Tinder plus vs tinder gold vs tinder platinum

It's been a while since you were the last bachelor, and now the dating landscape is completely different. Which way are you scanning? How much information do you put in a profile? There are catfish and trolls and ghosts and it all sounds scary and too overwhelming to deal with. On the other hand, everyone you know is on the apps at this point, and every stigma that once existed around online dating has long since disappeared. The video above is full of useful information to get stress and guesswork out of the process, but here are some of our favorites: Limit your time to drag in the morning when your mind is clearer. Post several photos, including candid of yourself with other people (and bonus points for photos with your mother). Choose a garment as the specified first-date outfit so you don't have to worry about what you're wearing for each date you continue. (This tip also plays on my patented system for having the same first date routine each time, but this is a more advanced step.) Check out the video above for more tips, and remember that there are many fish in the sea. Tinder, the swipe-tastic dating app, has just launched a new subscription tier called Tinder Gold for iOS. But what the hell is it? And how is it different from the existing Tinder Plus? If you've ever been on a horrible first date but felt compelled to stick out until the end, this... Read moreTinder is free for anyone to use, but their premium subscription plans can get a little confusing. Tinder Plus, for example, gives you: Rewind: You can undo any scan you've done. Ideally, this feature allows you to drag someone who has accidentally been removed forever so that there are no lost connections. But really, you'll probably use this to go the other way as you wonder, what was I thinking? Passport: You can change your location and scan people living in another area. If you travel a lot this could be useful for setting dates in advance. It can also help you lie and convince people you live elsewhere if you're across the terrible person scene. Unlimited Likes: You can use a lot I like (the symbol of the heart). Some would say an unlimited amount. Extra Super I like: Five per day. Super Lks is when you drag someone up. It allows them to know that super like them and they are desperate for their attention. The really weird thing about Tinder Plus, though, is the pricing structure. Depending on the where you live and how old you are, you pay more or less. If you're 28 or younger and live in a developing nation, Tinder Plus could cost you as little as $3 a month. But if you're older and living somewhere more developed, it could cost you $20 a month or more. The screenshot shown above is Tinder's current top in-app purchases in the iOS App Store. As you can see, Tinder Plus has five different price lists, ranging from $2.99 all the way up to The most common is the $9.99 plan that is for people 28 or younger in the U.S., and the second most common is the $19.99 plan for people 28 or older. Have a night out with your friends? Tinder's new feature, Tinder Social, makes it easier to connect Read more: Tinder co-founder explained controversial pricing plan at TechCrunch 2015: Our intention is to provide a discount for our younger users... It's not necessarily about optimizing for the dollars we bring in. It's about optimizing for the number of people we can bring in. If I live in an emerging country or somewhere with an emerging economy, I can't afford to pay as much as someone who lives in the U.S. There are some things we need to look at. Okay, what about the new kid on the block, Tinder Gold? Basically, it has what Tinder Plus has and more including: Monthly Boost: This allows you to skip the line and become one of the most viewed profiles on your site for 30 minutes. More profile controls: Maybe filter who gets to see your card or something? This is not clearly defined. You like feature: The big draw on Tinder Gold. This feature lets you see who has passed you right, so you can choose from the people you like. You get these new features in addition to everything you'll get with Tinder Plus for the monthly fee of $4.99 a month. So yes, Tinder Gold is basically a cheaper upgrade for anyone who used Tinder Plus. Tinder hasn't said whether Gold is supposed to completely replace Plus in the long run, but there doesn't seem to be any reason to use Tinder Plus anymore-especially with this strange pricing system. The Verge reports that Tinder Gold will be available on Android devices by next month. Platinum, gold and black credit cards are often considered premium options with Privileges. However, this depends to a large extent on the card issuer. Some cards, such as the Platinum Wells Fargo card at no annual charge, bear the premium name and do not have special privileges and privileges. On the other hand, American Express, Mastercard and some other providers have designed platinum, gold and black cards for people who are big spenders. These cards have high annual fees and interest rates is one step above standard offers. They offer features such as higher credit limits, more reward points and a huge range of free extras. Learn more about the benefits and costs of these three premium options so you can find a card that's right for you. The difference between these cards depends to a large extent on the card issuer. Consider the following questions to find options that work for you. How often do you use your credit card? These cards have high annual fees and are intended for large spenders. If it's not you, a card without an annual fee could be a better option. How much do you spend on your credit card? A card? you are thinking of a rewards option, you need to make sure that the value of the points you earn outweighs the cost of the annual fee. How many premium card features will you actually use? Be realistic about the benefits you'll use, so you can find a card that provides value based on your spending habits and circumstances. Do you have a credit card balance? You could end up paying hundreds of dollars in interest and fees each year if you have a balance using a gold, platinum or black card, as most have high standard interest rates. If you don't use a credit card often, you might want to consider a low APR option instead. Do you have an excellent credit history and credit score? These credit cards all require good to excellent credit history. If you have black marks on your credit file, such as late payments or defaults, you may not be eligible to apply for a gold, platinum or black credit card. If you have an excellent credit score, high income and plan to use additional perks, platinum, gold or black cards can be a solid choice. However, if you think the annual fee is too high or if you have other options in mind, compare other credit cards to find something that is right for you. In general, you will need a positive credit history. Amex Black Centurion is the only card that is invitation only. You will need to spend more than $250,000 a year and have a high annual income to own that card. When you apply for the credit card, most issuers will let you know if your application has been approved or rejected within a minute. If you receive a pending response, it means that the bank needs to spend more time evaluating your application. In this case, you can usually expect an answer within a week.
