [50] Yui is particularly well cared for and seeks to take care of even at risk to her own health. [18] [19] Ui is considered the ultimate groupie for his sister's band and supports them wholeheartedly. She occasionally provides a story to the story. [43] Despite being a year younger than Yui, she is almost identical to her older sister with downed hair and is even able to fool members of the light music club on a number of occasions. [11] [51] However, Sawako Yamanaka can easily belittle Yui and Ui, saying that 'their bust sizes are completely different'. Ui is a fast learner, able to learn to play guitar after only a few days of training. [11] [52] She is also able to play the organ if necessary. [43] [53]
He eventually joins the light music club along with Juno at the end of the series, becoming a guitarist like his sister, [44] playing Surf Green Fender Stratocaster Electric Guitar. Ui becomes fascinated by Sumire's sisterly relationship with Tsumuqi after learning about her. because Ui considers her very similar to her feelings for Yua. [35] Nodoka Manabe (真鍋 和, Manabe Nodoka) Voice: Chika Fujitō (Japanese); Laura Bailey (English) Nodoka is Yui's childhood friend and trusted figure who is a member of the school's student council. As a normal, decent and intelligent girl, she is generally taken aback by the strange behaviour of a light music club, and easily annoys with Ritsu whenever she forgets to fill out the club's application forms. [7] [15] She shares the same class as Mio in their sophomore year, who highly appreciates her companionship, she is the only person Mio knows in her class. [54] In his third year, he replaced Megumi Sokabe as student council president of the Mio supporters' club (after a while), the latter at Megumi's request. In his third year, he shares a class with the rest of Hokago Tea Time. Nodoka chooses to go to a national university as opposed to the same college as Yui and others. Nodoka is named after guitarist Yoshiaki Manabe of japanese rock band The Pillows. [49] Jun Suzuki (鈴木 純, Suzuki Jun) Voice: Yoriko Nagata (Japanese); Michelle Ann Dunphy (English) Jun is a girl on departure and a friend and classmate of Azusa and Uia since before they joined the Light Music Club. Ui initially tried to find Juno to join the light music club, but ultimately failed because of a strange visit to the club room. [10] [46] Thanks to this experience, Jun stayed in the jazz club.
instead. While yamaha Sbv500 bass was playing there. [43] Jun became one of Mio's fans because they both play bass. [55] [56] Jun begins to regret not joining the light music club when she hears about all the activities they do and eventually joins the light music club at the end of the series. She tried to play guitar, but she didn't feel it suited her. [57] She an older brother named Atsushi who also plays bass and regularly gives Jun lessons. Jun disgraced herself when the Light Music Club found out she was taking these lessons because she felt it harmed her image as a person who could learn an instrument on their own. Jun owns a pet cat in the anime series. Sumire Saitō Sumire is a shy blonde who meets Azusa, Ui and Jun after Yui and others graduate. She's a freshman, two years below the other members of the light music club. [51] She currently works in the Kotobuki household as a maid and originally came to the light music room to try to retrieve Tsumugi's kettle left over after graduating. After Sawako scared her several times, she eventually agrees to enter the light music club and eventually becomes her drummer. Similar to Tsumuga, she is quite talented at making tea, but feels inclined to keep her role as a maid secret from others for fear of being punished by Tsumugi. [38] As her family, who came from Austria (Australia in Manga), before she was born, Sumire grew up as Tsumugi's playmate, often regarded her as an older sister and inadvertently piqued Tsumugi's interest in yuri by introducing her to the mango of the genre. As she grew older and learned the truth about the relationship between the two families, Sumire felt that Tsumugija should be considered with more respect while in public. Sawako reveals that Tsumugi asked for tea sets to be left in the club room. Before the start of the new term, however, Tsumugi asked Sumira to remove the tea sets, ensuring that Sumire came across other members of the light music club and would be invited to join. Sumire's situation is revealed to the surprise of other club members by Sawako. Sumire is using her close ties to the Kotobuki family to make the most of her largest villa by the sea for her first summer training camp with a light music club. [45] Nao Okuda (奥田 直, Okuda Nao) Another freshman in the same class as Sumire. Generally poor in physical activity, Nao goes through several test runs through various clubs before deciding to join a light music club, as he feels he can do his best there. [38] Like Kanji on her behalf, she is overly honest about her shortcomings. After reading music theory, he eventually has an advanced knowledge of music, but does not have the ability to play physically. However, when introduced to music-making software, he decides to become the band's producer. She is the oldest of the five siblings in her family.
[59] When she was in her first training camp with the Wakaba Girls, Nao wrote the lyrics for the band's first song, titled Answer. She wrote the song to reflect Azusa's misconceptions about her role as president of the Light Music Club. Okuda (film) to monitor all the conversations and behaviors of her bandmate by entering her observations into her computer, so in her lyrics she was able to describe Azusa's exact feelings. [45] Akira Wada Akira) A new character featured in a rebooted manga that is in a band called OnNaGumi (恩那組, On Na-gumi, Gang of Girls) with his friends Ayama and Sachi. Akira joins the university's Light Music Club along with Yui and her friends. She has short black hair and often looks scary whenever her hair is messy. She's studying in the education department along with Yui. It easily irritates her to some extent, but she finds herself in a similar position to Azusa from high school because Yui seems to enjoy hugging her. She originally had longer hair in high school, but when a boy she admired accused her band of being popular only because of their sweetness, she decided to cut her hair and vowed to become popular through talent. [60] She plays an ebony Gibson Les Paul Custom electric guitar that she nicknames Rosalie. Sachi Hayashi (林幸, Hayashi Sachi) One of Akiki's friends, who has long hair. She's the Bassist of OnNaGumi and she's in the same department as Mio.
[61] She is taller than Mio, and easily embarrassed by his height if anyone mentions it. [27] Ayame Yoshida (吉田 菖, Yoshida Ayame) Another of Akit's friends, who has short blonde hair. She's OnNaGumi's drummer and she's in the same department as Ritsu. [61] Because of their similarities, Ayame and Ritsu become friends very quickly. [28] Ayame tends to follow the latest fashion trends, and has done so since high school. [27] Kana Yoshii President of J. Women's University's Light Music Club who has a cute look but is generally obsessed with things like money and looks youthful and can put out a meathing aura when she becomes passionate about any of them. She was once in a popular band with Hirose even though she retired upon entering college because wearing school uniforms would be considered silly at their age. However, Kana is still obsessed with school uniforms. [62] Chiyo Hirose Upperclassman in a light music club that was once in a band with Kano. [62] Megumi Sokabe Megumi) Voice: Asumi Kodama (Japanese); Amanda C. Miller (English) Megumi is a former student council president and founder of the Mio Fan Club (with a nodok that became her successor in both positions). Mio stalked over the last few days in high school because she wanted to see Mia one more time. The band is offering her a song as a graduation present. Megumi becomes a good friend of Ritsu's through unspecified circumstances to Mia's surprise. It also helps Rits and Yua with university entrance exams by giving them their old exam workbooks. [63] She goes to the same woman's university where Yui and her friends later enroll and live in the same like them. [64] Shuffle characters Yukari Sakuma (佐久間 紫, Sakuma Yukari) Protagonist K-On! Shuffle, Yukari is a first-year student and aspiring drummer who decides to join a music club after watching a light music club at Sakuragaoka High School. [65] She chooses to play drums while enjoying loud noises.
Yukari has a sister, Kurumi, who attends another school. Kaede Shimizu (清水 楓, Shimizu Kaede) Yukari's childhood friend. She decided to play bass after seeing Mio's wardrobe malfunction at a performance at sakuragaoka high school's light music club. Maho Sawabe (澤部 真帆, Sawabe Maho) Yukari and Kaede's classmate who sits between them and is part of the Basketball Club. Against her will, she was drawn into the Society for the Appreciation of Light Music; Despite being a member of another club, Yukari points out that school rules allow students to be both in the club and in the company of appreciation. [65] [68] She is the guitarist of the Appreciation Society. Riko Satō (佐藤 莉子, Satō Riko) So far, Riko is the only member of the Society for the Appreciation of Light Music after previous members graduated or left. [65] Although she claims to have never played an instrument, she is adept at playing technique and musical theory. [67] [69] Media Manga K-On! Began as a four-way manga comic book written and illustrated by Kakifly. Manga was originally serialised in Houbunsha's Manga Time magazine Kirara manga between the
